FAMILY OF FOUR SLAIN AND THEIR HOME SET ON FIRE

Farmer, His Wife and Two Children at Barnard, Mo., Were Shot to Death After They Had Retired for the Night—Neighbors Find Charred Bodies.

FATHER EVIDENTLY HAD HARD STRUGGLE

Indications Are That He Was Killed Outside the House and His Body Dragged Within—The Babies Were Killed in Their Bed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARYVILLE, Mo., Nov. 21.—Oda Hubbell, his wife and their two small children were murdered in their country home two miles east of Barnard in this county Sunday night. An effort was made to conceal the crime by burning the house.

Hezekiah Roscoe of Barnard was arrested in connection with the crime. The evidence against Roscoe is purely circumstantial. He is the man, it is said, with whom Hubbell played poker when he won $300.

Pistol shots were heard by neighbors in the vicinity of the Hubbell home at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Some hours later James Lett, on his way home from church, discovered the Hubbell home on fire.

Calling the assistance of neighbors, efforts were made to put out the fire, and at this time the bodies were discovered, with evidence that murder had been committed.

The house was a four-room frame structure facing the north. In the kitchen at the south side on the floor near the door the body of Hubbell was discovered. In an adjoining room, under the telephone, which was on the east wall, was the wife, while in a front room adjoining the living room were the two children in bed. The structure had been so far consumed by the flames that the bodies were charred beyond recognition and only professional examination disclosed the manner of death.

Farmer Had Grumbled.

Blood outside the kitchen door indicated that Hubbell had been called outside and killed and his body dragged within.

The wife, hearing the commotion, had evidently rushed to the telephone to call help and was killed while at the telephone. Then the children were hunted up and shot in thier bed.

Bloodhounds have been obtained to trace the murderer. Hubbell and his wife were 30 years old, their children were Jessie, 6, and Welton, 4 years old. The farm where they lived belonged to Mrs. Hubbell's mother, Mrs. Delia Miller of Maryville.

WAIT A MINUTE, CHAUFFEUR OF RENTED AUTO IS TOLD

Sextette, However, Never Came Back to Settle 19 Hours Joy Riding Bill.

Six joy riders ran up a bill of $68 in a hired automobile, toured the lid clubs of St. Louis and East St. Louis, damaged the machine to the extent of $55 and then deserted the auto without settling their bill.

The machine is the property of F. M. Baldwin of 1618 Market street, and is one of the "sight-seeing" variety. The chauffeur, William Hill, was summoned to Social Turner Hall at 1 a. m. Sunday. "This is Mr. Spalding of Spalding avenue," said a man's voice, which summoned the auto by telephone. "I want you to carry a party of six. Send your best turnout."

When Hill pulled up in front of the Turner Hall six young men entered the conveyance, after directing him to drive across the bridge. From 1 a. m. until 7 p. m. Sunday the sextette visited as many as 10 drink emporiums, and when they concluded the journey at Twenty-first and Olive streets they told Hill to wait a minute. They disappeared around a corner and Hill, after waiting an hour, told the police of what had happened.

ATTORNEY W. B. THOMPSON IS KNOCKED DOWN BY AN AUTO

Injured by Motor Car as He Starts Into Entrance of the St. Louis Club.

W. B. Thompson, a lawyer, was hurt in an automobile accident at Olive street and St. Louis Club alley Monday. Thompson stepped from an Olive car and started into the club by the alley entrance. He was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Ollie Garrison of 5746 Von Versen avenue.

The left side of his head was cut and bruised and his knee was hurt. Garrison took him in his automobile to the office of Dr. Lee A. Will, Taylor avenue and Olive street, where his injuries were dressed. Then Garrison took him to the St. Louis Club.

NEGRO PORTER IS SHOT IN QUARREL ABOUT POOR FIRE

Irving J. Denecke, bartender for his stepfather at 2719 North Broadway, fired five shots Monday afternoon at Gus Laws, negro porter there, three of them entering his abdomen and side. The negro is said to be dying at the city hospital.

Denecke complained that the saloon was cold and asked the negro why he didn't have a better fire. The negro said the fire was as good as he could make.

"The stove don't draw," Denecke replied. "The pipes ought to be cleaned."

"What do you know about it?" the negro retorted. "You'd better mind your own business."

Epithets were passed and the negro advanced toward the bar, according to witnesses, with a knife. Denecke took the revolver from a drawer behind the bar and emptied it.

Denecke was taken to the North Market Police Station. He is 30 years old and lives above the saloon.

TOO MUCH ARDOR BRINGS SUITOR TO THE POLICE COURT

For four years Miss Gerda Ruth remained engaged to John Bruenner, she told Judge Kleiber Monday, although he insisted upon sleeping on her porch every few nights and awaking her at 3 a. m. for a last fond farewell, and upon distracting her with tender phrases each day while she was making sales at a department store counter.

But when he tried to break in the door of her home, 915 Koeln avenue, Sunday night, and threatened to set the house on fire unless she permitted him another good-by, she had him arrested for disturbing her peace.

Judge Kleiner fined Bruenner $23, including $3 costs, after hearing Miss Ruth's story. She relented, and asked the Court to remit the fine, on condition that Bruenner would promise never to speak to her again. He took the vow of silence and was released after paying the costs.

A few minutes later the girl rushed back into court and exclaimed that Bruenner was waiting for her outside and looked as if he wanted to speak to her. A policeman accompanied her to the street, but her former sweetheart had vanished. She was instructed to apply for a summons charging disturbance of the peace if he molested her. Bruenner lives at 8120 Alabama avenue.

DINNER WITH A MARRIED MAN NO BREACH OF PEACE

Judge Discharges R. H. Adams and Mrs. Adler, Who Was Attacked.

WIFE WAS NOT HELD

Judge Tracy Reverses Himself in the Famous Lord Barrington Decision.

Judge Tracy decided Monday that Robert H. Adams and Mrs. Marie Adler, by dining together in a restaurant near Union Station, were not guilty of conduct tending to provoke a breach of the peace, although a breach of the peace occurred when, as they left the restaurant, Mrs. Nettie Adams attacked Mrs. Adler and tried to tear his Billie Burke hat to pieces.

In releasing Adams and Mrs. Adler, Judge Tracy overruled Lieut. Singleton of the Central District Police Station. Singleton had directed that they, and not the assailant, be sent to police court under peace disturbance charges, although a policeman reported that Mrs. Adams struck the first blow before the other woman had spoken to her. Capt. Schwartz later indorsed the Lieutenant's action.

Mrs. Adler wore the Billie Burke hat, only slightly damaged, when she marched jauntily into court Monday. She wore the blue suit and dark blue cloak, and the heavy gold chain, which were the principal items of her costume when Mrs. Adams saw her leaving a train with Adams Saturday evening

Eyes Flash at Wife.

She carried a gold-mesh purse, and her eyes flashed at the wife who had caused her to be arraigned.

Neither she nor Adams would make any statement in response to the questions of Assistant City Attorney King, and Mrs. Adams had to tell the whole story. She said she lived in Granite City.

"My husband has been working in Quincy," she said, "and I had heard that he had been seen in St. Louis Sundays, though he had written me that he was too busy to come home at the end of the week. I knew that the train which he would take reached the St. Louis Union Station at 6:50, so Saturday evening I was there wating to see if he would come.

Trailed by Wife.

"Sure enough, he got off the train. He was alone, but when he got to the gate he stopped and waited, and that woman (pointing at Mrs. Adler) joined him. I had never seen her before. They went to a restaurant across the street, and I followed them. They took a table and remained there an hour. Fifteen minutes of that time they were upstairs together.

"When they came out, I went up to them and said to the woman, 'What are you doing with my husband?' I didn't stop to wait for an answer, but I struck her and pushed her."

"And she didn't strike you?" asked Judge Tracy.

"No," admitted Mrs. Adams.

"Defendants are discharged," said Judge Tracy. "The mere fact of their being together was not a breach of the peace. Whatever breach of the peace there was was in your own action."

Called Him Bob.

A policeman who preceded the wife on the stand told how Mrs. Adler said "Bob, I'm sorry I got you into this trouble." The Assistant City Attorney suggested that the use of the man's first name by another woman was, to the wife, provocation for a breach of the peace, but this did not impress the Court.

Mrs. Adler hurried away from the courtroom, saying that she feared Mrs. Adams would follow her. She said she was staying with friends on Texas avenue. Adams beckoned to his wife, and they went away together.

Capt. Schwartz, in explaining the reason for charging the husband and his companion, rather than the wife, with disturbing the peace, said Monday:

"The ordinance against disturbing the peace includes conduct calculated to provoke a breach of the peace. If Mrs. Adams did not have provocation for a breach of the peace in seeing another woman accompany her husband to dinner, and in hearing her call him by his first name, I hardly know what would be considered provocation. To have sent the wife to court as a defendant would have been adding insult to her injury."

Unlike Barrington Ruling.

In the Lord Barrington case more than seven years ago Judge Tracy decided that Barrington, who had been kicked down a flight of stairs without having lifted a finger in resistance, was guilty of conduct provoking a breach of the peace, in that he had married the sister of his assailant under false pretenses.

Judge Tracy imposed a six months' workhouse sentence on Barrington, whom the Mayor later released. When Judge Tracy was asked Monday whether he considered the Adams-Adler decision in accord with his action in the Barrington case, he declined to make the comparison.

4-YEAR-OLD GIRL DIES AFTER HER CLOTHING BURNS

Matches Set Fire to Garments on Her Way Home From a Candy Store.

COUSIN GIVES ALARM

Aunt Suffers Severe Injury in Effort to Beat Out the Flames.

A few minutes after 4-year-old Alice Stancil and her cousin, Virgie Riley, of the same age, had gone out together to share a bag of candy, little Virgie rushed into her mother's home at 2500 Brannon avenue, crying: "Alice is afire!"

Mrs. W. F. Riley, Virgie's mother, hurried from the house and saw her niece standing on the sidewalk at Reber place and Brannon avenue, her dress and her long hair ablaze. She rushed toward her, and reached her just ahead of Thomas Holland, a neighbor.

After Mrs. Riley had burned her hands severely in trying to beat out the flames Holland threw his coat around the little girl. The fire was put out, and the child, conscious and calling for her mother, was sent to the city hospital. She died there at 9 p. m. Sunday, after six hours of suffering.

Alice's mother, Mrs. Martha Stancil, was called in time to reach the little girl before her removal to the hospital. She accompanied her to the hospital, and after the girl's death was removed to the home of her sister, Mrs. Riley, in a state of exhaustion and hysteria.

Mrs. Stancil is employed at household washing, and Mrs. Riley in a tobacco factory. Each had two children, and it was their custom to employ an older child to stay with the four at the Riley house while they were at their work.

Sunday was their only day with the children, and they were enjoying it to the fullest. Alice Stancil played with her 7-year-old brother, Herbert, in their mother's one-room home, 5332 Reber place, during the morning, and in the afternoon asked her mother for money to buy candy; that she might treat her little cousin, Virgie.

Mrs. Stancil gave her a nickel, and she went to her aunt's house and got little Virgie. The two children started back from the store together. How Alice got the matches with which she was playing on her way home, neither her cousin nor the storekeeper could explain.

KIRKWOOD NIGHT WATCHMAN IS SHOT WITH HIS OWN REVOLVER

Weapon Accidentally Discharged When He Runs to Turn in Fire Alarm.

Benjamin House, recently appointed night marshal at Kirkwood, shot himself in the jaw by the accidental discharge of his revolver Saturday night. Monday he was unable to chew his food or to speak distinctly.

House was running to turn in an alarm for a fire at the plant of the Kirkwood Ice and Fuel Co., when, in passing between two wagons, he tripped and fell. His revolver was discharged, and the bullet entered his cheek, injuring his jaw, and then grazed his scalp.

When a man ran up to offer assistance, House told him, as well as he was able, to turn in the fire alarm first. The man did so and the fire was extinguished without great damage.

GIRL WHO CHARGES TAXI DRIVER WITH TRYING TO EMBRACE HER

MISS RUTH NEIL.

GIRL DECLARES CHAUFFEUR TRIED TO EMBRACE HER

Miss Ruth Neil Says When She Tried to Hit Him He Had Her Arrested.

Skill in boxing is not as reliable a defense for a woman as a hatpin, Miss Ruth Neil, 22 years old and pretty, told the police Monday at the Clark Avenue Police Station. She was arraigned on a charge of refusing to pay cab fare, but the prosecuting witness, William Kehoe, a chauffeur, did not appear. After hearing the girl's story, Assistant City Attorney King urged her to obtain a summons charging Kehoe with disorderly conduct. She declined, saying that she had had enough notoriety.

"I want someone to give me a big, strong hatpin for a Christmas present," she exclaimed. "Then I shall be able to protect myself.

"I engaged a taxicab Sunday, telling Kehoe, the chauffeur, before we started, that I would pay him with a check, as I had little money with me and the banks were closed. He agreed. A woman friend and I rode about for four hours. I took her home and told Kehoe to drive me to the Jefferson Hotel, where I was living.

Knows How to Box.

"At Theresa avenue Kehoe stopped the machine, said that something was broken and pretended to search for tools inside the taxi. Then he tried to embrace me.

"My brother is in the army and is an expert boxer. We sparred together frequently. But before I could spring from the machine and get in a blow, the chauffeur, who was twice my size, smashed my hat.

"Then a policeman ran up, and Kehoe had me arrested. I offered him my check for $16, which was his fare, but he refused to take it. My father is a rich manufacturer in San Francisco, and I have an account at the Mississippi Valley Trust Co."

Miss Neil appeared in court in a blue dress and blue velvet turban, which matched her eyes. She was accompanied by a well-dressed young man who declined to tell his name. They stood outside the courtroom until the case was called, Miss Neil said her heart was going pit-a-pat.

After her arrest the girl became hysterical and was sent to the city hospital. On her recovery, court attaches say, she deposited a cash bond for her appearance in police court. Kehoe lives at 3724 Finney avenue. He told the police that he was forbidden by his employers to accept checks.

CHAUFFEUR PINNED UNDER HIS MACHINE WHEN AXLE IS BROKEN

Alexander Lewis, a chauffeur, was pinned beneath his taxicab when the rear axle broke as he was making a sharp turn at the north approach to the Franklin Bridge on the Grand Drive in Forest Park Sunday morning. Thomas Peeper, another chauffeur who was with Lewis, escaped injury.

Robert Valler of 4362 Washington boulevard, who was driving through the park, assisted Peeper in extricating Lewis and took him to St. Luke's Hospital. Lewis' left arm was broken and his head was cut.

Lewis is 34 years old and is employed by the Columbia Taxicab Co. He lives with his wife at 934 Rutger street. He was later taken to his home. His condition is serious.

Postal Authorities Raid Office, Seizing Men and Papers, Charging That Immense Amount of Stock in Companies That Went Out of Business Was Sold.

RAIDS ARE EXPECTED IN SEVERAL CITIES

Postmaster-General Hitchcock, in Memorandum, Says That Most of Money Received for Stocks Went to Burr Bros.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Federal officials this afternoon raided the offices occupied by Burr Bros., a corporation dealing in stocks and other securities.

The raid was made on warrants charging the use of the mails to defraud investors.

Postoffice officials say that the concern has sold to investors at par value about $50,000,000 of stock in various companies, most of which have gone out of existence or become bankrupt.

The warrants were issued by United States Commissioner Shields and officers of the corporation were arrested and its books and papers seized. The raid was planned by Postoffice Inspector Warren W. Dickson, in charge of this district, and Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock and Robert S. Sharpe, Chief Postoffice Inspector, who came here from Washington to see that it was carried out successfully.

Many Complaints Made.

The officers arrested were Sheldon C. Burr, president; Frank H. Tobey, vice-president, and Eugene H. Burr, secretary and treasurer. Arrests are expected to be made in Cleveland, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, where the corporation has extensive offices.

Postoffice officials have been working on the case for months. Hundreds of complaints have been made by investors who charge they have been swindled through false representations made concerning the profits that were being realized by those who put their money into the various oil, timber, copper, lead, zinc and gold companies.

Before criminal action could be taken postoffice inspectors had to get legal evidence as to the standing and affairs of the various companies which the Burr brothers were promoting. This inquiry necessitated visits by experts to mines and other properties in distant parts of the country.

After the raid Postmaster-General Hitchcock gave out an official memorandum concerning the Burr Bros., which was organized several years ago and in 1907 was incorporated with a capital of $100,000, later increased to $300,000. The memorandum states that among other companies the Burr Bros. are selling the stock of the Buick Oil Co., a concern with $5,000,000 capital.

Some of the Companies.

The memorandum further states that they also have organized the following oil companies:

"Carolina Consolidated, capitalized at $1,000,000.

"Coalinga Alladin, capitalized at $1,000,000.

"Kern-Western, capitalized at $750,000.

"New York-Coalinga, capitalized at $500,000.

"Coalinga Crude Oil, capitalized at $400,000.

"People's Associated Oil Co., capitalized at $1,000,000.

"All the stock in these companies has been sold except a portion of the two first named, and the greater portion of the money evidently has gone into the hands of Burr brothers, incorporated. While all the companies are still in existence, none save the first four named is doing any work at the present time.

Most of the Stock Sold.

The Burr Bros. also have organized, promoted and sold the stock in the following mine companies:

"Rawhide Tarantula, capital $1,000,000.

"Montezuma Mining and Smelting, capital $1,000,000.

"Golden Fleece Mining, Milling and Refining Co., capital $500,000.

"Practically the entire stock in these companies has been sold to the public, and at the present time all have gone out of existence.

"The Burr Bros. also have organized, promoted and sold the stock of the following companies:

"Ellsmere Farm of Michigan.

BOSS' STOGIES HURT FINNIGAN'S FEELINGS, HE SAYS

Author Resents His Arrest as a Fenian and Plans Suit for $500 More.

Joseph Ignatius Finnigan is going to play a double-header. In addition to his suit against the National Game Publishing Co. for compensation as the author of a history of baseball, he is preparing to sue for $500 more for injury to his feelings while he was writing the book.

As in his first suit, the defendants will be Al H. Spink, Michael Cullinane and John T. Hunt.

"I'll go into court and tell about being arrested in Chicago as a Fenian," said Finnigan Monday. "I had an arrangement with the triumvirate by which I was to economize by using a telegraph code while I was collecting material for the book.

"In this code the signal of distress was 'Hold on, Cork. Kerry's coming.' That was a cry at the Battle of the Boyne, but by which side I don't know.

"When Al Spink took me to Chicago, Cullinane and Hunt accompanied me to Union Station. With tears in their eyes they begged me to take good care of myself until the book was finished and the last word they said was: 'If Spink don't treat you right wire us for help.'

Rode Back on Tender.

"I lost Spink, or he lost me, in Chicago, and after I had slept for three nights in the elevator at the Great Northern Hotel I sent the distress signal. The message looked so queer to the operator that he notified the police. Detective Rohan hurried to the hotel and I had a hard time convincing him that I was merely an author and not a Fenian plotter.

"Cullinane and Hunt didn't send me any money, though, and I had to ride back to St. Louis with the engineer. He didn't know I was with him, either. I was in the tender.

"I see Cullinane says he didn't know I was writing the book. Why, I made my headquarters at his office. Cullinane, through his connection with this famous history of baseball, hoped to be made official undertaker of both big leagues. That would have put him in line for the contract to bury the Browns and the Cardinals.

Had to Smoke His Stogies.

"One cause of action in my suit for damages will be that while writing the book I had to smoke Hunt's Mexican stogies. He got them from the Mexican Ambassador while he was in Congress and he came to the undertaker's office every day and watched me smoke them. He would take my copy from me as fast as I turned it out and read it aloud to the hearse drivers. They all said it was fine.

"What they have already paid me for writing the book was at the rate of $2.50 a week. I made more than that as a bundle boy 25 years ago. I paid Miss Catherine Hanrahan, stenographer, $15 a week to transcribe the 400,000 words of the book.

"In addition to writing it I acted as canvasser. I sold 50 copies to Herman Baider, baseball fan, and I sold 10 to Prof. Bill Clark. When he saw the title, 'The National Game,' he thought it was all about cricket."

A youth who said he was Louis Brady, 19 years old, was charged with shooting.

MEXICAN RIOTERS SHOT BY TROOPS; 100 TO 500 DEAD

Zacatecas, 500 Miles From Border of United States. Scene of Slaughter When Company of Soldiers Fires and Leaves Bodies Lying in the Street.

UPRISINGS IN OTHER TOWNS ARE REPORTED

Madero, Reputed Revolutionary Leader, Slips Over Line and Gen. Reyes, Is Reported to Be Returning From Exile in France.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—A regiment of infantry was rushed to Orizaba in the State of Vera Cruz early today in response to an urgent appeal from the authorities there for protection from rebellious workmen.

By Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 21.—From 100 to 500 persons were killed in riots which took place at Zacatecas in the interior of Mexico, Saturday night, according to reports received here this morning. Soldiers fired into a struggling body of rioters, with disastrous effect.

The American Consul at Zacatecas telegraphed the first news of the riots to the Mexican Consul at San Antonio, declaring that that town was in a state of terror, and that the loss of life was not less than 100. No details were given other than that a company of soldiers was ordered to fire upon a vast crowd of rioters which thronged the streets.

Dead Left in Street.

Zacatecas is the capital of the State of Zacatecas, and is about 500 miles from the United States border. It is about 500 miles northwest of Mexico City. News of the riot did not reach the outside world until late Sunday, although the battle took place Saturday night.

It is asserted that quiet has now been restored by placing the city under rigid military rules.

The latest reports are that the dead still are lying in the streets, where they fell.

A dispatch from Del Rio, Tex., on the Mexican border, 250 miles east of here, says that rumors are current there of a fight which is supposed to have taken place near there early last night between Americans and Mexicans.

Reports that bands of Mexicans had crossed the river at different points cannot be verified.

Rumors of an Invasion.

County officers and United States river guards assert they have no positive information of trouble, but have heard rumors of an invasion and attack at different points.

It is reported that riots have taken place at Alnieze, 70 miles south, in Mexico, and that several persons were killed there.

TROOPS CONTROL AFTER A BATTLE

Outbreak in Village of Guerrero, 50 Miles From Texas Border.

By Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 21.—Fighting occurred at Guerrero, Mexico, Sunday. Reports reaching Laredo are that an outbreak took place in that village, in the State of Coahuila, and that the Federal troops are in control tonight, exercising martial law. No information can be obtained as to whether there were any casualties.

Guerrero is about 50 miles from Cotulla, Tex., in a western direction, and is in the district to which Francisco I. Madero, the alleged revolutionary leader, was making his way when he wast last seen in Texas. The Madero estates lie in that part of Mexico.

No further word has been had of Madero himself and it is presumed that he slipped through the cordon of American officers which, it is reported, had been thrown out to effect his arrest and was somewhere in the neighborhood of Guerrero when the fray occurred.

Quiet has prevailed today in the Laredo territory.

REYES LIKELY TO HEAD REVOLUTION

General, Once Friend of Diaz, Reported to Be Returning From Exile.

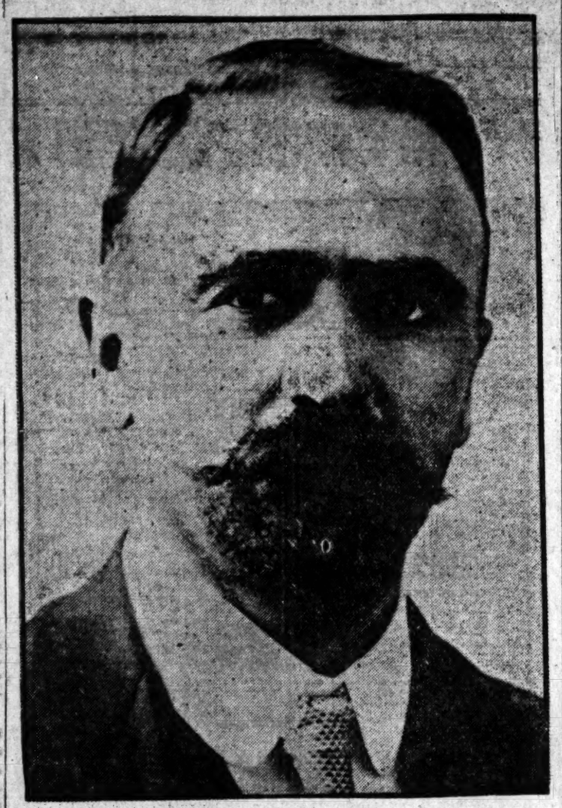

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Nov. 21.—"Gen. Bernardo Reyes is coming."

This is the whisper which has gone with telegraphic swiftness up and down the Rio Grande. If it is true, and many Mexicans assert that it is, it means that the revolutionists have at their head a man superior in military training to any other man in Mexico, not even excepting President Diaz himself.

Gen. Bernardo Reyes, once a business friend of President Diaz, now is said to be an exile from his country. He was sent a year ago to Paris, France, on an alleged military mission. Since then no word has come from him until today.

It was reported among the Mexicans

LEADER WHO ELUDED TROOPS AND HAS SLIPPED BACK INTO MEXICO

that he had started for New York and would reach Eagle Pass within 10 days. Reyes was Governor of the State of Nuevo Leon, the hotbed of revolution in Mexico. During the last campaign for President of Mexico some of his admirers proposed his name as Vice-President. Subsequent events appeared to prove that Reyes, while avowing perfect amity and friendship for Diaz, was plotting his downfall.

Then it was that the stirring events in May, 1909, occurred. Reyes was surrounded by troops and was, to all intents and purposes, a prisoner. He repaired to Mexico City, where he was sent on the foreign mission. Adherents of Gen. Reyes openly assert that he is now foot loose and they allege he has a strong following in all parts of the Republic.

2000 MEN CROSS MEXICAN BORDER

Some of Them Unarmed, While Others Have Guns and Ammunition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 21.—Nearly 2000 Mexicans are known to have crossed the border into Mexico last night and today, confirming the rumors that the revolutionary party is carrying out well-defined plans in the movement against the present administration.

Many of these men, unarmed, crossed the Rio Grande through the regular gateways—El Paso, Laredo, Brownsville and Eagle Pass—for there is no law against Mexicans returning to their own country, but many others, carrying arms, passed over at isolated points, where the river is low.

One party of 10, carrying a supply of guns and ammunition, evaded the American officers on the border and got into Mexico Friday night, secreting themselves until Saturday night, when they attempted to continue their journey inland. They were detected and pursued by Rurales several miles, and all but three were captured, with their guns and ammunition.

MISSOURI MAN IS SLAIN IN MEXICO

Mining Expert's Body Found Week After Being Shot From Ambush.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Nov. 21.—The body of John R. Lockhart, an American mining man, was found near a road in the vicinity of Palmarito, State of Durango, last Thursday, according to a special dispatch to El Imparcial. It is believed by the authorities that Lockhart had been dead a week.

No arrests have been made, but the dispatch said it was generally believed that some person holding a grudge against Lockhart fired upon him from ambush.

Lockhart lived for many years in Durango and was well known in Northern Mexico. His home was formerly in Stotts City, Mo.

U. S. SOLDIERS AT GOVERNOR'S CALL

War Department Paves Way for the Enforcement of Neutrality.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Brigadier-General Ralph W. Hoyt, Commander of the Department of Texas, has been instructed by the War Department to hold troops in readiness to meet any call made by the Governor of Texas to preserve neutrality on the part of the United States, in connection with the revolt in Mexico.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

SHERIFF TRAVELS WITH OLD SCHOOLMATE AS A CAPTIVE

Loses Keys and Stops in St. Louis to Have Locksmith Remove Handcuffs.

Somewhere between Louisville and St. Louis, J. K. Dye, parole officer of the La Junta (Colo.) penitentiary lost his keys to the handcuffs and Oregon boots he had put on his old schoolmate, Edward Evans, to take him back to prison.

Dye had to take his prisoner to a locksmith at Thirteenth and Olive streets to have the handcuffs and boots removed. He then took Evans to the Four Courts and had him locked in a cell to await a night train for Denver.

Evans and Dye were schoolboys together at London, Ky. Evans was convicted of larceny and sentenced to the Colorado penitentiary for two years. He was paroled six months ago, on condition that he stay in Colorado and report regularly to the prison authorities. He went to Louisville and Dye was sent to get him.

NEGRO RECOGNIZED AS THIEF

Identified by Man Whose Clothing He Wore.

The police believe they have the burglar who used the two sleeping children of Morris Rosen as a springboard when he jumped through a window in the Rosen home, 2121 Wash street, in the early morning of Nov. 11 last. Dick Wood, negro, arrested Sunday night, was wearing a suit of clothes belonging to Rosen and was later identified.

Wood was arrested in a secondhand store on Morgan street by Detectives Byrnes and Shannon while trying to dispose of two gold watches recognized as part of the plunder in a burglary at the jewelry store of Morris Wagoner, 1825 Biddle street, Nov. 16. The detectives found in an inside pocket of the coat worn by the negro a tailor's tag bearing the name of Morris Rosen, who recognized the clothing and the man.

TWO ROBBERS CAUGHT AFTER STREET CHASE; BOOTY 40 CENTS

Caught in Act of Holding Up Man in Alley by a Police Sergeant.

Sergt. Helmholt, standing at Third and Valentine streets at 1:45 a. m. Monday, saw three men enter an alley between Second, Third, Valentine and Spruce streets. He followed and saw two of the men choking the third and ransacking his pockets. At sight of the policeman the robbers fled. Helmholt pursued, firing several shots. One halted and surrendered while the other ran until he was caught by Patrolmen Weisel, Flaherty and Brown.

The man who was robbed gave his name and address as August Blome, 202 South Second street. He said the two men had forced him to accompany them into the alley by threatening to kill him if he refused. They took 40 cents from him, he said. The prisoners said they were Charles Wick of 2835 Wisconsin avenue and Edward Donnelly of Third street and Russell avenue.

Warships Arrive at Corinto.

SAN JUNA DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Nov. 21.—It is reported here that a British and German warship have arrived at Corinto. Their presence in Nicaraguan waters, it is said, is due to the refusal of the provisional Government to recognize concessions granted by Zelaya to Englishmen and Germans.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 21.—Four persons were drowned near here yesterday when a rowboat capsized in the St. Mary's River. Three passengers aboard the boat were rescued when the little craft capsized.

TELLS HOW HE BOUGHT IT THAT SLUPSKY HORSE

Herpel Thinks Abe's Nephew Rented Barn From Real Estater for This Here Sale.

PAID $100 FOR A MARE

Then He Sold It This Animal Which He Calls It a Plug for $20.

Dave Slupsky, resplendent in a gorgeous new vest, sat in the defendant's chair in Judge Grimm's court Monday while a large audience, including Dave's uncle Abe, heard Hartman Herpel tell how a mare purchased by him from Slupsky changed all its characteristics between daylight and dark June 15 last. Slupsky is accused of obtaining $100 from Herpel by false pretenses.

"Stung again!" exclaimed Herpel on the witness stand, when, producing the bill of sale as part of his evidence, he noted the fact that the animal he bought was described simply as a horse.

"It was a mare that I bought, anyway," he testified. "I saw an ad of a horse for sale at 3695 West Pine boulevard, and when I went there this man Slupsky, who told me his name was E. Ferguson, showed me just the sort of a horse I wanted.

He Hated to Sell Her.

"The animal he showed me was a mare of good appearance, and he explained that the family hated to sell her, but had no room for her, as they were about to get an automobile. I looked the animal over in daylight and bought her.

"Then he asked me to leave the mare until evening, so his family could have one last drive with her. I agreed, and it was a half hour before dark when I returned. He kept me talking until dark, then took me to the stable, shoved a horse out into the alley, said 'There's your horse,' and disappeared.

"When I got the animal into the light I found I was leading, not a mare, but a horse. He was not like the mare. She had a fine, high-school step; he hippity-hopped, and seemed to need crutches. I went back, but could arouse no one at the stable. Later I sold the plug for $20."

The prosecution, it was stated, intended to prove that Slupsky rented the West Pine boulevard premises for the purpose of conducting the sale there. Chester H. Krum was Slupsky's attorney.

I. WONTELL WAS TELLING BUT THE JUDGE DIDN'T KNOW IT

Prisoner With Odd Name Barely Escapes Fine for Contempt of Court.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—"What's your name?" said Magistrate O'Connor to a young peddler who was in the Essex Market Court this morning, charged with peddling without a license.

The peddler hesitated, then said: "I. Wontell."

"You won't tell, eh?" exclaimed the Magistrate. "Well, we'll see about that. What is your name?"

"I. Wontell," repeated the youth.

"Do you realize that you are insulting this Court?" thundered the Magistrate. "I have asked you twice for your name. Both times you have refused to give it. As a lesson, I shall now hold you"—

But the court interpreter interrupted with a request that he be permitted to talk with the prisoner, believing he could make the peddler realize the enormity of his offense. They talked for several minutes. Then the interpreter said to the Magistrate:

"Your Honor, this man has not been understood. He meant no offense. He is Isaac Wontell of Christie street."

The Court said:

"I ought to fine you heavily for neglecting to tell me your full name, but I shall let you off with a fine of $1."

TRIAL OF MRS. DOXEY WHO IS SAID TO BE ILL, POSTPONED

Attorney Declares She Is in the South, but Is Not With Her Husband.

Owing to a plea that she is critically ill, Mrs. Dora E. Doxey's trial for an alleged bigamous marriage with William J. Erder was postponed Monday at Clayton until Dec. 19.

Her attorney, former Lieutenant-Governor Charles P. Johnson, said she is in the South and that her husband, Dr. Loren B. Doxey, is not with her. She may be unable to appear even on the postponed date, Johnson said.

Mrs. Doxey was tried in St. Louis last May for the murder of Erder, who died, experts testified, of poison. She was acquitted.

BODY FOUND ON ENGINE PILOT

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 21.—When the Philadelphia express, eastbound, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, came into the station in this city early today, it carried on the pilot the body of a man.

Later it was learned that the victim was Michael Tort, aged 70, a junk dealer of this city, and that he had been struck at a grade crossing a mile west of the station.

PIERRE CHOUTEAU, ST. LOUIS PIONEER, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Descendant of City's Founder Expires of Heart Trouble at St. Luke's.

COL. HUTCHINSON DIES

Banker's End Comes at the Same Hospital as That of Mr. Chouteau.

Pierre Chouteau, a lineal descendant of one of the founders of St. Louis and the first man to suggest the World's Fair, died of organic heart trouble early Monday at St. Luke's Hospital. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Chouteau gave up his apartment at 4304A Maryland avenue a year ago on account of his uncertain health, and went to live at St. Luke's. He was able to get about, but made his home there for the medical attention. Occasionally he was seen at the theaters or downtown during business hours, but he was forced, on account of his malady, to take but little exercise and amusement.

Wife Is in St. Louis.

Mrs. Chouteau, who was Lucille Chauvin, a niece of Mme. Lucille Chauvin Hirschberg, who reared her, had been residing for several years at 5579 Plymouth avenue. The separation between her and Mr. Chouteau was friendly, however, and during his stay at the hospital she visited him frequently. When her daughter Lucille married J. Lucas Turner recently at Jamestown, Mrs. Chouteau did not go to the wedding, on account of her husband's condition.

Mr. Chouteau was a son of Charles P. Gratiot Chouteau, and a descendant in the fifth generation from Pierre Chouteau, who was Pierre Laclede when he founded St. Louis. He was a grandson on his mother's side of General Charles Gratiot of the United States Army. After being educated in St. Louis and at Liege, Belgium, he returned with the intention of becoming a mining engineer, but his father needed his help in managing the great Chouteau interests, and he devoted all his time to that.

Of an inventive turn, Chouteau devised and patented various mechanical appliances now in general use. He did much to preserve documents bearing on the early history of St. Louis and contributed to the literature of the Missouri Historical Society. His suggestion that an exposition be held to commemorate the Louisiana Purchase was taken up by other men of large interests, and Chouteau was chairman of the successive committee which worked out the plan. He was a vice-president of the Exposition.

Pierre Chouteau Jr. is the only child beside Mrs. Turner. Two sisters survive Mr. Chouteau: Mrs. D. D. Johnson of Westport, N. Y., and Mrs. Edward V. Papin of 4642 Berlin avenue.

President of Mechanics Bank Expires After an Illness of Three Months.

Col. Robert Randolph Hutchinson, president of the Mechanics' Bank before it became the Mechanics-American National Bank, died of uremic poisoning at 12:30 a. m. Monday at St. Luke's Hospital. He had been ill three months, and his condition became so serious a month ago that he was removed from his home at 4007 Washington boulevard to the hospital. He was 74 years old.

Col. Hutchinson was born in Petersburg, Va. His father, the Rev. Dr. E. Carter Hutchinson, came here when his son was 4 years old, and was president of Kemper College and the founder of St. George's and Trinity Episcopal churches. Robert Hutchinson was educated in the law, but at the outbreak of the Civil War enlisted in the Southern army, and left it with the rank of Colonel.

The Missouri law prohibited the practice of law or medicine or any other profession to those who had aided the Southern cause, and Col. Hutchinson became a bank cashier, advancing to the presidency of the Mechanics' Bank.

These children survive: Carey Hutchinson of New York, Mrs. Lindell Gordon of Lincoln, Mass., Randolph Hutchinson Jr. of old Mexico, Archibald Hutchinson of Philadelphia, and Mitchell, Martha and Lucy Hutchinson, who lived with their father.

ALBERT F. NASSE DIES AT HIS HOME

Wholesale Grocer Had Been Ill 10 Days; Funeral Scheduled for Wednesday.

Albert F. Nasse, one of the partners in the wholesale grocery firm of August Nasse & Sons, died at 6 a. m. Monday at the family residence, 2323 Lafayette avenue, from acute diabetes. Nasse was 52 years old, and had been sick for 10 days.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Nasse was a member of the Century Boat Club, the Union and Liederkranz clubs, was a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason and a member of several other fraternal organizations. He was not married.

4,500,000 Persons Unemployed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The number of unemployed in the United States is estimated at 4,500,000 by the investigating board of the Bowery Mission here. About 15 per cent of them are said to be in New York City and vicinity. The mission plans to obtain work for 7000 men during the winter.

EDNA JUST OPENED CELL DOORS; TURNKEYS CITED FOR NEGLECT

Three Employes Must Appear Before Police Board to Tell of Escape.

As the result of the escape of a negress from one of the cells in the new Carr Street Police Station, Peter Lynam, Louis Flotron and Bernard McCourt, turnkeys on duty there, must appear before the Police Board Friday and show cause why they should not be dismissed from the service for neglect. The turnkeys declare they did not neglect their duty and claim the stiffness of the locks on the new cells and the absence of bars from the calaboose windows were responsible for the escape.

Edna Meyers, a negress arrested for violating her parole from the penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., was the one who escaped. Investigation after her departure showed she had simply opened the door of her cell, which had been left unlocked, and had slipped through one of the windows to an areaway adjoining the station. The escape occurred on the night of Nov. 9 or early morning of the following day.

The woman was captured the following day and taken to Joliet.

WHITE RATS AND HOBOES TAKEN IN LABOR FEDERATION

Tramps Will Come Under the Name of the Migratory Laborers.

The unionization of hoboes was indorsed, actors were admitted to the affiliation of labor and a resolution was passed by which the monthly dues of all union men will be increased, at Monday's session of the American Federation of Labor convention at Northwest Turner Hall.

Hoboes will be enrolled as members of The Migratory Laborers' Union and walking delegates will be sent throughout the country to overtake wandering knights of the road and preach to them the doctrine of organization.

The delegates voted to take in the White Rats, a fraternal organization of vaudeville actors, along with the Actors' Union of America. Neither of these organizations has heretofore been recognized by the larger bodies of union workers.

Both will now be affiliated with the Stage Employes' Union and the Musicians' Union.

Actors Taken In.

If Hamlet throws down poor Yorick's skull and strikes for a raise all the other employes of the theater will support him in his demand and the curtain will be rung down and stay down until the strike is settled.

On the recommendation of the Executive Council the convention adopted a resolution providing for an increase in the dues of all unions to provide a fund for supporting strikes. A special committee will be appointed to decide what the increase shall be in each trade organization.

American Sailor Buried in France.

CHERBOURG, Nov. 21.—The funeral of H. G. Weidlich, a sailor from the American battleship Louisiana who was drowned in the harbor Friday, took place yesterday. After a religious ceremony on the Louisiana the coffin was taken ashore under an escort of officers and sailors and buried in a cemetery.

INFANT PARALYSIS SWEEPS COUNTRY; NO CURE IS KNOWN

Malady Which Claims 20,000 Victims in a Few Years Defies Scientists.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Statistics gathered from various sources by a New York medical journal show that infantile spinal paralysis has attacked no less than 20,000 persons in the United States during the several epidemics of the last few years. Although the mortality seldom exceeds 10 per cent, 75 per cent of the little victims are crippled for life.

Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the Rockefeller Institute, who has been studying the disease, is authority for the statement that no means to ameliorate its effects or prevent its development is known.

"Those of us who have had to deal with this malady or who have studied its unchecked progress," he says, "have come to realize how helpless we are. We know it to be epidemic. We believe it to be contagious or at least highly communicable. We are acquainted with its terrible results, but we know little more about it. All efforts to find the infective agent misroscopically are unavailing."

AIR BIRD PLANS TO BREAK RECORD ON KITE MONDAY

S. F. Perkins Will Try to Make Highest Ascension for Post-Dispatch.

CALM SPOILS TRIAL

With Three Cerf Volantes in Air Sunday Wind Falls, Preventing Flight.

Under the auspices of the Post-Dispatch, Samuel F. Perkins will make ascensions with his man-carrying kites, weather permitting, Monday and Tuesday between 1 and 3 p. m., in Forest Park.

His announced flight Sunday afternoon was postponed because of a wind calm which fell suddenly after three kites had been sent into the air and were requiring all the strength of three men to hold them in leash.

If Perkins finds the air conditions unfavorable Tuesday, he will attempt ascensions Wednesday afternoon at the same time and place. It is his hope to break his altitude record while in St. Louis.

Half in Rope on Kites.

Perkins Sunday afternoon first sent up a 12-foot kite in a light breeze of 12 miles an hour. In a tandem formation he flew two follow-up kites, nine feet high. As he was preparing to dispatch three more nine-foot kites, the wind dropped and the kites fluttered to earth. The calm was the forerunner of a rainfall which prevented other attempts. The jesoing cerf volante, as the man-carrying kite is called, was half a mile high and was held, with its followers, by a half-inch rope.

The big kites are part of the Post-Dispatch exhibit at the National Aero Show at the Coliseum.

Jack Irwin to Visit Show.

Jack Irwin, wireless operator on Walter Wellman's airship America, will visit the show Tuesday afternoon as the guest of the St. Louis Aero Club. He will be accompanied by Louis Loud, another member of the crew.

Irwin sent the wireless message which resulted in the rescue of Wellman's ship. He also was the wireless operator at Siasconset, Mass., who caught the steamship Republic's C Q D.

Irwin plans to fly an aeroplane being constructed by Maurice Vanniman, Wellman's engineer.

Irwin will consult with Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin concerning aeroplane mechanisms and operation.

Miss Elliott an Enthusiast.

Monday is Aero Club day at the show and each member of the organization has purchased 10 tickets and distributed them among his friends. An attendance of 7000 during the afternoon and night was expected.

Miss Maxine Elliott, actress, was invited to attend the show Monday afternoon and inspect the various types of flying craft on exhibition. She says that she has become an aviation enthusiast.

Tuesday will be automobile night and Wednesday military night. The show will close Thanksgiving night. For Monday and Tuesday afternoons the admission for school children has been reduced to 10 cents at the request of Principal John Rush Powell of the Soldan High School.

AEROPLANE SLEDDING TO BE TRIED IN THE BERKSHIRE HILLS

Phenomenal Speed, It Is Thought, Can Be Attained Without a Motor.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 21.—A unique experiment in near aeroplaning is to be tried in the Berkshire Hills this winter, under the auspices of the Williams College Aero Club and the Berkshire Aero Club. Several biplanes without engines are to be constructed with bobsleds at their base.

These aeroplane sleds will be taken to the top of some of the Berkshire Hills by expert sled men and when they reach a sped of forty-five or fifty miles an hour the planes will be tilted and the sleds will leave the ground. By manipulating the planes the sleds, it is thought, can be kept a few feet above the snow, just skimming the ground until the bottom of the hill is reached.

In this way, it is believed, a phenomenal speed can be made.

POLICEMAN CITED ON CHARGES OF FIREMAN'S WIFE

Accused by Mrs. Anna Krueger of Asking to Call When Husband Was Out.

Patrolman Daniel E. Lauree admits it is not necessary in the line of duty for a policeman to chat with a fireman's wife, but he maintains that such an act is not conduct unbecoming an officer.

Mrs. Anna Krueger of 3821 North Twentieth street, wife of Henry Krueger of Engine Company 25, at Fifteenth and Mullanphy streets, has filed an affidavit against Lauree, and the patrolman has been suspended pending trial by the Board of Police Commissioners.

Mrs. Krueger in her affidavit says she was standing at Twenty-second street and St. Louis avenue about 3 p. m. Nov. 11, waiting for her children to return from school, when Lauree, whom she had not met previously, approached her.

Tells of Football Game.

"I went out to the football game the other day," said Lauree to her, she deposed, "and, say, the ladies were there in full force. Most of them were wearing lace yokes on their necks, and it was awfully windy."

Mrs. Krueger turned her back to the patrolman, but that did not disconcert him.

"What time does your hubby come home to breakfast?" he continued.

"None of your business," replied Mrs. Krueger.

Denies He Insulted Her.

Mrs. Krueger then fled. That night she told her husband and he reported the matter to Capt. Johnson of the North Market Street District.

When called upon for an explanation, Lauree admitted having engaged Mrs. Krueger in conversation, but denied having insulted her. He said he spoke to her about a football game, but that he did not ask an invitation to her home. He also admitted he had had no introduction to Mrs. Krueger.

"You are suspended, on charges of unbecoming conduct and engaging in unnecessary conversation," Capt. Johnson told Lauree.

"The conversation was unnecessary," said the patrolman, "but I did not conduct myself improperly." Lauree is 26 years old and married.

POLICE HIDE IN STALLS

Sergeant Charges Bluecoats With Neglect of Duty.

Sergt. Michael Burke of the Magnolia Avenue District saw two blue uniforms disappear into the fire engine house at Louisiana and Park avenues early Saturday morning and later found Patrolmen Malachi Flanagan and Henry A. Book hiding in one of the horse stalls.

Neither of the men had made a telephone report to the station for two hours. They said, when questioned, they had entered the engine house to take a rest. Both were charged with neglect of duty and Flanagan was additionally charged with leaving his beat, which is a block from the engine house.

NEW CAR SYSTEM IS PLANNED

Independent Line Is Wanted on South Broadway.

The Tenth Ward Improvement Association, at its meeting Sunday afternoon, unanimously indorsed the plan of the Gratiot and Lindenwood Improvement Association to aid in the formation of an independent street car system to give trolley service between South Broadway and Lindenwood.

It also decided to press its demand that the Seventh street line of the United Railways system be extended to the city limits.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

TEBBETTS & SONS CALLED BANKRUPT IN CREDITORS' SUIT

Carriage Company Accused of Paying Some Claims in Preference to Others.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal Court Monday against the L. B. Tebbetts & Sons Carriage Co., one of the oldest concerns of its kind in St. Louis.

The petitioners alleged that although insolvent, the company recently has paid the claims of certain creditors, thereby preferring them in violation of the bankruptcy law.

Lewis B. Tebbetts and his son, Alvah Mansur Tebbetts and George S. Tebbetts, are named as officers of the company.

The claims made by the petitioning creditors amount to $1267.98, apportioned as follows: The Columbus Bolt Works of Columbus, O., $300; B. B. Reynolds of Kansas City, $783.50; T. M. Shearman, San Francisco, $179, and the Monarch Rubber and Oilcloth Co., Philadelphia, $5.48.

The petition alleges that while insolvent, the company, on Oct. 28, paid to the Republic Rubber Co. $286.12.

On Sept. 9 last, it is alleged, it paid to the Herrlinger, Cordage and Paper Co. $85.54, thereby preferring these creditors. It is also asserted in the petition that the company recently has transferred some of its property to other concerns.

Attorneys for the creditors are Lee W. Grant and William H. Close.

The Tebbetts company's plant is at 200 Branch street.

FIREMAN IS SCALDED TO DEATH

Locomotive's Steam Pipes Are Broken in a Collision.

Edward Gunn, fireman of a Terminal locomotive, was fatally scalded when the Illinois Central Daylight Special hit his engine in the Bremen avenue yards Sunday evening. He died at 2 a. m. Monday in St. Mary's Infirmary.

The passenger locomotive broke the steam pipes under Gunn's side of the cab and the steam scalded him from head to foot. He was 38 years old and lived at 1402 North Broadway.

SWOLLEN WAGES ARE PAID TO NEW AVIATORS' TROUPE

John B. Moissant Is Signed to Fly at Salary of $100,000 Yearly.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Following the news that Grahame-White, the English aviator, has earned something more than $82,000 in six months in America, there came the announcement today that John B. Moisant, the plucky little American who won the Statue of Liberty flight prize, is to tour the country at a salary of $100,000 a year. The same organization that employs Moisant also has engaged Charles K. Hamilton at $72,000 a year.

These men are to be stars in a troupe to be known as the International Aviators. The entire flock will consist of fully a dozen flyers, in which are already numbered Roland Garros with the curious little Santos-Dumont demoiselle monoplane, the baby of flying machines; Rene Simon, one of the best Bleriot flyers of France; Rene Barrier, who has won many altitude records in Europe with the Bleriot; Edmond Audemars of Switzerland and John J. Frisble, who flies in a Curtiss type biplane.

These men were all figures at the Belmont aviation meet. Engagements of other aviators are now being made. When completed, the troupe is designed to represent every form of aerial ship. The company is incorporated for $250,000, of which $180,000 has already been paid in.

Moisant's capitalist brother of San Salvador, Alfred J. Moisant, is the chief organizer of the International Aviators and the troupe in a special train of five cars and with 100 helpers left this city last night for their first appearance as an organization. This is to be in Richmond, Va. The organization was effected only six days ago, but already has many engagements ahead.

The next city to be visited after Richmond will be Chattanooga, after which the flock of air pilots will travel through the South, arriving at New Orleans in time for the Mardi Gras, and then to the Pacific Coast. Early in the spring they expect to return to New York and hold a meet here.

GIRL FROM RECTOR'S CHARGES MANAGER WITH BEATING HER

Dorothy Arville Declares Diamond Was Torn From Her Ear in Struggle.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Dorothy Arville, who played the title part in "The Girl From Rector's" at the National Theater last week, is at the Hotel La Salle suffering from serious injuries as the result of an alleged assault upon her by the manager of the company, Fred Fleck, late Saturday night.

The assault, it is alleged, was committed by the manager during a quarrel over a release, after the show had closed a week's run. With her lip cut and bleeding, her left ear torn where a diamond earring had been jerked from its socket and her face badly bruised, Mrs. Arville, who is the wife of Arnold Arville, a New York real estate dealer, appeared at the Englewood Police Station shortly before midnight this morning and told her story to Lieut. Thomas Caughlin.

Mrs. Arville said Fleck attempted to force her to sign a release from her contract and give up her position in the company. This she refused to do, and then, she told Lieut. Caughlin, he slapped her in the face, knocked her down, kicked her and tore the earring from her left ear.

Priceless Relics Are Burned.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Less Court, at Faversham, Kent, the ancestral home of the Earl of Sondes, with its priceless contents, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The damage is estimated at $600,000. Prince Henry of Prussia recently was a guest at the Court.

BUSINESS MEN, LED BY DOCTOR, ROMP IN PARK

They Meet at Dawn and Go Through an Athletic Course.

IMPROVING IN HEALTH

They Drink Spring Water That Is Apparently Very Beneficial.

Exercise at dawn in Forest Park is the drugless prescription a class of business and professional men takes daily under the direction of Dr. C. A. Newcomb, former football player and for eight years a city dispensary physician.

One reason Forest Park was selected as the scene of the morning gymnastics was the spring not far from the Lindell entrance. This spring has medicinal qualities, and members of the class attribute the benefit they have derived from the daily visits to the park in a measure to it. Assembling at break of day, they drink heartily of the water before sprinting up the hill to the Mounted District Police Station.

Course Is Beneficial.

On the hill the class throws the medicine ball around for 15 minutes, then, led by the athletic doctor, the members run a mile and a half to the Rest Cottage for a breathing spell. Even during the rest the members are not free to do just as they please, but are rigidly required to breathe, in a certain way, a certain number of inhalations to the minute.

Then they sprint back to the spring and disperse for their homes, where they have a shower bath and breakfast.

Some of the members of the class exercise to take off flesh and some to put it on. J. R. Lewis, a broker, boasts that he has reduced his weight from 210 to 190 pounds, and C. C. Butler, manager of the American Hotel, is down to 190 also. He won't tell what he weighed before he joined the class. Isaac T. Cook, manager of several downtown skyscrapers; George McFadden, real estate dealer; Thomas Watts Jr. and Samuel Epstein are some of the other members.

Epstein is rejoicing now in 165 pounds of substantial bone and flesh and muscle. He had only 130 pounds when he joined the class.

Attired in high shoes, sweaters and caps, the members of the class start out in the dark for the meeting place, so as to get there before the sun rises. In the summer this meant early rising with a vengeance. But at this time of the year the assembling hour is 5:30 a. m.

SEES SWING OF PENDULUM OF STYLE IN HOBBLE GOWN

Woman, 100 Years Old, Says They Are the Extremes of Ancient Hoop Skirts.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 21.—"The hobble skirt has nothing on the hoop skirt that I wore 80 years ago; in fashion it merely shows the opposite swing of the pendulum of style, but it is not likely to last." Such is the opinion given by Mrs. Mary L. Chase of Everett today, who, on her one hundredth birthday, did not favorably regard the latest style in women's dress.

"I wonder what these hobble skirt women would do if they had to run away from a mad dog," said she. "Tumble along, I suppose until some man came along and helped them up. Those old hoop skirts were an awful thing on a windy day but the old styles were not so bad after all. I would rather see women wearing hoop skirts than hobble skirts, but Lord help the men if hoops come into style again—that's all I can say."

POLLARD HUNTS FOR GLASSES AS THEY DANGLE FROM LAPEL

Spectators Titter as Jurist Blushes When He Finds New Spectacles.

When Judge Pollard started to make the first entry of the disposal of a case Saturday in the Dayton Street Police Court he drew from a vest pocket the worn case in which he always carried his steel-rimmed spectacles. He looked surprised and nonplussed. The case was empty.

A titter ran through the room, because all the spectators could see Judge Pollard's glasses. They were on the lapel of his coat. But they were not the steel-rimmed spectacles. They were nobby gold nose glasses.

Judge Pollard flushed, fumbled for the new glasses, and adjusted them awkwardly with both hands. "The bailiff will call the next case," he said hurriedly.

POLICE TAKE UP COCAINE CRUSADE; 11 ARRESTS MADE

Prisoners Alleged Habitues of Neighborhood Where Drug Is Sold.

DEALERS UNMOLESTED

Robert Greer and Mamie Walker Not Taken With the Others.

Following the revelation in Sunday's Post-Dispatch that the cocaine traffic is flourishing openly in defiance of the law in downtown St. Louis, the police Sunday night arrested 11 alleged habitues of the corner at Eighth and Market streets, the center of trade in the poison. The prisoners were at first booked as suspects in recent larcenies, and then as vagrants. Seven said they had no settled place of abode.

Robert Greer and Mamie Walker, heads of the traffic, from whom a Post-Dispatch reporter for the purpose of investigation purchased eight boxes and one vial of the drug, were not molested. The arrests were made by Policemen Waterhouse, Trueblood and McGauley of the Central District.

"I am displeased with the preliminary work of the police," said Chief Young to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday. "I want the traffic stopped. We must remove the causes, the dealers in the poison. It does little good to arrest the unfortunates who are their victims.

To Hold Consultation.

"I shall hold a consultation with the police cocaine squad and give them stringent orders to suppress the traffic and take steps against Robert Greer and Mamie Walker."

The cocaine squad consists of Special Policemen Cooper and Banks, negroes. They reported recently to Chief Young, he said, that the cocaine trade in St. Louis had ceased.

Those arrested gave their names as Matt Schumacher, Jack Mills, Aaron Etherage, William Stoval, Charles Clay, Fred Miller, John Thomas, Arthur Sanders, Joseph Ward, Frank Lewis and William Smith. Mills, Sanders, Lewis and Smith gave addresses, but the others said they had no homes.

Schumacher, who hobbled on two crutches, was fined $50 by Judge Tracy Monday, but the fine was stayed on his promise to give up cocaine. His attorney asked mercy for his client, describing him as "the victim of a horrible habit." Schumacher promised that he would not be seen again near Eighth and Market streets and that he would be cared for by a brother.

The police said that by these 11 arrests they hoped to end the traffic by removing the dealers' source of profit. The Post-Dispatch revealed that more than 100 men and women are daily customers of Greer and Mamie Walker.

The Post-Dispatch related that wrecks of men, self-confessed pickpockets and beggars and themselves slaves of the drug, infest the saloons on Market street, between Eighth and Ninth and solicit purchases of cocaine in broad day. It is also shown that several city detectives had knowledge of the traffic but took no action against it, alleging that the police department would not supply them with money to make cases.

The centers from which the drug is distributed are Mamie Walker's house in Hop Alley and a shed in the rear of an unoccupied house at 915 Walnut street, which is used as an office by Greer.

The traffic is in defiance of the law, which requires a physician's or dentist's prescription for the purchase of cocaine and a label marked "Poison" upon each box or bottle in which it is sold. The improper sale of cocaine is a misdemeanor under the Missouri statutes, punishable by a fine or a term in jail, or both.

WHAT LAW PRESCRIBES AS PENALTY FOR COCAINE TRADE

An act to regulate the sale of cocaine and of preparations containing cocaine:

Section 1. It shall not be lawful for any druggist or other person to retail or sell or to give away any cocaine, hydrochlorate or other salt of, or any compound of, cocaine, or preparation containing cocaine, or any salts of or any compound thereof, excepting upon the written prescription of a licensed physician or licensed dentist, licensed under the laws of the State, which prescription shall only be filled once.

Section 2. Every person who shall be found guilty of violation of the provisions of this act shall, for the first offense, be fined a sum not less than $10 nor more than $50; and for each subsequent offense not less than $50 nor more than $200, or shall be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding 90 days, or either or both, in the discretion of the Court.

TRUNK MURDER SUSPECT FLED ON HIS WEDDING EVE

Just Before Hour Set for Ceremony He Got a Letter and Vanished.

HE HAD FOUR TRUNKS

Lewis Seemed Poverty-Stricken to Meaghers, Others Thought Him Prosperous.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—William Lewis, the missing person in the trunk murder mystery, was sought by the police early in 1905, when he vanished from his lodgings three hours before the time set for his wedding to a trained nurse.

In January, 1905, and for 14 months before that time, Lewis lived in a front room on the second floor of 344 West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, according to statements by Charles R. Cloudsley and his wife, who say they rented the room to Lewis in the latter part of 1903.

According to the statement made to the police, Lewis' friends, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Meagher, the trunk which contained the body of a dead man was shipped to their apartment from a house in West One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street some time in 1902, when Lewis came to live with them. Some months later, according to them, Lewis quit their house but left the trunk in their care, where it was opened last week and the body of a man was found.

Carried Only a Valise.

"After Lewis vanished relatives and friends of his intended bride sought him for days, but so far as I know they never obtained the slightest trace of his whereabouts," said Cloudsley. "He carried nothing but a valise in which was a suit of clothes. That was in January, 1905, so far as I can remember."

Two days before the time set for the wedding Lewis, according to Cloudsley, sent two trunks containing books, portraits and clothes to the home of the woman. One trunk, which was new, but does not fit the description of that in which the body was packed, was sold for $5 to a woman in the neighborhood. There was a fourth trunk, which Lewis sent to the home of his prospective brother-in-law, who, Mr. Cloudsley said, practiced medicine in Brooklyn. The wedding was to have taken place at 8 o'clock in a church.

"A letter which Lewis received the morning of the day set for the wedding completely unnerved him," said Mrs. Cloudsley. "He became so nervous that I had to help him pack his trunks. He went out of the house at noon, but returned about 4 o'clock. An hour later he took his valise and told us he was going to be married.

"Wedding Postponed," He Wrote.

"The wedding is postponed," was scrawled on a note which Lewis left in his room and which was found by his best man, who called for him at 6 o'clock that evening. It was some time later that the bridal party came over here. Then the police were asked to aid in a search for Lewis.

"When the search had been on several weeks his deserted fiancee sent a letter to the aged parents of Lewis in Ireland. It was about six months before that time that the trained nurse, who had promised her hand to Lewis, journeyed to Ireland. She was entertained by the elder Lewis and his wife and on her return brought a number of gifts."

"Lewis had two trunks filled with expensive clothing when he came here," said Cloudsley. "In his wardrobe was a heavy Irish tweed coat, which he had remodeled. When Lewis disappeared he carried a heavy gold watch and chain I do not know how he was provided with money."

The Meaghers said Lewis lived in their cramped quarters because he was out of work, and that later he got a job as a waiter at the Manhattan Beach Hotel.

The Coroner's physician last night replaced the body in the trunk just as it was found by Meagher and the janitor. The zinc sheaths were carefully replaced and sealed with wax. It will not be opened again until the police arrest a suspect.

MURDER CONVICTION PREVENTS WEDDING, BUT GIRL WILL WAIT

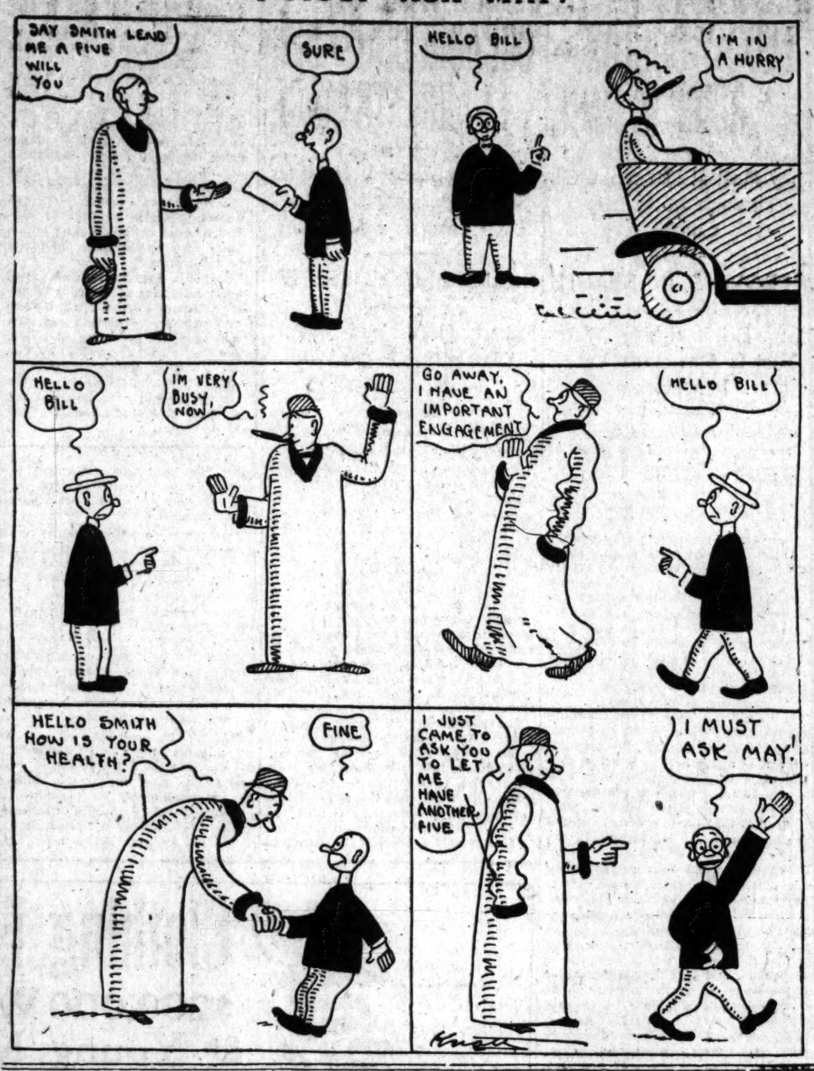

Miss Emma Renfro Planned Christmas Marriage, but Fiance Is Sent to Prison.

Miss Emma Renfro, whose plans for a Christmas wedding with Ernest Schlebe were interrupted by his arrest and conviction on a murder charge, declared Monday that she would keep her promise to wait for him and marry him after his release from the penitentiary at Chester, Ill.

She is encouraged by the fact that his sentence, imposed by a jury at Edwardsville a few days ago, is an indeterminate one, and that Schlebe can be released whenever the Pardon Board thinks best. She declared that if the board did not act within a year she would prepare a petition for his release.

The young woman sat by her fiance's side during the trial. They parted at East St. Louis Sunday, the officers in charge of Schlebe allowing them to visit for a half hour between trains. Miss Renfro lives at 1516½ North Ninth street, St. Louis, and is employed in a restaurant at 1008 Cass avenue. Six weeks ago she became engaged. A few days later Schlebe was arrested on charge of complicity in the killing of William Straught at Edwardsville nearly five years ago.

PASTORS URGE FLOCKS TO AID SATURDAY AND SUNDAY FUND

Hospital Association's Collection Will Be Taken Nov. 26 and 27.

Catholic, Jewish and Protestant clergymen united Sunday in praising from their pulpits the work of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, which will make its eighteenth annual collection next Saturday and Sunday for the relief of the sick poor.

Archbishop Glennon sent to each Catholic church a card announcing the collection. After reading it to his congregation, the Rev. Father Patrick W. Tallon, of the Holy Name Church, said that the honor of St. Louis is concerned in the hospital charity, and that all should stand up for the city by giving as generously as possible.

Other clergymen who eulogized the charity were Rabbi Leon Harrison, the Rev. W. J. McKittrick of the First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. S. J. Niccolls, Second Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Luther E. Todd, Centenary Methodist Church; Dean Carroll M. Davis, Christ Church Cathedral; the Rev. W. C. Bitting, Second Baptist Church; the Rev. J. W. Day, Church of the Messiah; the Rev. D. C. Garrett, St. Peter's Episcopal Church; and the Rev. William J. Williamson, Third Baptist Church.

Collections for the charity will be made in most of the St. Louis churches next Sunday.

HORSE SHOW IN NEW YORK BRINGS PROFIT OF $50,000

More Than 105,000 Persons Attended During the Seven Days.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—This year's Horse Show was the most successful in 10 years, according to the reports of the association's officials. It was a record-breaking exhibition both from an attendance and entry standpoint, and for the first time in many years the association will find a substantial balance on the right side of the ledger.

The total attendance for the seven days was more than 105,000, making a daily average of 15,000. On three of the four days of the show fully 20,000 persons paid for admission. The receipts for the week amounted to about $200,000.

The price of admission was $1, while the reserved seats ranged from $1.50 to $3. Box seats sold for $5 and $8 apiece.

The receipts from sales of seats aggregated about $175,000, while the 1850 entrance fees added nearly $20,000. To offset this are expenses on about $150,000 for prize list, rent, decorating, cost of bringing foreign army officers' feed for 2000 horses and a small army of employes.

The profit of $50,000 exceeds the aggregate of profits for the past eight years.

RECALL LAW FOR ARIZONA OBJECT OF NEW ATTACK

Constitutional Convention Will Complete Its Labors This Week.

By Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 21.—Arizona's Constitutional Convention entered upon its final period today, the actual drafting of the organic law of the new State.

The proposed arts of the constitution which have not been considered must be passed on this week, so that the remainder of the time, which expires Dec. 10, may be given to revision and final adoption.

It is very probable that this week the conservatives will make their promised effort to have the recall measure reconsidered and made a matter of separate submission in the endeavor to prove their contention that only a minority of the territory is in favor of having recall applied to the judiciary.

Although numerous so-called radical provisions have been advocated, the constitution will not be a lengthy one. Completion will probably shew it to be less than one-third the length of Oklahoma's, containing comparatively little purely legislative matter.

To Conserve 1,000,000 Acres.

Of interest today will be the report of the State and School Lands Committee, which will recommend the conservation of a million acres of land which is to be the apportionment of the new State. The committee will recommend that no public land be sold for 25 years, except from the irrigated land, which has been under cultivation for five years prior to the adoption of the constitution. This will be sold to the highest bidder, its estimated value being more than a million dollars.

The enabling act places a minimum limit on the price of public land at $3 per acre, and provides that no public sites be sold for five years.

Thanksgiving Dinner Furnished.

Gets $1.38 Due Since Civil War.

ABERDEEN, S. D., Nov. 19.—Eugene Huntington of this county received a draft from the War Department at Washington for $1.38, back pay due since the Civil War. With it came an itemized statement showing that Huntington had been short-paid $2.29 and that for February, 1863, he had been overpaid 91 cents. The draft represented the balance due.

POULTRY EXTENDS NOISY GREETING AT ANNUAL SHOW

Ducks, Geese and Roosters Combine in Ear-Splitting Comment.

PIGEONS ARE SILENT

Olive Street Headquarters Packed With Exhibits of Great Variety.

The third annual St. Louis poultry show opened Monday with a loud noise. It will continue all week—with the noise. The men who make auto horns still have something to learn, and they can learn it at the poultry show. There are birds at the show which make the visitors look around for the nearest curb every time they open their bills.

There are drakes and ducks on the third floor of the poultry show building, at 1121 Olive street, that give a very fair imitation of a steamboat whistling for the landing. Not all the noise is on the third floor, though. The roosters are on the second floor and when one rooster crows all the rest of the roosters feel that it is incumbent upon them to crow also.

The first floor is given over to the pigeons, which contribute all of the silence. There are more of these than have ever been gathered together at a previous poultry show in St. Louis, but they are not making any fuss about it.

Little Bantams and Big Turkeys.

The three floors were pretty well filled with fowls at the opening of the show and many more arrived during the day. Vest-pocket bantams vie with 50-pound turkeys for the admiration of the fowl fanciers.

The largest cages are occupied by the pheasants, because they need lots of room for their tails.

The Indian runner ducks are the envy of the hens, because they can lay eggs almost as fast as they can run.

Deserved contempt is poured out upon the tame mallard ducks, traitors to the duck cause, which have been trained to decoy their wild mates within the reach of hunters' guns. They have the exact markings of the wild ducks, but are so tame they are perfectly at home in the barnyard.

The show is getting along without the presence of any of the frizzles, which are deemed necessary to the success of any poultry show, but some of them probably will come in later. The feathers of the frizzles grow the wrong way and give one the impression that the chickens are going when they are coming. There are some silkies, though, and they are almost as great a curiosity as the frizzles. Their feathers are so fine that they seem more like silken down.

A feature of the show is to be a long-distance homing pigeon race.

Many valuable prizes are to be distributed. The grand prize for the bird or birds winning the greatest number o. points is a $200 cup.

The show is given by the St. Louis Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Associations. The officers are: Joseph Messmer, president; J. H. Long, vice-president; W. E. Way, secretary; W. M. Anderson, assistant secretary, and August Wedeking, treasurer. The judges will be John Heddich, Bowling Green, Mo.; Thomas S. Rigg, Iowa Falls, Io., and Thomas M. Campbell, Darlington, Ind.; George Ewald, Cincinnati, O., and Robert Joose, Peoria, Ill.

MOTHER GREETED BY SON DESERTED FORTY YEARS AGO

Letter, Written After Third Marriage, Assists Him in Finding Her.

HUNT OTHER CHILDREN

If They Can Be Found, a Family Reunion Will Be Held Christmas.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 21.—A big man of 45 filled the doorway of Mrs. Samuel Potter's little cottage here, and he had a big, booming voice as he inquired:

"Does Mrs. Potter live here?"

The little old woman, who had come to the door, answered:

"I'm Mrs. Potter," The next instant she screamed, because the big man had seized her in his arms and kissed her heartily and then held her off and took her in his arms and kissed her again.

He was her son, John C. Bowie of Scranton, Pa., whom she had not seen for 40 years.

Children Left Destitute.

For many years the woman had longed for this reunion and yet was half fearful to have it happen. She is the widow of William Bowie of Scranton, and her second husband detested the children and prevailed upon her to abandon the little ones, three boys and a girl, the eldest of whom was 8 years old. She went with this second husband, and the children were destitute.

The four were committed to the Home for the Friendless in Scranton, where they remained until they were able to earn their own living. Three of the children were adopted and discarded their name of Bowie. John, the youngest, learned the trade of blacksmith and had prospered.

The big blacksmith patted the old woman's withered cheek and assured her that he never felt the least bitterness against her for having run away from Scranton and that he had searched everywhere for her for years, even having made a trip to Scotland, having heard that she had returned to her native country.

"I have been to Scotland," the aged woman told her son. "A few years after I left Scranton my second husband died and I went to Scotland. Then I came to Stamford and met Potter and we were married. Dear me, that was all of 20 years ago."

Plan Christmas Reunion.

In the parlor of her pretty home was hanging a picture of her son, Willie, the eldest, and the only one of the children whose picture she possessed. John could give the mother no information regarding her other two sons and daughter. It was agreed that they would search for the missing members of the family and if possible arrange a Christmas reunion.

Although John had searched far and wide for his mother, it was the aged woman herself who brought about today's meeting. She became very ill, and fearing that she might die wrote a letter to "John Bowie, Scranton." It was one chance in a million, but the letter reached the right man. He and his wife hastened here and have taken charge of the old woman.

WATCHMAN'S BODY IS FOUND

Charred Remains in Ruins Lead to Investigation.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—The finding at West Laurel Hill Cemetery near here early today of the charred remains of a night watchman in the ruins of a one-story frame office building and evidence that a safe had been battered with a sledge hammer, have led the police to start an investigation to determine whether Peter Campion, the watchman, had been killed by robbers and the place set on fire to hide the crime. Bloodhounds which were kept in the cemetery are missing.

Campion was 62 years old and had been guarding cemetery property for 30 years.

MEYER "TWINS" ARE TWINS ONLY IN THEIR LOOKS

Daughters of Secretary of the Navy Puzzle Smart Set by Resemblance.

THEY DRESS THE SAME

This Helps Pretty Sisters to Carry Out Twinship Illusion.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—One of the most puzzling resemblances in the smart world of Washington is that between the Misses Meyer, the daughters of the Secretary of the Navy. The "Meyer twins," as they are called by the uninitiated, are not in reality twins, nor is the likeness between them by any means as extraordinary as it appears at first glance. Close scrutiny shows that the pretty sisters look extremely alike largely because they are invariably dressed alike.

Although the custom of dressing young sisters alike is largely followed on the Continent, it is unusual in this country, the majority of American girls rebelling against having their costumes duplicated, even by a twin sister. The idea of dressing her daughters alike appealed to Mrs. Meyer, who is a business-like personage, as a saving of extra planning. She also realized its artistic possibilities. The Meyer girls are among the best dressed maids in society. Although their gowns are invariably alike, they occasionally differ in some slight detail.

Wherein They Differ.

Although both are petite brunettes, the two pretty sisters differ considerably in type and in temperament. Miss Julia Meyer is plump, and her loveliness inclines to the Spanish type. She has large dark eyes, blue-black hair and an olive complexion, and is somewhat shorter than her sister, Miss Alice. The latter is taller and slighter and of a more spirituelle type, although no less lovely.

They are named Alice Appleton and Julia Appleton, for Mrs. Meyer and her sister.

Gowned in exquisite crepe frocks of a rare shade of old rose and big black velvet hats, the pretty Meyer girls attracted much admiration at the first New Year's reception of the present administration last winter. Pompadour costumes of flowered silk, made with exceeding smartness, also showed to advantage the chic of the "twins," of whom Miss Julia Meyer is two years older than her sister.

The toilettes of the Meyers are invariably the latest cry of Paris fashions and are eagerly watched for "points" by less affluent maids in society.

Mrs. Meyer and her daughters are fond of walking, and make a striking trio in the shopping district. Mrs. Meyer, who is a handsome blonde of the Junoesque type, makes a splendid foil for the two pretty, dark-eyed girls. All wear severely tailored costumes in dark colors for walking.

The Misses Meyer were noted during their father's service as Minister to Italy and St. Petersburg for the splendor of the children's parties they gave.

Reared on Continental Lines.

The Meyers are among the most sought-after girls in society. Their rearing has been more in accordance with Continental than American ideas, and they resemble rather the young French girl of the great world than her American sister. They have been far more strictly chaperoned than is customary in this country.

Mrs. Meyer's fondness for the life of foreign capitals and for foreigners has caused society to predict that both her daughters will be likely to marry into the diplomatic corps. Strange to say, although the Meyer girls are always dressed alike, they are seldom seen on the same occasion unless it be strictly an affair for young folk.

FUTURE FLAGSHIP OF ATLANTIC FLEET IS NEARING COMPLETION

Mighty Fighter Will Be 21,825 Tons Displacement When Ready for Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The new battleship Florida, which is being built at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, is now 82 per cent completed and visitors to the yard may get an idea of what a mighty fighter the future flagship of the Atlantic battleship fleet will be when she goes into commission next year.

Some time next summer the Commander-in-Chief of the fleet will transfer his flag to her from the Connecticut.

The displacement of the Florida, when ready for service, will be 21,825 tons. She will be greater in tonnage than any ship building in German or Japan, but France, England, Russia, Argentina and Brasil have bigger ones under way. Brasil's battleship Rio Janeiro, now being constructed in England, is the greatest man-of-war ever ordered. It will displace 32,000 tons.

POLITE INTRUDER SETS FIRE TO THE BED AND ESCAPES

Asks Child's Permission and Then Starts Blaze in a Mattress.

A man who entered Mrs. John Eckholdt's home at 4431 North Fourteenth street encountered 6-year-old Harry Eckholdt.

"May I set fire to the bed?" he queried, striking a match on the wall.

The boy cried out a protest and ran in fright from the room. The man, who is supposed to have been drunk or insane, set fire to the mattress and escaped.

Members of the family summoned Mrs. Eckholdt's brother, Patrolman Huessler of the Angelica Street Station, and he extinguished the flames. His hands and forearms were scorched doing it.

WATCHMAN FOLLOWS NOSE TO FIRE IN BUSINESS DISTRICT

Early Blaze Does $3000 Damage to Stocks of Mercantile Concerns.

Fire did $3000 damage to the stocks of several mercantile establishments in the building at 901 and 903 Lucas avenue at 5:40 a. m. Monday. Private Watchman Martin Ryan, whose boast is that he can smell smoke two miles away, followed his nose to the fourth floor of the seven-story building. That floor is occupied by the St. Louis Cloak Co., and a part of the stock was ablaze when Martin reached the scene.

Firemen responding to the alarm found the building filled with smoke and water. The stock of the cloak concern was damaged to the extent of $700, that of the Orenstein & Rice Silken Neckwear Co. on the third floor about $500, the stock of the Corliss-Coon Collar Co. on the second floor about $600. The stocks of the C. R. Hettel Jewelry Co. and the Clark Leather Co., which occupy the first floor of the building, were damaged about $600. The damage to the building was estimated at $500.

According to the firemen, the blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion in a box of cloth cuttings which had been stored beneath a table.

Corns removed in 3 minutes with Dr. Woofter's Corn and Bunion Remedy.

KAISER PLANS A WAR AS A CURE FOR SOCIALISM

Leaders of Growing Party Declare Emperor Fears Results of Coming Vote.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Considerable agitation has been created by the accusation of several Socialist leaders that the Kaiser desires to push Germany into a war with England to check the growth of Socialism. They say the Kaiser realizes that Socialism is coming entirely too fast for his good, and that he can see no way to stop its spread except by engaging in a war with some important country and winning a brilliant victory.

As matters stand today, the people see little use for the Kaiser. They are losing respect for him. He is called by persons, who are not at all radical, an "unbalanced babbler." If the Kaiser prosecuted every person who applies this uncomplimentary title to him, new prisons would be needed.

Both the Kaiser and his statesmen are viewing with alarm, the coming general elections. They fear that the Socialists will gain working strength in the Reichstag. If the Socialists win sufficient representation, they intend to give the people universal suffrage. If this is done, the Socialists will be certain of being in power before long. At present, the working folk can not enforce their political ideals because of unequal suffrage in Germany.

It is charged that the fear of Socialist supremacy accounts for the demand for a larger army on the part of the Kaiser. There are, at present, 60,000 soldiers in the capital alone, ready to do the bidding of the Kaiser or his military representatives. The Socialists, however, are not troubled about that. Herr Babel says that the majority of workingmen who serve in the army, come out educated for Socialism. What they see and suffer there, makes them Socialists.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills.

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused ailments and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MRS. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

YOUTH WITHOUT MEMORY PUZZLE FOR A HOSPITAL

Operation Would Restore Mind, but He Demands a Relative Be Summoned.

NAME IS NOT KNOWN

Kansas City Woman Has Undertaken to Identify Man of Many Languages.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 21.—Fate has dropped a curtain behind a man known as Weiss in a hospital of this city, shutting off his view of the past so completely that all of his life beyond a few recent days, is screened from his mental vision. Evidently, a young man of culture and a student of medicine at the University of Chicago, Weiss is unable to tell anything of himself or penetrate the veil cutting him off from the past.

Mrs. Henry Cohen, member of the Jewish Charities, has taken an interest in the young man who does not know who he is and is trying to aid him in establishing his identity. From letters and papers found in his valise, which he left at Grand Central Station, she has some clews that may result into identification.

Physicians say that the lack of memory can be readily traced to a blow on the head, received more than a year ago, judging by the scar. Dr. Skinner, an X-ray expert, has made photographs of the head underneath the scar and says the a portion of the skull is resting on the brain.

Memory's Mysterious Trick.

Some of the many doctors who have investigated the case cannot understand why it is that the memory of the man still retains five languages, but does not reveal his own name or any circumstances of his life back of the time when the memory curtain was dropped. Weiss says he speaks five languages and he has been tested satisfactorily in French, Hebrew and German. English is evidently his native tongue as he speaks it fluently.

Seated in one of the sunshine rooms, the injured man was asked:

"Is your name Weiss?"

"I guess that's my name," he replied sadly, "at least it will be my name for the future anyway."

"Will you tell me where you live?"

"I wish I could. If I knew, I wouldn't stay here. I'd go home."

"Why don't you let Dr. Remley and Dr. Binnie operate on you and remove the pressure from your brain?"

"I would do so in a minute if I had some friend or relative present."

Demands Relative at Operation.

A few days before the interview, Weiss had given consent for the operation and his head, around the scar, was shaved. When the time came to go to the table, he refused unless a relative was present. He was unable to name any of his kinfolk, and the operation was passed.

"If they would only let me out of here and let me walk around town," said Weiss, "I believe that some one would recognize me and would tell me who I am. Maybe I might see something on the street that I had seen before and it would restore my memory."

The hospital authorities are puzzled over the predicament of the patient. It is conceded that an operation on his skull should be performed and in case he continues to decline to have this done, he will have to be discharged as his general physical health is good.

Stabbed by Negro Robber.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Simon Hambach, a storekeeper on Third avenue, was complacently counting his money in his place today when a negro entered and stabbed him twice in the left chest. The robber then took $121 and fled.

Schooner Twohy in Port.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The four-masted schooner John Twohy, which left New York Oct. 11 for San Juan, Porto Rico, and was many days overdue at that port, reached her destination yesterday with all well on board.

Sometimes you eat too much; sometimes you drink too much; sometimes you do both. Red Raven, the pleasant-tasting aperient water, puts you right.

ROBBERS TAKE BOY'S WAGES

Edward Duffy, 15 years old, was beaten by two negro highwaymen and robbed of his week's wages at the mouth of an alley just north of Garfield avenue, on Pendleton avenue, Monday night.

Edward, who lives at 4403 Page boulevard, was on his way home after delivering bundles for the Model and as he was passing the alley the negroes stopped him. They got $4.

Don't run the risk of having your wages stolen on the way home tonight. Deposit them in our Savings Department, which will remain open for your protection until 7:30 o'clock.

NO NEW PLAYS AMONG SUNDAY OPENING BILLS

Maude Adams at Olympic and Maxine Elliott at Garrick This Evening.

"POP" IN HIGH FAVOR

Program at the Symphony Concert Pleases House and Wins Encore.

The amusement week's opening yesterday afternoon and last night was unmarked by the presentation of any play not heretofore seen in St. Louis.

"The Third Degree," with Fernanda Eliscu in the star role created by Helen Ware, began its engagement at the Century. Miss Eliscu creditably acquitted herself, being especially satisfying in the stronger dramatic moments of the play's story.

"The Jolly Bachelors" entered upon the second week of its Sam S. Shubert engagement, which promises to be even more successful than the first. Stella Mayhew at her best heads the clever company. The St. Louis University football team will occupy boxes at the Shubert tonight. The boxes will be specially decorated in their honor.

"The Soul Kiss" was presented at the American, with Ethel Gilmore, an English favorite, in the role of The Dancer, created by Adeline Genee. The offering is a musical comedy.

"The Ninety and Nine," a beautiful heart-interest play, teaching a good lesson, began its engagement at the Imperial. Its big scenic feature shows a locomotive running at top speed through a burning forest.

"Blue Jeans," one of the most popular of native-type American plays, was capably presented at Havlin's by the well-cast stock company. Jessaline Rodgers and Frank T. Charlton have the leading roles.

The Kentucky Belles opened their week at the Standard, appearing in entertaining burlesque and vaudeville.

Robie's Knickerbockers began their engagement at the Gayety, presenting clever burlesque and vaudeville features.

The Dancing Colleens head the new bill which opened at the Gem yesterday. Other good features and up-to-date motion pictures are presented.

Maud Adams, in James M. Barrie's delightful comedy, "What Every Woman Knows," begins a week's engagement at the Olympic this evening.

Maxine Elliott in "The Inferior Sex," a new comedy telling of the feminine subjugation of a confirmed woman-hater, its scenes set on a yacht in mid-ocean, opens the week at the Garrick tonight.

The Princess begins its week of new vaudeville this afternoon, the double topliners being the crew of Walter Wellman's dirigible balloon "America," and Wish Wynne, the newest English comedienne.

The Columbia puts on its new bill at today's matinee, the top-line feature being Will M. Cressy and Blanche Dayne, in Mr. Cressy's clever one-act play entitled "Grasping an Opportunity."

The Colonial's new bill will be presented this evening, headed by the Wheelers, comedy juggling artists, in "Fun on the Boulevards."

The opening concert of the Apollo Club's season will be given at the Odeon tomorrow evening.

Miss Ellen Terry, the famous English actress, will appear at the Odeon on Wednesday evening in an illuminative discourse on Shakspeare's "Heroines Triumphant."

The third pair of subscription concerts of the Symphony Orchestra season will be given at the Odeon next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon.

SECOND "SUNDAY POP" CONCERT DELIGHTS BIG ODEON AUDIENCE

Symphony Orchestra Presents Pleasing Program Numbers and Four Encores.

The program presented by Max Zach at yesterday afternoon's second Sunday popular concert of the Symphony Orchestra season greatly pleased the large audience assembled for its hearing.

The offerings included three numbers then played for the first time by Mr. Zach's men; the finale of the first act of "Lohengrin," selections from Lionel Monckton's light opera success, "The Arcadians," and Joyce's "Visions of Salome" waltz, and these took their place among the favorites of the day. Other program numbers were Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite," admirably interpreted; the splendidly picturesque "Entrance of the Boyars," by Halvorsen, one of the big triumphs of last season; the overture to Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon," with its always pleasing tunefulness, and the exquisite Rubinstein "Melody in F." The four encores given by Mr. Zach in response to most enthusiastic applause were Gillett's "The Mill," a quaintly picturesque work; Dudessl's "A Petits Pas," "Marcietta" and Wagner's "Under the Double Eagle" march.

An uncommonly inviting program will be presented at the third regular pair of concerts to be given by the Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. It includes Rezniček's "Overture to Donna Diana," Schumann's "Symphony in C Major, No. 2," Dvorak's "Suite in D Major," Schjelderup's symphonic poem, "Summer Night on the Fjord," and Goldmark's "Sakuntala" overture.

BEAUTIFUL STAR APPEARING IN NEW PLAY AT GARRICK TONIGHT

TELLS HOBOES IT'S FOOLISH TO WORK: LOUD APPLAUSE

Speaker Assures How's Brethren He Made Great Capital by His Idleness.

It's foolish to work (hear, hear). The self-styled millionaire hobo says so. His name is Charlie Jones and he has made more capital out of idleness, he says, than most men can accumulate through years of toil. Jones was the principal speaker at Sunday's meeting of the Brotherhood Welfare Association, otherwise known as James Eads How's Hoboes.

His argument is that it is more to the interest of the capitalist to have a man work for him than to the interest of the man to work for the capitalist. Therefore, presto! The thing for the man to do is to quit working.

Jones, whose aversion to work commenced 35 years ago, says the reason for small wages is that the labor market is oversupplied with men.

"If we'd all knock off work for awhile we'd have the millionaires coming to us on their knees and begging us to take jobs at our own price. There is only a dollar a day difference between the man who works and the man who loafs—and the loafer usually has the dollar. Let us all be loafers." There was loud applause.

Friend of Taft's Father Dies.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 21.—Grant Howard Burrows, one time president of the National Association of Carriage Manufacturers, died here yesterday. He was 73 years old. While in Cincinnati during the Civil War, where he had a large carriage factory, he and Judge Alphonso Taft, father of the President, established a warm friendship.

OUT OF HEALTH

is a very common expression.

Are you one of the unfortunates—and what is the cause?

There are hundreds of people right in this vicinity who have poor blood, are run down, all tired out, with no strength, vitality or ambition.

We want to ask all such people to call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, which is made without oil and very palatable.

We claim it will make pure, rich red blood, and impart new life, energy and strength to every person who does not feel well. If it fails we will return your money—without question. Isn't this a fair and generous offer?

A case is reported from Leipsic, Ind.—Mrs. C. R. Catlin was troubled with indigestion—was weak—all run-down. She says Vinol cured her stomach trouble — restored her strength—and made her feel like a new woman. Anyone in her condition can get the same benefit from Vinol. YOUTH'S LIE SENDS HIM TO PENITENTIARY FOR 13 YEARS

California Burglar Would Have Received Clemency Had He Told Truth About Age.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21.—Had "Harry Raymond," 19 years old, told the truth about his age to Judge Hughes while on trial for burglary last Friday he would today be an inmate of a reform school, with chances of a new start in life sometime.

Instead he swore he was 23 years old, so he was taken to Folsom, yesterday to serve a 13-year sentence.

The boy told the Sheriff's deputies yesterday his true age, that his name was Eustace Cokram, and that his family resides in Choptank, Carolina County, Md.

SOCIETY NEWS

MR. AND MRS. FRED ZEIBIG of 37 Kingsbury place will be hosts at a dinner dance Monday evening they will give at the St. Louis Club in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Prudence Zeibig. Miss Zeibig spent the past summer in travel through Europe. She graduated from the Sacred Heart Convent at Maryville and is one of the popular members of the fashionable set. She took a prominent part in the presentation of "Mrs. Spencer's House Party" at the Woman's Club two weeks ago.

The St. Louis Club will be decorated with chrysanthemums of various colors. The ballroom will be festooned with Killarney roses. Mr. and Mrs. Zeibig and Miss Zeibig will receive. The guests will include the debutantes of this and last season and a few of the host and hostess friends, who will serve as chaperons.

There will be a reception at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., Monday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The officers and members of the Executive Board of Hospital Saturday and Sunday and the women who will preside over the boxes at the annual collection Saturday will meet at the St. Louis Club Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to perfect arrangements for the occasion. Tea will be served. David R. Francis is president of the association.

Daniel Catlin departed last week for New York and is a guest at the Plaza. George W. Simmons is also a guest at the same hotel.

The engagement of Samuel M. Dodd of Vanderbilt place and Miss Mary Parke of Philadelphia has been announced. No date for the wedding has been set.

Mrs. Silas H. Wright of the Buckingham entertained at bridge Monday afternoon. Mrs. Wright's guests all were members of her Monday Club.

Miss Eloise McLeod is making a tour of Old Mexico with Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Mansur of 6227 McPherson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. McChesney will depart shortly for Porto Rico, where they will spend the greater part of the winter.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Robert J. Carroll for a reception she will give Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29, from 3 to 5 o'clock, at her residence, 5109 Fairmount avenue. Mrs. Carroll's guest of honor will be her daughter, Miss Helene Carroll.

Miss Lois Campbell, who was called home on account of the death of her brother, has returned to New York, where she is attending school.

Mrs. George Woolley Jr. of Columbia, S. C., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. P. Park of Chamberlain avenue.

TWO MEN BURNED TO DEATH

Could Not Find the Door of a Blazing Building.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Fighting their way through dense smoke and blinding flames in a burning oil house on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad today, Howard Vinkendoff and Wilbert Elery were burned to death.

The men had worked all of Sunday and part of the night and had gone to sleep in the oil room. Sparks from a passing locomotive fired the little building and the men could be seen running around endeavoring to find the door before they fell.

We Will Loan

Electric Globes, Inspect House Wiring and make free outside wire connections to any residence on our lines, on sixty days trial. At end of trial period if service is not satisfactory, we take back the lamps and disconnect- charging only for the service at our regular rates.

If Your House Is Wired But No Fixtures Installed we will furnish six electric fixtures complete for $12.63 and you can have a year to pay for them.

If Your House Is Not Wired, we will wire it for ELECTRIC LIGHT SERVICE, one outlet for fixture in each of five rooms for approximately $18.00 and addional fixture outlets at a proportionate advance-You can have a year to pay for the work.

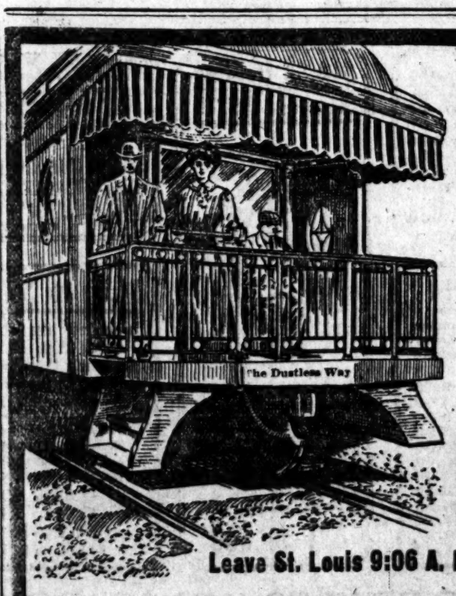

Current for a 16 candle power incandescent electric lamp furnished by us, will cost less than two thirds of a cent per hour. If the service during trial is satisfactory, we charge you fifteen cents each for the 16 candle power lamps and renew them free when burned out. Count and Countess TOLSTOY

Leo Tolstoy. TOLSTOY at the AGE of 80

Count TOLSTOY'S DWELLING at YASNAYA POLYANA

TOLSTOY in 1878.

By Associated Press.

ASTAPOVA, Nov. 21.—A special train bearing the body of Count Tolstoy to Yasnaya, Poliana, the family estate in the Government of Tula, left here at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. The Countess and the other members of the family accompanied the body.

A halt for the night will be made at the railway junction at Gorbatchevo and the train is due at Zaseika, the station near Yasnaya Poliana, early tomorrow. The distance from the depot to the Tolstoy home is not great and the casket, according to Russian custom, probably will be borne to the house on the shoulders of the mourners.

Since early morning the Countess had sat in the station master's hut where her husband died with her head bowed upon the casket and weeping. She appeared not to notice the defile of peasants admitted to the death chamber and quitted her position only when M. Gunzberg, the sculptor, came to take a death mask. Leonid O. Pasternak, the portrait painter, sketched the scene.

This was as simple as Tolstoy could have wished. The body reposed in an oak coffin, at the foot of which a few wreaths of fir, emblematic of immortality, had been placed. The platform of the railroad station was covered with fir bows, spread by the peasants. The station master has consented to the transfer of his humble home, in which the Count died, to Yasnaya Poliana, where, together with its furniture, it will become a part of the proposed Tolstoy museum.

Dispute Over Burial of Tolstoy Involves Emperor and the Church.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

ASTAPOVA, Russia, Nov. 21.—Chants for the repose of the soul of Leo Tolstoy sounded in the cottage where the body of the great Russian lay, but no one here seemed to know whether the funeral will be under the sanction of the Greek Catholic church.

Countess Tolstoy made many visits to the bier. "The light of the world is out," she said repeatedly. She left the hut to attend matins in the school chapel, expecting that a requiem would be sung. When informed that this was not permitted, she fainted.

Tolstoy left a written wish that he be buried without pomp, wreath or rites under "poverty oak" on a hillock at Yasnaya, Poliana, where he played when he was a child, and where the peasants were accustomed to congregate. The funeral will be held tomorrow, and the police have been mobilized to prevent public demonstrations.

Asked for Simple Funeral.

Tolstoy's death occurred peacefully at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. It was due directly to heart failure, following inflammation of the lungs.

He quitted his home and family 10 days ago to find solitude, in the belief that the hand of death was already upon him. True to his unswerving and uncompromising theories to the last, he died as he had lived, without reconciliation with the church.

Members of the clergy in the last days made pressing attempts to gain entrance to the sick room, with a view of inducing him to return to the arms of the church, but the doctors repulsed them on the ground that their patient was too ill to receive them.

Emperor May Order Rites.

The Emperor and his minister are anxious that Tolstoy shall be buried with the rites of the church; but the Holy Synod is strongly against this and probably he will be buried without such rites, unless the Emperor commands otherwise.

Popular feeling is universally for a religious funeral, and never before was there such confusion and bewilderment over the body of a great man who was regarded by the world as one of the sincerest of Christians.

After a Wrangle, Duma Adjourns as Honor to Tolstoy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 21.—The Duma adjourned today's session out of respect for Count Tolstoy. The decision to adjourn was reached only after a wrangle, the members of the extreme right contending that to honor the memory of Count Tolstoy would be to challenge the Greek Catholic Church. It also was asserted that the Duma was a state institution which the count especially opposed.

In proposing the adjournment the president eulogized Tolstoy, whom he described as the "pride of Russia and the glory of mankind," adding "May the merciful God open to him the kingdom of Heaven."

Many societies and organizations are preparing to send deputations to the funeral.

Theaters Close Despite Police Order.

MOSCOW, Nov. 21.—The police forbade the theaters from suspending their performances yesterday because of the death of Count Tolstoy. Nevertheless, the playhouses were closed, as the actors refused to appear. At the Moscow Armenian Church a public requiem was permitted.

COMPARES DEATH TO TOWER'S FALL

Author G. K. Chesterton Finds a World Moral in Tolstoy's Career.

Special Cable From the London Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Gilbert Keith Chesterton, the journalist and author, spoke this obituary of Tolstoy:

"With the death of Tolstoy the world is shaken by the fall of a tower, and even those who called the tower 'crazy' would still call it tall. He was, perhaps, the fullest, finest expression of the strange energy of our time.

"The modern spirit has many names. Some have called it progress. But in truth the modern spirit has always looked backward and draws its inspiration from an almost forgotten past. All our modern anarchists have been antiquarits; Tolstoy went back to the early Christians; Nietzsche went back to the early pagans. Neither, I think, knew much about either of their authorities. But it is still a great tribute to those ancient religions that even our evolutionists cannot kick quite free of them.

"Tolstoy was an autocrat who had served as a soldier and who experienced a violent revolution against these two questionable trades. It was then he began to write his three or four first novels and showed himself one of the first novelists of Europe. He had the true talent of realism, which is selecting without appearing to select.

"With this Tolstoy swept Western Europe clean of the stagnant smells of Zola; he ascended a throne that had not been filled for centuries: he became a Puritan pope; his encyclicals were sent out to Europe with all that ring of dogma and decision in which he rejoiced. The bulls were often wild and ruthless—that men must never resist a tyrant; that men must never leve their country or desire their offspring. But his followers followed, for the thing was really a religion.

"Indeed, the chief moral of this wonderful story is the error of those who think this modern world materialistic and lacking in spiritual intensity. The modern world is much too fanatical.

"As I have said, two great progressives have excited our time; one dies in a madhouse; the other on his way to a hermitage."

DYING, HE FOUGHT WITH HIS DOCTORS

Tolstoy Flung Physicians Aside and Refused Assistance of Oxygen.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Times says that during his last moments Tolstoy tried to rise, flinging aside the medical attendants who were holding him down. He refused to breath the oxygen which they attempted to administer; then morphine was injected. He fell into a doze. Dr. Makovelitsky wanted to remove him to another bed and the Count, demurring, finally consented, saying:

"Do what you will; it is all the same to me."

It is understood that the family may apply to the old believers or the Protestant clergy to perform the burial rites. The authorities at Moscow may refuse to allow the public transfer of the body from Riagan to Kursk station, in fear of a collision with Tolstoy's admirers and the Black Hundred.

All the leading journals, says the correspondent, indignantly protest against the action of Count Tchertkoff and the others who excluded the Countess from the sick room. Tolstoy constantly asked for her and dictated numerous messages to her under the belief that she was ill at Yasnaya Poliana.

"I understand," continues the correspondent, "that despite the attempts at mediation, difficulties are likely to rise between the family and Tchertkoff, who possesses Tolstoy's manuscripts, including 30 volumes of his memoirs and the novel 'Hadji Murat.'"

TOLSTOY PRAISED BY NOTED WRITERS

Passing Makes a Profound Impression on the Paris Literary World.

Special Correspondence From the Paris Bureau of Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Tolstoy's death made a profound impression on the literary and philosophic world here. Several distinguished authors expressed their grief at the passing of the great Russian.

Jule Lemaitre, one of the "forty immortals" of the French Academy, wrote:

"He was a man of extraordinary genius and character; not a guide, but an illuminator. The words of the axiom in his 'Power of Darkness,' 'one must of necessity have a soul,' might serve as an epitaph for him and all his works."

Anatole France, who was a close friend of Tolstoy, said:

"Tolstoy was to Russia what Shakspeare was to England and Goethe to Germany. There were two personalities in Tolstoy. One was duplex, the author of 'Anna Karemina' was at once the man who loved life itself above everything else and the philosopher who considered man an atom in the ocean of life.

"He believed that everything that forces these atoms to combat each other is wrong, and this conviction created in him his other personality—that of the seer who believes in the advent of peace on earth.

"If this belief is, as some say, a return to primitive Christianity, then Tolstoy was a Eutopist, but if it is a true presentment of the genius of humanity and its tendency, this Eutopia may become a reality.

"So I believe in Tolstoy's genius because in the last hundred years there has been a diminution of wars, international relations have been established, militarism has been replaced by cureism. Therefore the great Tolstoy must take his place as one of the prophets of the new era."

Marcelle Finagre, perhaps the most popular woman writer in France, said:

"There is much discussion about Tolstoy's regret to leave his wife and family. This much is to be said:

"Tolstoy had given to his family the reflection of his glory and the profit from his works. For them he renounced the life of austerity and solitude that was dear to him; for them he suffered the eternal contraction of his principles and his daily life.

"Before dying he wished to realize the true Tolstoy; he wished to bequeath to the people his last works and go his way as one of the poor of earth. His family could harrass him; it could not make him unworthy of himself."

Jean D'Orsay, well known under that non de plume as a writer on foreign subjects, said:

"Tolstoy is dead. It is not only a great mind which disappears; it is a moment when the conscience of humanity enters into history."

No Better Nervine Than This Home-Made One.

The household nerve remedy suggested below is simple and can be made at small cost. But just the same, it is a splendid medicine for weakened or deranged nerves. Even in cases of nervous prostration and St. Vitus Dance it has been used with great success.

From any druggist buy 5 cents' worth of Hops and 2 ounces of Thargol Compound (50 cents' worth). Make a strong tea by steeping the hops in a pint of boiling water, then strain. Put the Thargol in an 8-ounce (½-pint) bottle, and fill it up with the Hop Tea. Try two teaspoonfuls four times daily.

This home-made nervine is very prompt in its relief of any nervous ailment. Being free from opiates or other dangerous drugs, it is entirely safe to use and has no evil after effects. It soothes and strengthens the nerves, and is especially fine for nervous headache or sleeplessness. In fact, no better nerve remedy can be had at any price.

Your druggist has Thargol Comp. or will get it for you on request. If not, send to Indiana Pharmaceutical Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.—ADV.

HENRY GEORGE JR. IN WARM TRIBUTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Congressman-elect Henry George Jr. had this to say on the action of the orthodox church in refusing to lift the ban of ex-communication from Count Tolstoy:

"One of the great lights of the world goes out with Tolstoy, and despite the burning of his books, despite his excommunication, and the decree that his body shall not be buried in consecrated ground, the soul of Leo Tolstoy will be enshrined in the hearts of the great multitude of Russians.

"In life they could and did seize his intimate friends one by one and send them out of the province of Tula, and some were sent even into Siberia, but they dared not lay a finger on the frail old man whose only word was peace and brotherly love.

"To him who had struck him on one cheek he would have turned the other. His spirit was stronger than bayonets and his death will be mourned all over the planet."

Miss Jane Addams Tells How Tolstoy Criticised Her.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, who made a pilgrimage to Tolstoy's home in 1896 said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent:

"Count Tolstoy was dressed in the garb of a peasant when I saw him, but he bore himself like a gentleman of breeding. He spoke English well. We talked about social conditions, the higher morals, the theory of non-resistance and literature. He seemed more interested in the writing of William Dean Howells than the writings of any other American. He said that Mr. Howells showed the gentleness of spirit which he himself was seeking to cultivate in his daily life.

"The Count had heard of Hull House, and he asked me about it, but I am afraid he did not wholly approve of that kind of charity. His beliefs were too austere for that.

"Glancing at the sleeves of my traveling gown, which were monstrous, he took hold of an edge, and, pulling out one sleeve to an interminable breadth, remarked that 'There was enough stuff in one arm to make a frock for a little girl,' and asked if I did not find 'such a dress a barrier to the people.'

"I was asked who fed me and how I obtained shelter. Upon my reply that a farm a hundred miles from Chicago supplied me with the necessities of life, I fairly anticipated the next scathing question:

"'So you are an absentee landlord? Do you think you will help the people more by adding yourself to the crowded city than you would by tilling your own soil?'"

Tolstoy Said No Man Should Write Plays or Poetry.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Arpad Passtor, a distinguished Hungarian author and editor of An Est, a semi-official evening paper of Budapest, is in America to study the condition of Hungarian immigrants. In September he visited Tolstoy at Yasnaya Polyiana.

"He shook my hand," Mr. Passter relates, "and remarked: 'You are a Hungarian. I like Hungarians. Where are you going?'

"'To Japan to study art and to America to study immigration,' I replied.

"'Art? Art? Who knows what true art is? What is your profession?'

"'A writer,' I answered.

"'And you write what'

"'Plays for the theater.'

"'Oh, that is terrible!' he exclained. 'No one should write plays. Many of them poison the soul of the public. What other things do you write?'

"'Poems.'

"'Poems! Oh! You unhappy man! Why is a man writing poems if he can write prose? Why does he make a prison of his sentences by rhyme and rhythm?'"

ARCHER CALLS ONE ACT IN PLAY TOLSTOY'S BEST WORK

LONDON, Nov. 21.

WILLIAM ARCHER, critic and translater of Ibsen, writes:

"Among the greatest achievements of Tolstoy's genius I should reckon the alternative act in 'The Power of Darkness.' The act of the child murder being reckoned too horrible, he wrote another act dealing with what was passing at the same time among the other characters and with the element of physical horror omitted. By the sheer force of genius it was more terrible than the original act.

"He was a thinker, on the other hand. Tolstoy has never very greatly interested me because I have felt his thought to be vitiated by certain initial prejudices and temperamental twists.

"It has never seemed to me that human nature could be amended by sheer rebellion against its fundamental facts, and that I regard, perhaps mistakenly, as the essential tendency of Tolstoy on philosophy."

SON AND HUSBAND ANGRY WITH HER, SHE TRIES TO DIE

Leaps in River When One Complains of Food and Other Leaves in Anger.

At the close of the saddest Sunday in her 35 years of married life, Mrs. Louisa Feldkamp, 58 years old, attempted to end her life by jumping into the Mississippi River at the foot of La Beaume street.

In the morning her husband had quarreled with her and had left their house in anger. In the evening her son criticised the food which she had cooked for his supper and which she had kept warm four hours so that he might not go to bed hungry.

A watchman saved her life after she had leaped into the river.

"I felt that I had lived too long," said Mrs. Feldkamp Monday at the city hospital. "It seemed to me that I couldn't please anybody any more. I had lived only to please my husband and my boy.

"Men don't know how women feel about such things. When a woman has done her best and then fault is found with her, it is worse than death."

The Feldkamps live at 816 La Beaume street. Neighbors say their home life has seemed ideal. Mrs. Feldkamp says that Sunday's quarrel was the most serious she ever had with her husband.

"Nothing I did seemed to suit him Sunday morning," she said. "He put on his coat and hat and went out, slamming the door behind him. He had never done that before and it hurt my feelings and made me sad.

"I was alone all day. I thought my son, Walter, would come home for supper at 6 o'clock and I cooked a steak and fried potatoes for him. He didn't come until 10 o'clock, but I had his supper warm. He took a bite of the potatoes and then pushed the dish over to me. 'These are no good,' he said.

"I told him that I felt like doing away with myself. He laughed and said: 'You're only fooling.' Then he went out again.

"I walked down to the river. The water looked so peaceful that I thought I would end it all by sinking to sleep in the river.

"I jumped in. After I sank once I saw a board floating toward me and I caught hold of it. It kept me afloat until two men pulled me on to a steamboat."

Physicians at the city hospital say that she was chilled and that her condition is serious as a result of the shock.

James Allen, night watchman on the steamer Calhoun, and P. H. McMillan, switchman for the Wiggins Ferry Co., rescued her.

The Saint Louis POST-DISPATCH

The Great Daily of the Mississippi Valley

Holds unchallenged supremacy in circulation, commercial advertising and classified advertising.

It is in a class by itself.

Competition is not near enough to make it interesting.

The Reasons for this overwhelming preference for the POST-DISPATCH by all advertisers are

Because it sells more papers in St. Louis than there are homes in this western metropolis.

Because it combines high character with quantity of circulation.

Because it does not carry objectionable medical, fake financial, or get-rich-quick advertising.

Because there are only five Sunday newspapers in the United States that equal its legitimate Sunday paid circulation.

COUNT TOLSTOY.

Count Lyof Tolstoy, the most colossal figure in the literary world, is dead. The only writer of perfect fiction, William Dean Howells called him, and that critical verdict stands undisputed. But Tolstoy was more than author. He was reformer, teacher, missionary and sage. His capacity to produce work perfect in form and style is subsidiary to the higher genius which made it creative in essence, critical in effect and purposeful in substance. Within the sphere of this single individuality were combined the divergent powers of artist, philosopher and seer. He touched nothing but to illumine and clarify it. Through the simplest tale shines the light of the highest truth. His was the genius to reach into the purple mysteries beyond the range of translation into words and suggest what cannot be said.

Truth was the one aim of this great thinker and writer. For love of it he sacrificed much, and in demonstration of it he sacrificed more. He pried into society only to strip it of its hypocrisies. He saw in government only the tyrannies of men. He saw in the established church the smug content bent on perpetuating itself and tore to shreds the raiment which covered the hidden ugliness beneath.

The works of Tolstoy will survive to the end of time. He will be remembered as perhaps the most profound influence of his day on human thought. Out of the depths of his nature he drew new preachments of the doctrines of fundamental and unhampered Christianity. He was the sternest advocate of the rule of non-resistance: Turn the other cheek; lay not up for yourself treasures on earth; take what ye have and give to the poor—ancient rules of human guidance, but so perfect in conception, so universally forceful in significance that the genius of the age found in them reflected the sum of all philosophy.

Miss Lucy Weston has never, never seen anything quite so stolid as the street car manners of St. Louis men, but then she has not investigated the manners of the United Railways.

PUBLIC GOLF COURSES.

Congratulations are due Park Commissioner Scanlan for his prompt response to the Post-Dispatch's suggestion of a public golf course in Forest Park. The extension of the idea so that there may be courses in North and South St. Louis also is an improvement. St. Louis has lagged behind other cities in such works.

Golf is a rich man's game only when the course on which it is played is secured and maintained by private enterprise. It should be played by everyone. It combines recreation and healthful exercise as does no other sport. It makes no demand on energy that age cannot meet measurably with youth.

The public golf courses in Chicago and New York are very popular. They are well laid out and are equipped with public clubhouses with lockers and baths, which are maintained by the charge of small fees. These could be added in St. Louis if the demand warrants. But the golf courses alone will be important additions to the park equipment and advantageous to the people.

Nobody knows just what the Colonel meant, and, considering the recent frazzle, he is probably in doubt himself.

VICTOR BERGER—AND MRS. VICTOR.

The Socialist Congressman-elect from Milwaukee may be regarded in some quarters as a dangerous character, because he proposes to abolish the Constitution of the United States. But, if the soon-to-be-Hon. Victor is dangerous, what of his wife?

Mrs. Berger advocates the organization of a union of housewives, with the avowed object of forcing husbands to divide their incomes equally with wives. This seems to be even more anarchical and perilous than abolishing the Constitution.

From time immemorial, long before the Constitution of the United States was dreamed of, it has been the privilege of man to spend his earnings according to his own sweet will. Over the polished counter, across the green cloth, for glad raiment or castles in the air, each and every husband has scattered his hard-wor cash wherever fancy lured him.

If Mrs. Berger has her way, all this will be changed. Imagine a new order of things prevailing, enforced by a Housewives' Union, ready to go on strike if any mere husband refuses to submit to the half-and-half scale.

Victor Berger may be a menace, but it certainly looks as though he was a mighty mild menace compared with Mrs. Victor. Mere man should rejoice that he, and not his wife, will presently be lawmaking at Washington.

Now is the time to begin that Christmas shopping. Instead of crowding all your purchasing into the last few days before Christmas, when the stores are crowded and clerks are rushed to the limit of endurance, exercise the Christmas spirit in advance, and benefit yourself and others.

WITHHOLD THIS FRANCHISE.

The franchise asked by the Southern Illinois Traction Company for tracks over the free bridge and on certain streets connecting with the western end should not be seriously considered at this time. It is unnecessary to restate the general rule that franchises are to be considered only from the viewpoint of advantage to the city. It is not necessary in this case to go even that far.

The facts are eloquent. First, the franchise would be of no use to the Southern Illinois Traction Company except for peddling or financing purposes, and however important this may be to the company it is not a matter for the city's concern. Second, the franchise could not be used for other purposes until the free bridge is finished. Third, before the bridge is finished St. Louis will have, everyone fondly expects, a new and model charter.

In this new charter provision will be made for city ownership of terminals. In this eventuation the traction company need have no concern about a terminal if its request for the franchise is made only because of the desire or necessity of gaining entrance to St. Louis.

On the other hand, Mr. Gerhart's simple demonstration that granting this franchise would close to the city practically the only streets now available for the proposed municipal terminals is about conclusive that it would embarrass the city if it is not, as a matter of fact, so intended.

It is no wonder the Merchants' Exchange is prepared to fight the franchise seekers. St. Louis has had enough experience with the risks that attach to all sorts of franchises to withhold granting this one for an indefinite time.

On the basis of Mr. Bowman's assertion that if the city proposes getting the last dollar of profit out of the Union Market property his proposal cannot be considered, what is the degree of the philanthropy involved and what is the percentage of the promoters?

OUR INDIAN SUMMER ATMOSPHERE.

"Indian summer" came a little late this year, but it is now in progress in St. Louis and in a wide region around it. After the latest summer winds are over and before the gales of winter begin to blow, there are two or three delightful weeks of rural stillness, during which the leaves flutter slowly down from the branches in woods where there is hardly wind enough to do more than flutter a single leaf as it falls.

Owing to this deep and peaceful pause of nature, the smoke hangs low in blue wreaths on the far-off, quiet hills, and the sun shines golden through a delicate haze, pervading the dreamy atmosphere.

This is what the poets say about Indian summer, at any rate. Councilman Schneiderhahn can find a shelf-full of them at the Public Library to confirm this diagnosis of the meaning of Indian summer in St. Louis. With us, the smoke, instead of hanging in blue wreaths on far off hills, blankets the city and everybody in it, including Councilman Schneiderhahn, as he perfects his new theory that the way to get the Indian summer smoke out of our soft coal is to wash it out.

The Post-Dispatch does not indorse poetical theories of Indian summer on its own responsibility, but there is a practical test. Its deep, putative, poetical peace is expected to end in a November or early December blizzard, which blows the peaceful haze from Missouri southeast to the West Indies. We always choke in windless weather in St. Louis. As a blizzard is the only thing which has ever given us a carbon-free atmosphere under the anti-smoke ordinance, we can now wait for it as nature's remedy for Indian summer.

Japan has ordered a dreadnought bigger than any other dreadnought. This is the first effect of the war scare fathered by young Mr. Rogers, the amateur military strategist. The warship builders should subsidize his department of prophecy.

OUR IMMORAL TARIFF LAW.

The announcement of United States Attorney Whitney that the Government has been swindled out of a larger sum than the Sugar Trust stole by frauds in the importation of woolens is additional proof of the failure of the tariff, both as a revenue producer and as an enforceable law.

Protected trusts cheat the Custom House to secure cheaper raw materials. Big importers cheat that they may add to their profits the extra price for which they can plead the tariff as an excuse to their customers. In either case the public pays the bill.

If tariff-dodging is as prevalent along the line as in sugar and woolens, it is apparent that public revenue from the tariff should be at least twice its actual amount.

The big fellows dodge. The public cannot. The sugar and woolen men may defraud Uncle Sam out of millions. Mrs. John Smith cannot bring more than $100 worth of foreign wearing apparel back from a summer in Europe without being arrested on the dock, her gowns confiscated and a heavy fine imposed as a penalty.

Revising the tariff is only one duty of the Democratic Congress. The light must be turned on the tariff frauds and steals of the trusts.

If New York must celebrate its 300th birthday next year, why not a geographical congress to teach it something about the extent and location of the rest of the world?

PENALTIES OF "TRUST BUSTING."

The window glass trust, being "busted" for the time being by an inconsiderate court, proceeds to penalize the workers in its glass factories by reducing wages 30 per cent. It is claimed for the trust that it increased wages 12½ per cent during the twelve months it ran in defiance of the anti-trust law.

Supposing, as Attorney-General Wickersham suggested, the trust members guilty of defying the law openly and flagrantly, had been given jail sentences instead of merely being fined? What penalty would have been inflicted upon the glass blowers? Would there be any reason for a reduction of wages?

The penalty which will be inflicted upon the consuming public is that they will have to pay the cost of the "busting" and the loss inflicted upon the trust. Would they be mulcted by the glass barons if any of these "malefactors of wealth" had to suffer jail sentences instead of fines?

In other words, the population of Memphis is not what it was confidently expected it would have been if it had been more than it is, to say nothing of prohibition which is much on the contrary.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Saloon Regulation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why do saloons, like gambling houses, screen their windows and doors? I am not a prohibitionist, but do believe all saloons should be run on the wide-open policy. By this I mean that they should be run like any other business, make them do away with all screens on windows and doors. Have no tables or chairs for loafers. Have all business transacted in a front room, level with the sidewalks and exposed to the full public view. Allow no liquor to be sold in winerooms, booths or other adjoining places. Have all dining rooms of hotels, restaurants and clubs where liquor is sold open to full public view. In fact, have the license both from the Government and State cover above suggestions, and I believe 80 per cent of the crimes and wrongs charged to saloons would disappear. The above rules need not be made to apply to a private party or place where liquor is given away, but to every place where it is sold only. This would prevent our minors from being able to get it so easily, and that is practically the only class I believe in protecting, our boys and girls under 21.

Kindly let some saloon man explain why they should screen their places any more than a barber, butcher, drug or other business, if it is run legitimately.

DR. JACK ALLEN.

Public Golf Links.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial on "Public Golf Links" in today's issue is fine. Why cannot the city take in the tract just west of Forest Park on which I see a large "for sale" sign. Pay for the property as was done in purchase of Fairground Park, and thus give public grounds easy of access by street car on both north and south sides? The golf links in Franklin Park, Boston, are crowded with players of both sexes, from morning till night, and are no easier of access than the ground west of Forest Park, which could be made a park of and cared for as one tract.

Success to you in your good work.

GOLFER.

What Causes High Prices?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a believer in free trade, or at least in a low, uniform tariff for revenue only, I have for years voted the Democratic ticket, and I voted the straight Democratic ticket at the last election. But I am neither fool nor hypocrite enough to believe or contend that the present era of high prices is due to the tariff. Such letters as that of "Senex" in a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch are the rankest kind of nonsense.

Perhaps "Senex" will in another letter be more specific and name certain commodities that have increased in price solely as a result of trust manipulation. The following table of comparative prices from Bradstreet's Journal may interest him:

	Feb. 1, 1900.	Nov. 1, 1909.
Wheat, per bushel	$ 75	$1.22
Corn, per bushel	40	70
Beeves per 100 lbs., best native steers	6.35	9.00
Hogs, prime, per 100 lbs.	4.90	8.00
Eggs, per dozen	19	38
Cotton, per pound	08	15

What has caused such phenomenal increases in the price of the above articles? Is there a farmers' trust? No wonder farmers are riding in automobiles. But here are some more figures:

	Feb. 1, 1900.	Nov. 1, 1909.
Sugar, per lb	$0.0515	$0.0505
Salt, per sack 224 lbs	1.05	1.00
Steel rails, per ton	35.00	28.00
Steel beams, per ton	45.00	31.00
Coal oil, per gallon	.099	.085
Wire nails, per keg	3.65	2.25
Ginghams, per yard	0.55	0.55

This last list of articles is popularly supposed to be under trust control. If this is the result of trust manipulation and if low prices are desirable, by all means let there be more trusts. Did the tariff have anything to do with above prices? In 1900 we had had three years of the Dingley tariff. In 1909 the Payne-Aldrich bill became a law. Let the facts speak for themselves.

Any teacher of economics will tell "Senex" that there has been a proportionate increase in prices in the last 15 years of almost everything imaginable from a hair-cut to a seat in the stock exchange, not only in the United States but all over the world. In the September issue of the Bulletin of the National Association of Credit Men appeared an article on this subject which concluded as follows: "If other nations are experiencing the same phenomena as ourselves it is patent that there must be an underlying general cause quite apart from any local conditions."

What is this "underlying general cause?"

Protect the Workers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The national eight-hour day and employers' liability law recommended by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, are the most vitally necessary laws for the protection of this country. Certain employers, in their mad rush for money, are killing people and causing insanity all over the country by forcing their help to work too long hours and under dangerous conditions. Just think of 10,000 men being killed in the mines of this country in one year! and how many thousands more are killed in other industries. Doesn't that show the necessity of a national employers' liability law at the earliest possible moment? Every injury, as the loss of an arm, leg, finger, broken limb, wounds, etc., should be compensated for by a certain liberal sum and a liberal amount in case of death, without any technicalities to eat up most of it.

Most people's lives are valuable until 60 years of age and many after that, as the many white-haired, self-made millionaires prove.

With a national eight-hour law the people would have sufficient time to rest and educate themselves and would be better citizens. Employers would also receive better service as a result, and the national liability law would protect everybody. It seems strange that they have not been passed long ago. The thousands of deaths yearly, all over the country, show the necessity of it soon. Will Gompers obtain these laws from Congress or will the Socialists win?

E. A. B. Z.

(You exaggerate when you say, "Just think of 10,000 men being killed in the mines of this country in one year." The number in 1909, according to United States Geographical Survey, killed in coal mines, was 2412. Deaths in other mines would not bring the total up anywhere near your figures. Exaggeration is foolish.—Ed. Post-Dispatch.)

"FORE!"

THE SPEED MANIACS.

From the New York Evening Sun.

A motor ambulance for a hearse, leading a line of 20 motor cars and 25 motorcycles, made up the procession at the funeral of a motorcyclist in Kansas City, who had met his death by violent collision with a heavy wagonload of tombstones.

Such a procession, with the grotesque suggestion added by the burden carried on the wagon which had killed the man, might readily suggest a highly fantastic danse macabre—but for the overwhelming presence of death, which checks laughter. As a matter of fact, the clergyman who conducted the funeral services addressed some 200 goggled and gauntleted devotees of speeding with very sensible words. "I would exhort you all to use more care, more caution," said he. "You are engaged in a business that is very dangerous. Death is around us on all sides. You should think of it more."

How long did any of the speed maniacs continue to think of it, after the body of the dead man had been carried out? How often do any of them think of it, as they whirl through city streets and country roads, drunken with the strong exhilaration of the sport, blind to everything but the crown of the road, forgetful of everything except their own selfish impulse to devour space and be somewhere else at top speed, simply for the excitement of the flight? And when, occasionally, one of them runs into a brick wall, or a telegraph pole, or a load of tombstones—the human being afoot who has just escaped the passage of those whirling wheels may feel that if one really wishes to die happy, to die in such a whirl of insane, irresponsible joy must be held the highest good fortune.

"HANDLING" CONGRESSMEN.

From the Chicago Tribune.

A young millionaire officer in the New York national guard, home from abroad and bringing back a fear of Japanese invasion of the United States, advocated in an interview a system of compulsory military service of three years for every able-bodied American citizen. To bring this about, he advised everyone to "kick his Congressman." That, he said, was the only way to get anything out of him. The young man is the son and heir of the late H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil Co. If young Mr. Rogers will consult the partner of his father, Mr. Archbold, he will learn of a more peaceful and effective method of handling congressmen and senators.

A Wise Provision.

From the Kansas City Journal.

The attitude of the constitutional convention of Arizona is emphatically to be commended in overruling by an overwhelming vote the adverse report of its Judiciary Committee and adopting a provision prohibiting the incarcerating of juvenile offenders with adults in jails and prisons.

Eggs and Automobiles.

From the Indianapolis News.

At present and prospective quotations an egg is very much like an automobile. It isn't worth the money, but if you are going to have it you have to pay the price. Still, on the other hand, the upkeep is not such a serious matter.

CARUSO IN ARIZONA.

You wouldn't know the Desert Spring
These autumn nights. It ain't the same
Ol' house o' mirth it was before
The phony-what-you-call-it came.
The boys don't care for faro now,
Or poker, or for anything,
But jus' to set aroun' the horn
An' listen to Carusy sing.

"There ain't no doubt," says Pinto Pete,
"That this 'ere music has its charms
To subjigate the human breast
An' make an outfit stack its arms."
"The which is true," says Texas Jack.
"It's that persuadin' it appeals
To one until his cussedness
Jus' percolates out through his heels."

There's one o' them selections where Coyote says the girl is dead,
An' Edgar stan's beside the grave,
His heart jus' like a chunk o' lead.
We can't quite savey what he says,
Our language bein' strange to his,
But you ought to see the outfit when
He tells them punchers how it is.

Jus' man to man with Alkali
A-settin' there agin the rim
O' that big horn, an' harrowin'
His bleedin' heart most out o' him;
The big tears rollin' down his cheeks,
An' human nature in the rough
Assertin' in a husky voice
He 'lows it must be awful tough.

An' Idaho, as had a some-
What similar bereavement once,
An' says to him he understands,
With sad and melancholy grunts.
You wouldn't think as sympathy
Was in that hard an' seasoned crew,
But you ought to hear 'em when he says
He's gotta blow his brains out, too.

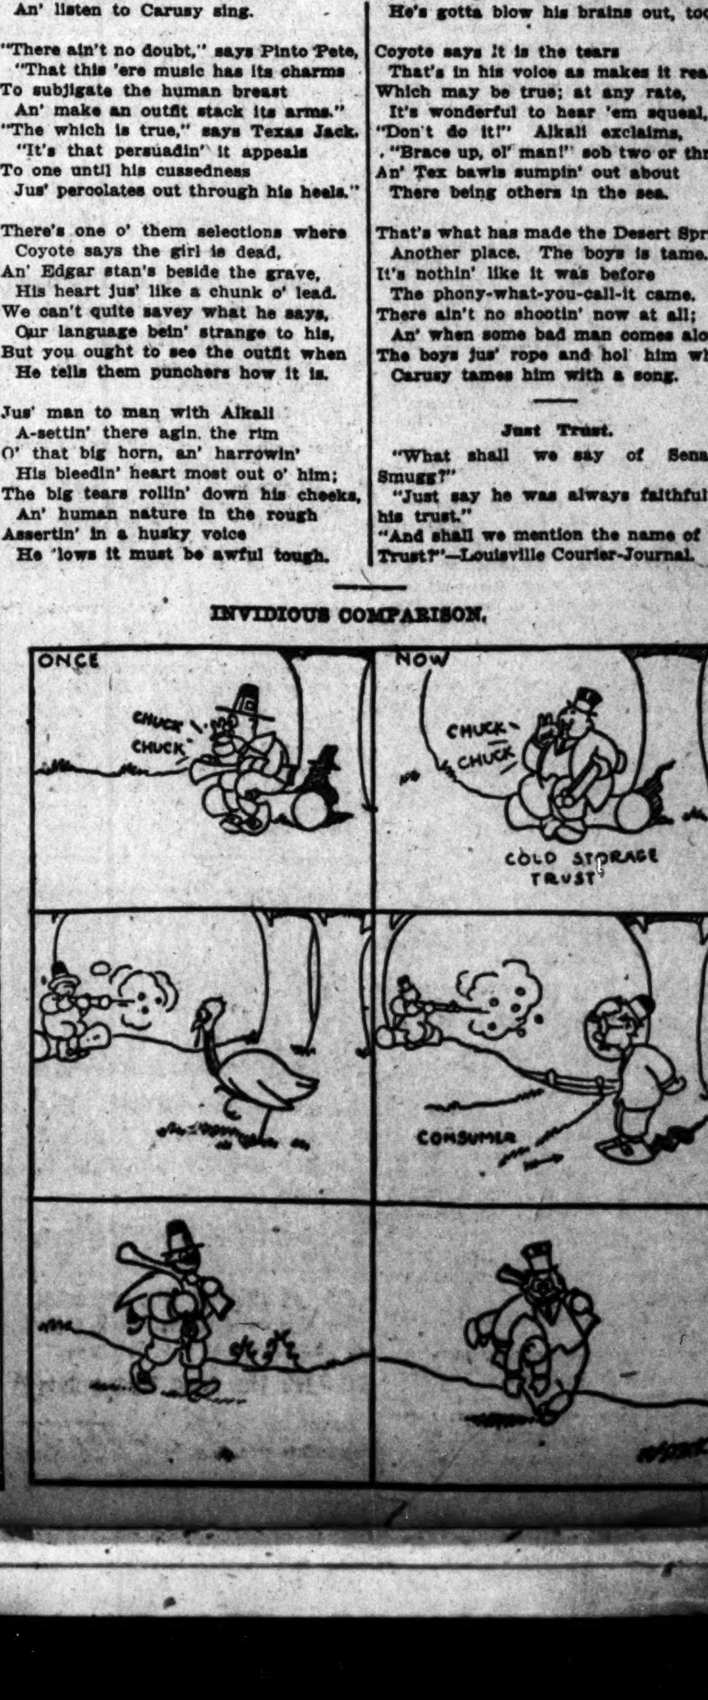

Coyote says it is the tears
That's in his voice as makes it real,
Which may be true; at any rate,
It's wonderful to hear 'em squeal.
"Don't do it!" Alkali exclaims,
"Brace up, ol' man!" sob two or three,
An' Tex bawls sumpin' out about
There being others in the sea.

That's what has made the Desert Spring
Another place. The boys is tame.
It's nothin' like it was before
The phony-what-you-call-it came.
There ain't no shootin' now at all;
An' when some bad man comes along,
The boys jus' rope and hol' him while
Carusy tames him with a song.

CANDY KID.—(Correction.) Hunting license may be obtained from the City Clerk in the city hall at East St. Louis. The fee is $1 for residents and $25.50 for non-residents. License issued in East St. Louis can be used by hunters in any part of Illinois. More hunters' licenses are issued from the East St. Louis office than from any other office in the State.

A. K.—Welsh rabbit: Cut pound of cheese up small, or grate it. Put into chafing dish a heaping teaspoonful of butter, a saltspoonful of salt, two saltspoons mustard and a dash of paprica. Add a gill of ale or beer, stir until hot, then turn in the cheese. Stir and beat steadily until thick and creamy, but not tough. The proper point can only be learned by experience, and when this is reached pour the mixture immediately upon toasted bread and serve.

COOK.—Caramel filling: Beat well together several minutes cup each of brown sugar and molasses and tablespoon melted butter; add half cup hot milk and tablespoon flour wet in two tablespoons water. Beat together and simmer five minutes, stirring steadily, add half cake vanilla chocolate, grated, and cook five minutes more. Lastly, stir in pinch of soda and at end of a minute take from fire and flavor with vanilla. When cool spread between cake layers.

L. H.—For worn or dull linoleum, clean it, then give it a coat of boiled linseed oil. After the oil has thoroughly soaked in give one or two coats of best varnish. Never scrub. If you do the gloss will be of short duration. First carefully wash with a soft brush, to remove all dust and fluff, then wipe with a large, soft cloth wrung out in tepid (not hot) water. If it is very dirty it may be necessary to use a little soft soap, but this should be done rarely, and on no account must soda be used.

MRS. C. V. B.—Orange marmalade: Choose ripe, juicy oranges and wipe with damp cloth. Slice, without peeling, two dozen and take out seeds. Slice two lemons, cutting these and the oranges in very thin slices. Measure the juice and add enough water to make three quarts of liquid. Pour into a large bowl, cover closely and set aside for 10 to 12 hours. Turn into an agate kettle and bring slowly to boiling point. Simmer until peel is very tender; then add pint of sugar for every pint of juice, and boil until skin looks clear. Remove from fire and pack in jelly glasses.

GRATEFUL.—The usual burial posture of the dead is with the feet eastward and the head toward the west—the fitting attitude of men who look for their Lord, "Whose name is The East," and who will come to judgment in the regions of the dawn suddenly. But it was the ancient usage of the church that the martyr, the bishop, the saint, and even the priest, should occupy in their sepulture a position the reverse of the secular dead, and lie down with their feet westward and their heads to the rising sun. The position of the crozier and the cross on ancient sepulchers of the clergy record and reveal this fact. The doctrine suggested by such a burial was that these mighty men which were of old would be honored with a first resurrection, and as their Master came on from the east they were to arise and follow the Lamb as He went; insomuch as they, with Him, would advance to the judgment of the general multitudes—the ancients and the saints which were worthy to judge and reign.

The Diary of a Happy Wife

No. 2. Marion Misbehaves.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Alma Woodward.

ANOTHER question settled for all time! One of those things that cause strife and discord in so many families.

Our little girl, Marion, is three years old, and, being a perfectly healthy, normal child, she is becoming mischievous and disobedient.

Up to now I have always shielded her from any stern or harsh word that Jack has been provoked into speaking, but not any more.

I wonder whether half the mothers and fathers realize what this pitting of one parent against the other in the reprimanding of a child means?

I wonder whether they stop to think of the effect it has upon the child and on its attitude toward its parents. I never did until yesterday, and then it broke in on me with a great light.

It was at the breakfast table that Marion, who has outgrown her high chair, was sitting propped up on two or three cushions.

The napkin-covered biscuit plate had always proved fatally fascinating to her, and she loved to stick her finger under one corner of it and dig it into the soft, hot bread. Each morning for a week past Jack had spoken to her about it and told her firmly that she must keep her hands off the table and never touch the food. The morning before he had gone so far as to slap her little hand lightly, and immediately on seeing the corners of her mouth go down I had kissed the fingers she held out to me in piteous appeal. Jack frowned at me and asked me quietly not to interfere, and nothing more was said about it.

Yesterday morning we had been seated at the breakfast table about 10 minutes when Ellen brought in the hot bread. Marion glanced slyly from the corner of her eye at her father. He was apparently oblivious. Then slowly the little fat hand slid over the cloth and one finger poked itself into the biscuit plate. On the instant Jack rose from his chair and lifted Marion from her throne of cushions.

"Oh, what are you going to do to her?" I asked him in alarm.

"I'm going to whip her," he answered. "You saw how she deliberately looked around to see whether I was observing her before she did what I had absolutely forbidden her to do yesterday. She knew she was doing wrong, yet she did it because she felt SAFE as long as you were around."

"Please, please don't whip her!" I begged. 'She's only a baby!"

"She's not too much of a baby to disobey deliberately, and she has to be punished!"

Then, with a little squeal, Marion broke loose from her father and ran over to me, where she snuggled in my arms and looked back at him with a defiant expression on her baby face Jack was furious!

"This has got to stop," he stormed. "I will not have a child of mine rush to its mother for protection when I reprove it. Come here, Marion!"

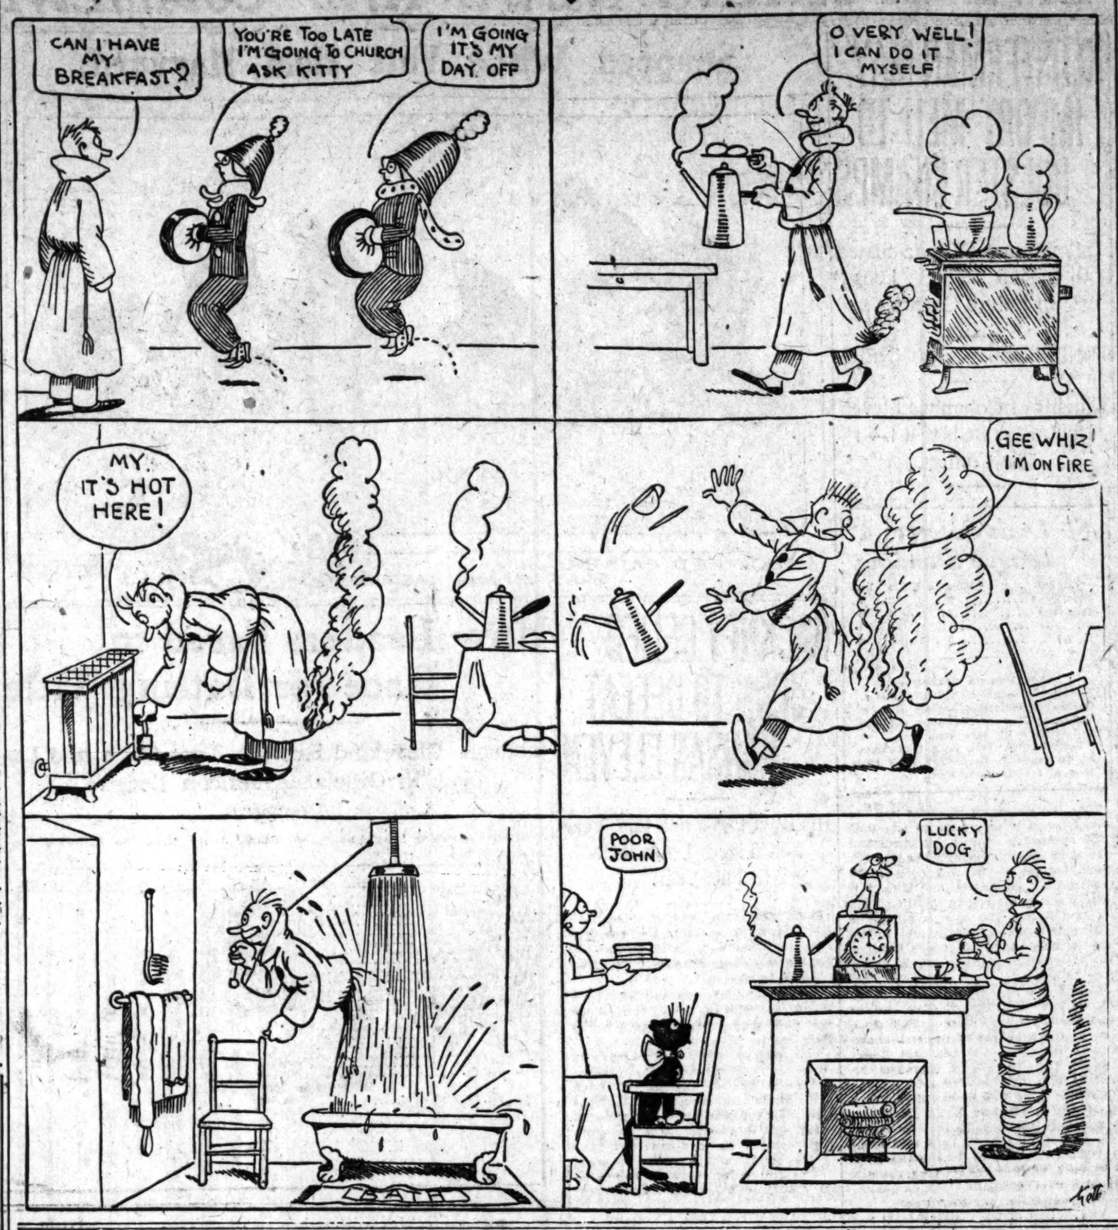

To my amazement, Marion, instead of pretending even to obey, moved comfortably on my lap and, reaching up to give my face a flattering pat, broke into an amused little giggle. That was the straw that broke the camel's back. Jack strode over to me, seized her and carried her off kicking to the bedroom. When he came back to the table, flushed and disturbed, I felt like begging his pardon for having thwarted him for so long. I had never realized that a child of Marion's age could grasp a situation so thoroughly. It was her open defiance and that ingratiating little pat that enlightened me. A child is never too young to make capital of its parent's weaknesses.

Hereafter whatever Jack tells her to do she'll have to do. It's the only way to bring up a child successfully.

The Problem of the Twin Houses.

Under the Golden Rule.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

My way of deciding the problem of the twin houses would be under God's law: "Do unto others as you would them do unto you." "Love thy neighbor as thyself." As Mr. Lichtelbach received rent for 10 months on house belonging to Rosenkranz, he should, to my way of thinking, return same to Mr. Rosenkranz, without any doubt, whatsoever. If it would be inconvenient to pay sum at once, he could repay in small installments, showing his good will in the matter. Each juryman should handle the case as if he were the owner of Rosenkranz's house. How would he like to be dealt by? It is quite a different matter when it strikes home.

MRS. EINHORN,
4536 Laclede avenue.

Rosenkranz Asleep 10 Months.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

The fact that Burke did not live in Lichtelbach's house after renting it is not Lichtelbach's fault, and it is just that he kept the rent. Burke's wife don't think so, but maybe that's her only chance for a new dress.

That leaves it a question of whether Burke should also be compelled to pay Rosenkranz. I think not, for several reasons. Burke showed he was on the square by paying his rent promptly. The houses were alike, and as the other one had not been rented, Rosenkranz's would not have been either. It took Rosenkranz 10 months to wake up to the fact that his house was occupied, showing that he was neglecting the place and he should be willing to call it square, as he did not lawfully rent the place and its better for a place to be tenanted than neglected, vacant and going to ruin. Burke should be liable for any damages to Rosenkranz's place, but nothing more.

Most people would say Burke lived in Rosenkranz's house and should pay him, but on that principle Lichtelbach would have to give back the rent received for his place, which would not be right. Anyway, Rosenkranz did not lose anything, as the above shows.

W. J. DILL,

Split the Pot.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

Your house problem is very interesting, and were I on the jury I would suggest that the $150 should be divided, $75 has to be given to Mr. Lichtelbach as commission and $75 ought to be given to Mr. Rosenkranz for using his property, and if Mr. Burke is supposed to move the expense ought to be covered by both parties.

G. WAX,
2948 Sheridan avenue.

Landlords Have Duties.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

The twin house problem is easily solved. Harry Burke did not occupy Amand Lichtelbach's house, so he should recover all money paid to him. Henry Burke unwittingly trespassed on Rosenkranz's property and Rosenkranz can recover damages according to law. The sum would be nominal in the case as there was no intent on Burke's part to trespass. In my experience as a property owner my houses are looked after monthly and nothing like this could occur.

L. MARTIN,
3623 Washington boulevard.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

I can see no reason why Mr. Lichtelbach is not entitled to the $150 he received from Mr. Burke, he having rented his house in good faith and accepting the money in the belief that his house was rented; also Mr. Burke living in what he believed to be Mr. Lichtelbach's house and paying for what he was receiving, is certainly entitled to ten months' rent as he had receipts for same. Therefore Mr. Rosenkranz slept on his own rights—owning property and 10 months without looking after his own interests and was satisfied without his house being rented. Therefore I would not allow him any rent from Mr. Burke, for Mr. Burke was paying his rent in good faith; nor would I allow him anything from Mr. Lichtelbach, as Mr. Lichtelbach accepted the rent in good faith from Mr. Burke, believing his own house rented.

L. E. PICKETT,
3119 Virginia avenue.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

There being two houses in the same vicinity, Lichtelbach, knowing it, I think it was his duty to inform Burke which one he should move into. Burke after seeing the two houses, should have made further inquiries to see which one Lichtelbach rented to him. Burke moved into Rosenkranz's property. Rosenkranz being the owner of the property he is entitled to the ten months' rent. Lichtelbach being liable to Rosenkranz for the ten months' rent, $150.

FRANK KEIM,
802 Russell avenue.

Rosenkranz Loses Suit.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch

Mr. Burke rented Mr. Lichtelbach's house and should have ascertained from the latter information which would have satisfied him which was the house. He (Mr. B.) is responsible for the origin of the error, but he is not responsible for its existence, for if Mr. Rosenkranz managed his affairs properly he would have discovered the mistake sooner.

There was no willful damage to Mr. Rosenkranz, and Mr. Burke corrected the matter promptly upon its discovery.

No refund should be made to Mr. Burke, as he received value for his money, neither should he receive the wages of a caretaker, as he was not placed in that position by either owner.

Mr. Lichtelbach is in no way responsible, as he had no right upon the premises while rented, and he had every reason to believe that they were occupied.

I think that in equity, Mr. Rosenkranz should lose the suit, and the matter should remain as though the mistake had not been made.

W. K.,
2628 Dalton avenue.

Let Rosenkranz Sue Lichtelbach.

House Problem Editor, Post-Dispatch.

If I were on a jury to decide the Rosenkranz-Lichtelbach rent squabble, I would judge from a business standpoint. Burke, Lichtelbach and Rosenkranz have poor business ways. First the landlords should number their houses, then no mistakes would have happened, again Burke ought to know enough to find out the number of the house he rented, had he done this no mistake would have happened. Now since Lichtelbach has been receiving rent for 10 months—and not giving any value for it and which happened through his own ignorance, he is not entitled to the money, whereas Mr. Burke received his value from the Rosenkranz house—suit should be brought by Rosenkranz against Lichtelbach for the rent paid by Burke.

FRANK MAYREIS,
East St. Louis.

TWO vacant houses stood side by side in Whiniand, a charming suburb in St. Louis county.

Henry Burke rented one from its owner, Armand Lichtelbach, but as the houses were identical in appearance, he moved into the one which belonged to Edward Rosenkranz. Neither house bore a number and neither owner visited the suburb for 10 months, so the mistake was not discovered during that time.

Regularly on the first of every month Burke called on Lichtelbach at his office in the Security Building and paid the rent, Lichtelbach gave him a receipt for one month's rent each time he paid $15.

At the end of 10 months Rosenkranz visited Whiniand and found HIS cottage occupied. Burke incautiously revealed the fact that he had lived there 10 months. Rosenkranz demanded $150 rent, and when Burke refused to pay, brought suit for the sum and possession of the house.

Burke immediately moved into the house which belonged to Lichtelbach, and resists payment of rent to Rosenkranz.

Lichtelbach says it is not his fault that Burke did not occupy the right house, and that he (Lichtelbach) is entitled to the $150 paid to him although HIS house were vacant all the time.

Shehens' Houn' Dogs

By Elia W. Peattie.

Author of "The Shape of Fear," "The Door," etc.

EDWARD BERENSON, correspondent for the News, descended from the sleeping car at Hardin, Ky., and inquired for the stage to Ballington's Gap. But there was, it appeared, no stage. Neither was a conveyance to be hired. The comunity looked at Berenson and went by on the other side. He had indeed, as he recollected, with a too confiding candor, registered himself from Washington, and there were reasons in plenty why strangers should not be taken over to Ballington's Gap promiscuously, so to speak, by the neighbors at Hardin. Berenson had come down from Washington with a purpose, however, and he was not to be frustrated. He wished to inquire—politely—why, for four generations, the Shehens and the Babbs had been killing each other. He meant to put the question calmly and in the interest of scientific journalism, but he was quite determined to have it answered. To this end he bought a lank mare for $75—"an' th' fixin's thrown in, sah"—and set out upon a red road, bound for the Arcadian distance.

The mountains did not look like the retreat of revengeful clans. They were, on the contrary, a benevolent aspect. All that was visible was beautiful; and what lay beyond appeared enchanted. The hillsides flowered with laurel and azalea; the winds met on the heights like elate spirits, united after a too long separation; the sky was so near and so kind that it seemed after all as if the translation of the weary body into something immortal and impregnable to pain were not so mad a dream. Pleasant streams whispered through the pine woods, and the thrush sang from solitary places.

Berenson had ridden far, and the soft twilight was coming upon him when he met the first human being since leaving Hardin. It was a slight, sallow, graceful mountaineer with a long rifle flung in the easy hollow of his arm. He emerged suddenly upon Berenson—so suddenly as to disturb the none too sensitive nerves of the mare, who shied incautiously over the edge of the roadway. The two saluted, and Berenson pulled in his nag.

"How far am I from Ballington's Gap, sir?"

"'Bout two mile, sah, if you don't go wrong at th' fawk. Bin to Hardin?"

"Yes—I left the train there."

"Did the folks there send yo' on heah?"

"Well, they let me come," said Berenson with swift divination.

"That theah old Pap Waddell's hoss yo' all ridin'?"

"Why, I believe it is—or was. It's mine now."

"How much—if it's fair askin'?"

"Seventy-five dollars and the saddle thrown in."

A slow smile illuminated the sallow face—the sort of a smile that dawns when one perceives a joke. The mountaineer drew a long dark plug of tobacco from his pocket.

"D'ye chaw?" he inquired with pensive sweetness.

"I smoke," said Berenson, and offered his pocket case of Havanas The two lighted up, and the man walked beside the mare as they proceeded.

"We-all bin havin' a good deal of disturbance raound heah, lately," volunteered the mountaineer.

"Yes, so I hear."

"What with the Shehens defendin' theah h'athstones, an' th' Babbses raisin' hell, 'twas bad enough—trouble an' to spa-h. An' now th' revinooers—"

"I didn't know they'd been giving you trouble lately."

Berenson did not feel that he ran any risk in identifying his companion with the "blockaders." Loyal mountain sentiment, as he knew, was with the keepers of the stills.

"Yaas, they've bin amongst us ag'in. As I was sayin', all this makes us more inquirin' than polite, sah, an' it's my place to find out the busines of them that comes to the gap. As we ah gittin' mighty neah thah this minute, I've got to come to th' p'int." He smiled at Berenson ingratiatingly.

"Well," said Berenson, slipping from his horse and taking his place beside his inquisitor, "you shall have a full and complete answer. I'm a newspaper man, and I've come down here to inquire into the meaning of this feud—this Shehen-Babb difficulty that has been going on down here for the past 25 years—or is it longer?"

"I don't know jes' the numbah of yeahs, but it's in the fourth generation, sah. But I don't see why it should concahn outsidahs, sah."

Berenson looked at him with genuine interest. He had a dignity and a grace that were almost distinguished. He bore himself with nonchalance—something as might any clansman, certain of the rights of his position, and firm in his ability to protect his own. He was young—not more than 22. His tan-colored jeans hung easily upon his lithe and muscular body. His eyes had a kindly expression at moments, but in repose were marked by a certain mournfulness.

"Well," said Berenson, "the newspapers have fallen into the way of thinking that everything is their business. They are probably wrong, but as long as I work for them—and I don't know enough to make my living any other way—I shall act according to their policy. Now, up North, we have become greatly interested in your feud. We have quarrels of our own up there, but they are not inherited quarrels. We don't carry on a fight from the grave to the cradle, and the cradle to the grave. We don't keep on fighting after we've forgotten what the row is about, and we want to know why you do. It strikes us that you have the habits of the old Highlanders and that these vendettas of yours resemble the old wars of the clans—"

"Waal," interrupted the other, with a philosophical intonation, "we all are Scotch or Irish, mostly."

"That's so!" cried Berenson. "Of course you are! Anyway, I've come down here to get an impartial account of the whole matter, and I want to meet any man—as many men as I can—who will give me the rights of it."

The mountaineer motioned Berenson to stop. He turned to the side of the road, unslung a horn cup from his shoulder, and, stooping, brought it up filled with glistening spring water. He held it out to Berenson with a charming gesture of hospitality. Berenson bowed and accepted it.

"It's good watah," said the other. "I'm fond o' watah myself." He spoke as if his taste were rather exotic.

"Waal, I'm powahful glad, Mr.—"

"Berenson—Edward Berenson."

"—Berenson, that yo' bin so squah in tellin' me of yo' business. We don't have many visitahs from ovah yon. 'Bout th' only ones that come heah ah th' revinooers, an' I needn't say, sah, to a man like yo', that they ah not pahticularly welcome. 'Bout fo' yeahs ago a fellow from Mr. Wattahson's papah did come t' these pahts when they was some smoothin', an' he took sides with th' Babbs." (A pause.) "He nevah went back." They stopped on a level bit of road to breathe themselves, and Berenson received and returned the whimsical smile of his companion. "But what I like about you," went on the mountaineer, "is that yo' said yo' was goin' to be impahshal. I'm an impahshal man myself, and I think we should all be impahshal. Th' trouble with outsiders is that they ah not impahshal."

"Well, it's a fine thing to be," assented Berenson. "You make judges out of stuff like that. Any judges in your family?"

"One, sah."

"Still living?"

"No, sah. Passed away las' yeah."

"What was his name?"

"Loren Shehen, sah."

Berenson's heart performed an acrobatic feat.

"Are you a Shehen, sir?"

"I have that honah, sah. I'm th' last."

"You don't, I'm sure, mean that you are the last survivor?"

"No, sah, I do not. I mean I'm the youngest bohn. Theah's a numbah of us yet on Tulula mountain, sah. Theah's my fathah, an' my two eldah brothahs, an' my Uncle Dudley and one son of his, an' my second cousin Edgah—an' theah ah otheh kinfolk, but not close related. The Judge was with us last yeah, but he was killed by a hull pahcel of Babbs—a hull yelpin' pack of 'em."

"You've lived here all your life, Mr Sheehen?"

The mountaineer's eyes twinkled.

"Waal, not yit, Mr. Berenson, but I 'spect to, sah."

Berenson smiled.

"I should think, however, that in spite of the impartial disposition which you say is native to you, Mr Shehen, that you would have difficulty in dealing with the matter of the feud without some heat."

"No heat at all, sah! You don't git heated when yo' speak of rattle snakes, do yeh? They ah jest snakes' You kill 'em when yo' kin. Well, Babbs ah th' same. They ah the meanest set of snakes that crawl on theah bellies. That's an impahshal opinion, sah. Yo' kin ask th' next man we meet."

Berenson gave up all effort to keep a sober face. He grinned, then guffawed. He made the rocks ring with his laughter. The mountaineer regarded him indulgently.

"It's a true word," he said quietly. "I haven't had your full name yet," said Berenson, when he got his breath again.

"Bill Shehen, sah—young Bill."

"Well, I'm glad I met you, Mr. Shehen! I want to hear your side of the story from beginning to end. Now where can I put up? I want to stay here for some time. It's not alone on account of my paper. I need the rest. I'm tired. I want to talk with all the Shehens I can, and all the Babbs I can."

"Now, that's whah yo' make yo' mistake, sah. Yo' can't talk with both Shehens an' Babbs. If yo' go on to th' Gap with me, and bunk at my place tonight—an' yo' ah welcome, sah—yo've got to 'bide with us. Yo' will be counted a Shehen sympathizah. I don't suppose any one from th' outside kin ondehstand the Shehen-Babb disease."

Berenson put a hand on the man's shoulder.

"Well then, William Shehen, if you've found that out, why dont' you cure yourself? Get out and get away from it all. Do something besides destroy and make bad whisky. For you do make whisky, I suppose?"

"Yaas," said the other gently, "but it ain't so damned bad." His voice had soughing intonations, like the wind in the pines.

"I'll wager you've got a bottle o it in your pocket now," said Berenson "Waal," the wind was never softer on a summer night.

"Well, I've got a bottle of the ordinary whisky of commerce. I'll be mine is the smoother, the nuttier and altogether the plesanter."

Three buzzards sitting on the dead branch of a Norway pine received a shock from which they did not recover for several days. They have seen walking along the road two quiet men, one sad mare, and a long thin dog with a lame foot. They suddenly beheld a swift change—a tableau vivant. One man stood at the point of the other man's rifle.

"I believe yo' all ah a damned revinooer after all!" said Shehen. He did not raise his voice, but he spoke between closed teeth. His blue gray eyes had become like points of steel Berenson, equally tall, in his dark city clothes, his inappropriate derby above his long, office-bleached face looked Shehen squarely in the eye.

(Copyrighted, 1910, by the Press Publishing Company.)

MY Beloved, it taketh ALL kinds of women to make a world, but MEN are of but TWO varieties—the eligible and the ineligible.

Now a damsel hath come unto me, saying:

"Lo, I would be a Mary Garden, whose voice thrilleth the multitude, whose name is upon all lips and whose infinite variety is the marvel of men."

And another hath cried:

"I would be as the Divine Sarah, whose life story is more exciting than a Laura Jean Libbey novel, and who still reigneth unrivalled."

But yet another hath said:

"I would be as a siren whose BEAUTY is the wonder of the scoffers and whose sway over the hearts of men is perennial and everlasting."

Yea, many have come unto me saying:

"WOULD that I were the Leader of Fashion, who rolleth in wealth and rideth in her OWN motor car; who is covered with jewels and compliments and invitations and imported gowns, and before whom snobs and lackeys and the hangers-on bow down in adoration!"

And others have approached me, sighing:

"Lo, we would be club women with a MISSION and Suffragettes working for a CAUSE!"

Yea, still others have come, crying:

"How DELIGHTFUL must it be to dance in the CHORUS and to subsist upon champagne and lobster and merriment and taxicabs and flattery!"

Verily, verily, my Daughter, I say unto thee if there be among ye ONE damsel of eighteen who hath a retrousse nose and a baby stare; who hath THREE party gowns and naturally curly hair, and who hath but ONE BEAU, even her FIRST—then would I rather be THAT damsel than Sarah Bernhardt, and Mary Garden, and all OTHER women upon the face of the earth!

For, lo, there be Fame and Riches and Youth, these three; but the greatest of these is YOUTH!

There be beauty and joy water and love; but the sweetest of these is the FIRST LOVE!

Behold, in all the world there be but three perfect things—a man's first cigar, a woman's first baby and the FIRST KISS of a damsel! SELAH!

HEDGES WANTS TO HAVE BROWNS SIGNED EARLY

Local Magnate Hopeful of Getting All His Players in Line by Jan. 1.

OWNERS ARE WORRIED

As Fletcher's Scheme Has Apparently Died, Though, Strain Is Relieved.

Contrary to the custom in former years, President Robert L. Hedges will not send out contracts to his players Jan. 1. Instead he is hopeful of having all his athletes signed up by New Year's day. In fact, the local American League magnate says he has the J. Hancocks of his valuable players in his safe right now.

Before he departs for the American League meeting, either in New York or Chicago next month, Hedges will send out the documents to those players who have not yet signed. He expects they will all be returned by Jan. 1, after which time he hopes to center all his time in trying to produce a winner for St. Louis.

Heretofore Hedges, just like other managers in both leagues, didn't mail the contracts to the players until after New Year's day. Most of the players invariably signed them immediately while others tarried before affixing their signatures until it was time to report for the Southern training trip.

Fletcher Had Magnates Guessing.

When D. A. Fletcher, a talkative promoter of Cincinnati or Toledo, bobbed up with his proposed third league scheme last summer, it set the magnates to guessing. There were few who took him seriously, but just the same many got after their athletes to swing in line early.

Many of the club owners simply went to those players whom they thought might be disloyal and had them sign up. Hedges broke away from his former custom of holding off until the first of the year to send out contracts.

It's safe to say that he has Wallace, Lake and three or four others of his team lined up already and anticipates little if any trouble in getting the others to come around.

Blow Aimed at Fletcher.

With Fletcher's all-star tour gone up in smoke it is also interesting to note how the magnates have treated their players as regards winter baseball.

When Fletcher first spoke of his All-National and All-American League teams, the magnates got together and framed a rule prohibiting their players from engaging in off-season games without their consent.

Just the same, some 14 members of the World's Champion Athletics are preparing for a trip to Cuba, while the Tigers of Detroit are already on the island. The Cubs of Chicago, after the worlds' series, went barnstorming for a week. And no action will be taken by the magnates either. That for Mr. Fletcher.

Tips and Cues

Monday's Schedule.

AT PETERSON'S—Niehouse plays Miller and Greve a double-header in the junior handicap billiard tournament.

AT HAUSER'S—Brown meets Fisher in the three-cushion tournament.

AT THE GRAND—Jamerson plays Boone tonight in the Class B three-cushion event.

• • •

Standings and Results.

AT PETERSON'S—Sullivan and Holdrein are tied for first place in the junior handicap billiard tournament, with seven victories and one defeat each. Sullivan has the high run of 10.

AT HAUSER'S—George has an easy lead in the three-cushion event. He has won seven games and lost 1.

AT THE GRAND—With five victories out of six games played, Herbert has an easy lead in the Class B three-cushion event. He has the high average of .79. Wolf has the high run of 7 so far in the tournament.

CENTRAL AND SOLDAN TEAMS TO PLAY TURKEY DAY GAME

The Central High and Soldan High football teams will put in two days of the hardest kind of work for their contest Thanksgiving morning at the St. Louis University park. The two teams are the strongest local interscholastic elevens, and the one which turns up on the right side is sure to be given the local title. It cannot claim the league championship, as Western defeated Central High several weeks ago. Coach Mike Walker at Central has his squad in fine condition, while Coach Kelley at Soldan can say the same.

TENER SAID TO BE OWNER OF HARRIS BOSTON STOCK

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—John K. Tener, Governor-elect of Pennsylvania, an old baseball player himself, is the real owner of the Boston National baseball club, according to a statement made today by a local magnate. According to this man, the money paid to John Dovey by John Harris of Pittsburg for the Dovey interest was not Harris', but Tener's money.

The statement was made as a contradiction to the published statement that Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburg team, was behind Harris in the deal.

WRAY'S COLUMN

THE tumult and the shouting over that Yale-Harvard battle now being done, chiefly because of overtaxed vocal chords of the Yale supporters, the remainder of the football season will be largely devoted to an attempt to prove that Yale has a championship football eleven.

But while Yale's remarkable feat of stopping Harvard with what appears to have been an appreciably weaker team is one of the semi-miracles of the season, it ought not to cloud anyone's perception of the real strength of the elevens.

If that 0—0 score is taken as a final test of team strength, the question of naming the best eleven in the East is an utter impossibility. But there's another viewpoint. It is: That while Yale managed to stop Harvard, thus proving a deficiency either in the Crimson attack or generalship, the fact is perfectly patent that there is not an eleven in the country able to overthrow the Crimson defense.

To put it in nutshell form: Yale can probably stop most of the elevens of the country; but Harvard can do it to a certainty. And that constitutes a definite superiority.

• • •

There surely is something more than conversation to the "Yale spirit" slogan.

• • •

Ursinus University's football team is the champion eleven on football "dope." Here's the line: Ursinus beat Penn; Penn beat Brown, 20—0; Brown beat Yale and Yale held Harvard to a 0—0 tie.

• • •

So Waddell is to turn aviator, and do up-in-the-air stunts. His baseball experience may help.

• • •

Looks Like Vanderbilt.

ALL the championships of the country have been virtually settled save the Southern, which will be decided at Nashville, when Sewanee plays Vanderbilt. It ought to be a Vanderbilt year on the strength of that 0—0 score against Yale.

• • •

"New" Football Beat 'Em.

HARVARD'S devotion to "new football," in direct opposition to the hint its season record ought to have given out, really caused the team's failure Saturday. Harvard has been a "straight football" eleven all year. Its victories have been earned through straight rushing of the ball, for the most part. Yet it undertook to score on forward passes within the Yale 25-yard line. Wouldn't care to be the person who ordered those plays.

• • •

"Big Eight" Conference—Minnesota University.

Middle West—Michigan University.

Missouri Valley Conference—Nebraska University.

Southwest—Arkansas University.

Southern—~~Not yet~~ decided.

In the East—Take your pick, if you can after reading the following record:

COLLEGE.	Won.	Lost.	Games Tied.	Points won.	Opponents.
Amherst	4	3	1	55	31
Annapolis	7	0	1	96	0
Brown	6	2	1	183	41
Cornell	5	1	1	151	32
Dartmouth	5	2	0	111	27
Harvard	8	0	1	155	5
Lafayette	6	2	0	94	21
Pennsylvania	8	1	1	151	13

Hard for John Harvard.

NEXT season? Johnny Harvard lifts his disconsoalte head to face the fact that next season is another year, when weaker material and less experience will be available by the Crimson for its fight against Yale. It was to have been "this year or never" for Harvard; and on that basis it appears to be a "never" prospect the Cambridge men face.

Harvard's material will suffer the following losses next season: Capt. Withington, McKay, Minot, Perkins, P. Smith, Corbett and Leslie. Of the "letter men" there will still remain Lelton and Lewis, ends; L. Smith, end; Fisher, guard, and Potter, Wigglesworth, Campbell, Wendell and Morrison. The two Frothingham boys will also be in school.

Yale's biggest loss is Kilpatrick. Brooks, Daly, Kistler, Field, Fuller and Morris are the other important men who will depart.

Yale's freshman class did not do anything remarkable in games this season, but its material is said to be better than that of Harvard.

• • •

It's neither Cobb nor Lajoie that is the leader of the American League race, but Jackson, the Cleveland recruit. He hit .387 for 20 games and that gives him an official look-in.

• • •

SO far most of the "new" football has been best appreciated by spectators. But the working basis of most teams has been rushing the ball. The "new" element has just taken enough from the game to give a chance for pluck and scheming to offset in a measure greater physical strength. Not many of the big teams, such as can gain ground through rushing with reasonable regularity, will take a chance on surrendering the ball by forward passing. That Harvard fiasco against Yale sufficiently explains why. But the lesser elevens, with everything to gain and little to lose, have employed new game possibilities to a much greater extent.

If the rules survive unchanged in 1911, equally matched teams will have to get away from "old" football in order to get across the enemy's goal line.

KLOSTERMAN MAY IMPORT MEN TO BOLSTER CHAMPS

INNISFAILS WINNERS

Knights of Columbus Eleven Holds Blue Bells to a 1—1 Tie Contest.

St. Louis Soccer League Standing

TEAMS.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.
Blue Bells	2	0	3	7
Innisfails	2	2	1	5
St. Leos	1	2	2	4
K. of C.	0	1	4	4

Yesterday's Results.

First game—Innisfails 2, St. Leos 1. Goals—For Innisfails, Ratican (2); for St. Leos, Shea of Innisfails put the ball through his own goal.

Second game—Blue Bells 1, Knights of Columbus 1. Goals—For Blue Bells, Easton; for K. of C., Axen.

That the champion St. Leos must be strengthened if they hope to win their fifth successive soccer championship was again proven Sunday when the Mullanphy street eleven was defeated by the Innisfail team, 2—1, and slipped to third place in the league standing. The forward line of the once crack aggregation is working poorly and in the hope of bolstering it, it is said Manager Bill Klosterman plans to import a couple of stars.

Report has it that he aims to bring Bill Tallman and "Chuck" O'Berta down each Sunday from Chicago. Tallman is one of the members of the well-known family of soccer players. He helped the St. Leos to the 1909 championship, but at that time resided in St. Louis. O'Berta is also well known here, but is no longer a resident of St. Louis.

"Orator" Ammons, Tallman and Shea are missed by the St. Leos and something will have to be done if the Klosterman entry is to again lead the procession next spring.

Innisfails Play Fast Game.

The victory of the Innisfail team was no fluke. In fact the St. Leos were lucky to score at all, as the only goal registered for the champions was headed through by Fullback Shea of the Innisfails. Pete Ratican toed both goals for the winners. At the end of the first half the count was 1—1. In the second period the former C. B. C. star slammed one of the hardest shots ever seen through the uprights for the winning tally.

The Knights of Columbus eleven went to a 1—1 draw with the Blue Bells, the leading member of the league. Ponto Palmer, the eccentric goal tender of the Columbus outfit, prevented his team from winning. He gathered in the ball with his hands during a scrimmage and ran more than three steps with it. This gave the Scotchmen a free kick at goal. Easton toed it, though, tying the count.

Axen had previously scored the Columbus' goal during a scrimmage. "King" Finnegan again donned the spangles and helped his team to the draw. He played better than on any previous occasion this season.

St. Teresas and Duwells Win.

The Duwells and St. Teresas are now tied for the leadership in the St. Louis University Soccer League, as the result of Sunday's games. The St. Teresas shoved the Immaculate Conception eleven from the top by defeating that outfit, 2—0, while the Duwells won from the St. James aggregation, 1—0.

The St. Roses defeated the Visitation team, 1—0, while the Christian Brothers' College eleven won from the Rock Church outfit, 8—0, in the Amateur League games on the C. B. C. campus.

Strikes and Spares

The next benefit day to help pay the expenses of conducting the A. B. C. national tournament in St. Louis in January and February, will be Wednesday, at the Marquette alleys, Marquette Hotel.

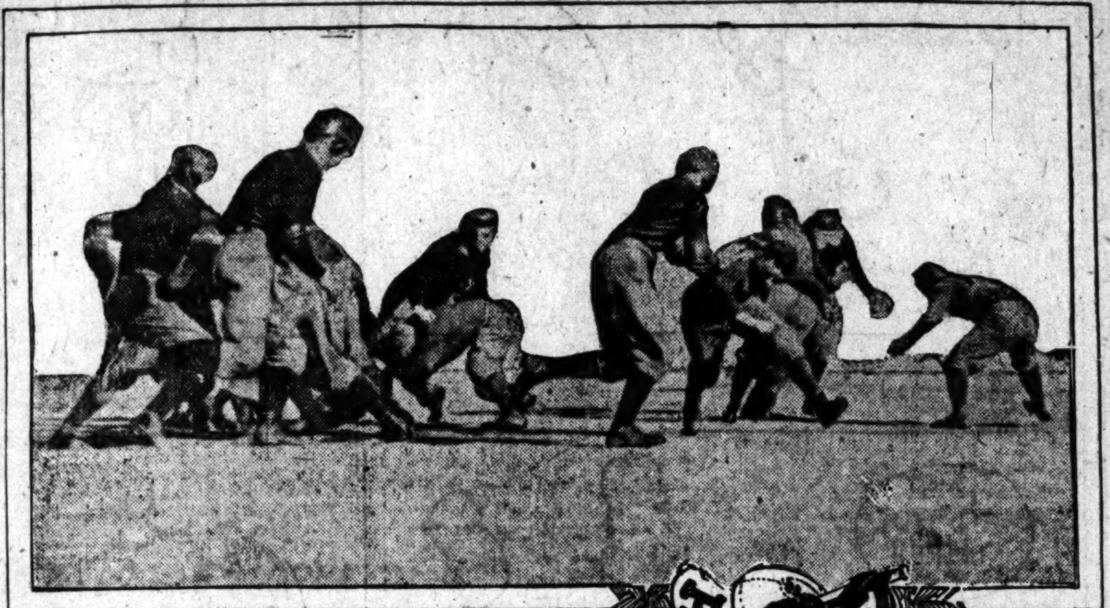

The Buxton-Skinner team, which rolled on the Delmar-Euclid alleys Saturday night, surely is composed of a bunch of real bowlers. Capt. K. J. Guhne won the West End individual championship for the season of '08. He also had the high individual average of the Vernon League in '08 and '09. E. E. Grubb finished with the highest individual average of the Royal Arcanum League for the season of '09. Eddy has the highest individual average of the Commercial League this year. Welsh has a record of 675 pins for a three-game match. It is the highest that has been bowled thus far this season in the city.

St. Louis will have 31 delegates to the A. B. C. convention here in January and with the two votes of the A. B. C. officers will have a total of 33 votes, which will all undoubtedly go in favor of the amendment to the A. B. C. constitution providing for individual membership in place of club membership and also for a substantial increase in the salary of the secretary of the association.

Columbus, O., will in all probability be a candidate for the 1912 tournament. Columbus bowlers have outlined a campaign wherein they are assured the support of Cleveland, Pittsburg, Dayton, Toledo, Detroit, Cincinnati, Wheeling and other Eastern cities.

At the last meeting of the City Association it was voted to hold the City Association tournament in March, so as to give every bowler all his time until February to boost the A. B. C. tournament.

HACKNEY RELIED UPON TO DEFEAT KANSAS ELEVEN

His Boot Did Trick Last Year and Tigers Look to It This Year.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 21.—Hackney is the hope of Missouri in her twentieth annual gridiron battle with Kansas University at Kansas City next Thursday.

Tigers believe that if Ted is right on Thanksgiving day, as right as he was in the Kansas game last year, Hollenback's warriors will be returned winners.

That Coach Hollenback thinks his left-handed, left-footed fullback is capable of delivering the goods against the Jayhawkers was shown today, when, in response to request for an "All Missouri Valley" choice, the big coach placed Hackney above any fullback in the valley, on the first eleven.

Last year it was Hackney's educated toe which scored two field goals in the first 10 minutes of the Kansas game and earned unanimously for him a place as an all-Missouri Valley halfback.

His left foot helped Bill Roper in several games last year, and had more to do with the Princetonian's popularity in these parts than any other one cause.

Support Not as Stout.

This year Hackney has been handicapped by a weaker line, which let the opponents charge through and worry him, but he has kicked four field goals in games to date, one against Monmouth, one against Oklahoma and two against Washington.

The varsity line is gradually being strengthened and Hackney's work is also showing improvement.

In practice he averaged over five out of seven attempts from the 30-yard line, and both he and Nowell have been putting many extra hours in on punting and drop-kicking practice this last week.

It is believed here that Missouri's line can hold the Kansans, as the Tiger goal line still remains uncrossed this year, and that every time the Tigers get within 40 yards of the Kansas goal there is a good chance of a Hackney score.

Signal Drill Today.

Hollenback continues to hold the varsity regulars out of scrimmage practice for fear of injuries. Their practice Saturday consisted chiefly of tackling the dummy and running signals.

The Missouri team will have a light signal drill Monday and leave this evening for Excelsior Springs, to remain until next Thursday noon, just before the game.

Twenty-five men will be taken. Trainer Luby left Saturday with the four crippled members of the team—Hall, Shuck, Lemier and Curtiss—in order that they might have more time to rest and get in shape.

Three special train loads of rooters will leave here next Wednesday for Kansas City, and a monster demonstration and mass meeting is being planned for the team before it leaves here tonight.

KONEY AND WALLACE MAY MIX IT ON GREEN CLOTH

Ed Koney, the Cardinals' popular first baseman, and Bobby Byrne, the Pirates' third sacker, have branched out as billiard hall owners. They have purchased the room formerly conducted by the Pesch brothers at 210 North Seventh street and announce "open house" from now on. Koney is in charge of the place, as Byrne has not fully recovered from a recent operation on his hip. The former Cardinal third sacker is soon expected to be on the job, however.

Koney announces that they will stage all kinds of tournaments and matches. He will make an effort to put on a pool or billiard tournament between baseball players. It wouldn't be surprising if Koney and Bobby Wallace, the manager-to-be of the Browns, came together. Each plays a high-class game at three-cushions.

Graf Wins Grappling Match.

HARVARD'S LINE TO SUFFER LOSS

Crimson Coaches Expect Difficulty in Finding Forwards for 1911.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21.—It was a sorry assortment of football warriors that strolled into town this morning. Through the length and breadth of the college confines everybody is asking how it happened and every other one has his explanation.

Of the 17 players who participated in that so-called afternoon's amusement Saturday but seven will be among the missing next year. Capt. Withington and McKay, tackles; Minot, guard; Perkins and P. D. Smith, centers; Corbett, halfback, and H. C. Leslie, fullback, will use their energies in other endeavors than football next fall, receiving their degrees next June. The ranks of the subs will be depleted by the graduation of Blodgett, guard; Bush, tackle; O'Flaherty and Long, ends, and Johnson, quarterback.

Line Will Be Weak.

Head Coach Haughton will have a gigangic task on his hands developing a capable rush line next fall. The present material has enjoyed the advantage of being in every game this fall except the Yale game, and have had a fruitful experience, which should stand them in good stead next fall. Still they have shown nothing exceptional in their ability. The second eleven and freshman squad may send up good men who will help fill the breach. Behind the line the Crimson will shine and the fight for the positions in the back field will be a spirited one. Percy Wendell, Campbell and Morrison have had experience in this year's battle with Yale. Craustein, the best man the eleven has in working through a broken field; Ted Frothingham, who earned his letter this year; Pierce, Tyron and T. H. Frothingham are also in line for back-field work. At quarterback Wigglesworth, Potter and Gardner, the three who tried their wits against Howe Saturday, will all be eligible for the team next fall. Lewis, Potter, Gardner, Felton, Morrison, Campbell and Wendell received their "Hs" in football for the first time Saturday.

Football Will Net Yale About $70,000

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.

YALE'S receipts from football this fall reach about $70,000. The main items in this total are as follows: Harvard game, $34,000; Princeton game, $29,000; Brown game, $5000; Vanderbilt game, $1500; Colgate game, $1500.

The total is about $3000 less than in years which Yale has had the game with Harvard in Cambridge.

Capt. Daly of Yale and Capt. Withington of Harvard will meet in Philadelphia in a day or two to flip a coin for the permanent possession of the football used in Saturday's game. Referee Langford has it now.

WASHINGTON MEN NOT DISCOURAGED

Talk of Abandoning Football Gains Little Ground Among Pikeway Students.

To assign reasons for the failure of the Washington University football team to show any strength against valley conference teams in its campaign just closed would be simply to repeat all the difficulties which Coach Cayou has had to contend with in seasons past.

Cayou, in fact, is credited with having considerable more patience than any other coach on the gridiron, as there is hardly a force aiding the "Chief" in his annual struggle to produce a winner at Washington. With the team meeting defeats by hefty totals against schools supposed to be on the same plane with Washington and such stars as Nipher, Bryan and Durr standing idle through their ineligibility, it must have been enough to try the patience of anyone. Hope was entertained all season of these stars getting back into the game, but the ruling held and as a consequence none got to play.

The continued ill-success of the team has proved conclusively that it is nearly useless for the myrtle and maroon football teams to strive for victory against other teams of conference caliber, unless the eleven, as in the other colleges, is allowed more practice time.

The rumors of the past week around the campus were to the effect that football would be abolished next year, owing to the failure of the financial returns through the games played. But the rumor was short-lived and Washington, according to the present plans, will have a team in the field again.

CARDINALS WILL DO 1911 TRAINING AT LEAGUE PARK

A Ten-Day Limbering-Up Workout Will Be Held at West Baden.

HERRMANN WANTS CLUBS' STOCK BOOKS THROWN OPEN

CINCINNATI, Nov. 21.

PRESIDENT HERRMANN of the Cincinnati Nationals said yesterday that he was in favor of publishing the complete list of the stockholders in the National League, in order that the people who have been "knocking" the League for the last two years, on the score that it is a syndicate organization, can be quieted.

"I believe the best way to do would be to make public a list of the stockholders in each of the eight clubs, so that the people of this country can be satisfied that they are being treated fairly," said Mr. Herrmann.

"The matter will be brought up at the meeting in New York, and if this list can be made public, we will see if there is not some way to stop all of this talk. I think it hurts the game in the eyes of the American people."

St. Louis will see a great deal more of the Cardinals this year than for several seasons, owing to the decision, announced Sunday night by Manager Bresnahan, to do the greater part of the team's training at League Park. This training period will be preceded by a 10-day rest and light workout at West Baden.

It had been originally planned to hold spring tryouts at Excelsior Springs, although no contract to do this had been closed with hotel authorities at the Missouri Spa. The fire there compelled a change of plans.

The climatic conditions here are about as good as those of any other section of the South and West. Roger also thinks that a distinct setback is suffered by such teams as train in the extreme South and then come North to the colder temperatures of early spring.

About all that will be done at West Baden will be of a limbering-up nature, little actual baseball work being possible.

McAleer formerly took his team of Browns to French Lick Springs annually, and the veterans all appeared much the better for their ante-training experience.

ST. LOUIS-PITTSBURG CUE SERIES WILL START TONIGHT

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Joseph M. Wireback of this city and Capt. Lawrence of St. Louis meet here tonight in the first game of the series in the National Amateur Billiard League tournament. Three games are to be played this week in the Harry Davis billiard hall on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Pittsburg will be represented by J. M. Wireback, A. G. Strasser and P. P. Trump, who will probably play in the order mentioned. The players to represent St. Louis are Capt. Lawrence and Pierre Maupome, who arrived in this city from Chicago Sunday night.

Players to See "Jolly Bachelors."

Members of the St. Louis University football squad will be the guests of Manager Stoltz of the new Shubert Theater to see the "Jolly Bachelors" Monday night. About 30 players will occupy boxes.

S.S.S.
PURELY VEGETABLE
THE ONE SAFE BLOOD REMEDY

It is a generally recognized fact that medicines taken from the botanical kingdom are better adapted to the delicate human system, and safer in every way than those composed of strong mineral mixtures. Among the very best and safest of vegetable preparations is S. S. S., a blood medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers and the finest of all tonics. S. S. S. does not contain the least particle of mineral in any form, and is an absolutely safe medicine for any one to use. While purifying the blood, this great vegetable remedy builds up every portion of the system. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Constitutional Blood Diseases, and all impurities and morbid conditions of the circulation. It is perfectly reliable and safe for children; and little ones who have been weakened with scrofulous affections or other inherited blood troubles, can take this mild vegetable remedy with good results and without the slightest danger. S. S. S. is unequalled as a tonic; it invigorates every portion of the system, and the healthy blood it creates largely assists in overcoming any derangement of the stomach and digestive system. If you need a blood medicine you could do no better than to take S. S. S. It has been in use for more than forty years and is still recognized as the best. Book on the blood free to all.

SYRACUSE TEAM FEARS DOCKERY'S DROP KICK SKILL

St. Louis University Man's Boot Will Be Often Used, Turkey Day.

NEW PLAYS EXPECTED

Coach Bender Has Not Exposed His Full Hand in Games to Date.

Coach Tad Jones and his squad of Syracuse football players arrived in this city Sunday afternoon from Champaign, Ill., where they suffered defeat at the hand of Illinois last Saturday by a 3-to-0 score. This afternoon they start in for a three-days' practice at Sportsman's Park and by Thursday afternoon, when they meet St. Louis University, in the big Thanksgiving day battle Trainer Tom Keane expects to have them in fine trim and entirely recovered from the few bruises which they received in the Illinois game.

Coach Jones credits the defeat of Syracuse to two things, a fumble by the New Yorkers, in their own territory, from which point Illinois had a chance to kick the goal which won the game for them, and secondly the failure of Waite, the crack Eastern punter and drop kicker, to get his boot working properly. He missed seven tries for place kicks from the field.

Game a Booting Duel.

Jones figures that it ought to be a great kicking battle on Thanksgiving day between Waite and Dockery of St. Louis U., whose prowess as a booter had already reached the Eastern camp. Jones says that his men are confident of winning the game aginst the blue and white team of St. Louis U., but do not expect a walkover by any means. Coach Bender and several of his men also returned to this city Sunday from witnessing the game at Champaign and will start in hard training Monday afternoon on the university campus, King's highway and Manchester.

Bender has been working hard with his men on the tackles-shift formation worked so successfully by Yale in the game against Princeton, and in all probability this play will be pulled off against Syracuse. Bender saw the Syracusans play against Illinois and is feeling more confident than ever.

New Plays in Reserve.

He says that his team has at least half a dozen plays that ought to prove of good use in ground gaining which they have not attempted to use in any game so far this season. As he figures at present the team will line up in the same manner as it did against Missouri, with the possible exception of Snyder at end instead of Haley, but this change has not been definitely decided on. It would be hard to improve on that back field, Dockery, quarter; Painter, right-half; McCarthy, left half, and Stadtherr, fullback.

Bender realizes that the Syracuse men outweigh his team several pounds to the man, but he feels that the blue and white eleven will make up in speed and condition for this deficiency.

¶ The man who gets in is the man who has already gotten into characterful, individual attire.

¶ No doubt about it—made-for-you attire of the right sort does get a man a quicker audience—does get him a quicker, more respectful hearing. Why? Simply because all big men of business wear made-to-measure attire.

¶ No doubt about it—our made-to-measure garments possess certain definite points of superiority that should cause you to perfect.

SELLERS DEPRESS U. S. STEEL AND MARKET WEAKENS

Losses Run From One to Two Points on Active Issues.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.

Stocks opened weak and lower today, with losses running close to a point on the active issues. Union Pacific, Steel and Copper were under sharp pressure.

Nothing of importance developed over Sunday to influence market sentiment strongly either way, and a professional market for some time to come is expected by the traders. The source of the recent manipulative buying remains a mystery, but is attributed to strong banking interests.

London market was dull and irregular on home securities, with the copper shares showing a tendency to sell lower. American issues there were weak, with losses of over ½ point recorded on the active favorites. London expects the announcement of the dissolution of Parliament next Monday.

The bank statement made an excellent showing, reducing the excess of loans over deposits to $27,000,000, against $41,000,000 two weeks ago. The reduction this week was about $10,000,000. The large gain in cash was also a striking feature of the statement. Foreign money markets show an easing tendency and the Bank of England is now in a relatively strong position. Wall street capitalists still have their eyes centered on Paris as a market for listing and unloading much of their holdings, which they have found it impossible to unload in our markets.

The selling subsided somewhat in the second hour and the market turned very dull. Even the professionals took little part in the speculation and at times not a sale was recorded on the tape for long periods. The range of prices was close to the low point at the noon hour. Bonds were irregular.

Liquidation was resumed in the late market and prices dropped off additional fractions.

In the active issues the losses ran from 1 to 2 points and U. S. Steel dropped below 80. Minor rallies were not well held and the close was irregular at the decline.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Sales were made in the opening of the stock market today in an attempt to take profits and prices yielded rather weakly. Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper lost a point and St. Paul, Rock Island and American Smelting large fractions. Peoples Gas advanced ⅜.

After the pressure of stocks at the opening was relieved, the market turned upwards, but the advance stopped as speculation grew dull after about half the losses had been made up. American Can preferred and General Electric rose 1, Illinois Central 1¼ and United Railways and Investment preferred 1⅜. Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Rock Island preferred and Utah Copper lost 1, and Allis-Chalmers preferred 2.

London sold stocks because interest carrying charges had become cheaper here than there. The torpid demand from outside sources proved disappointing to speculative holders. Illinois Central, United States Express and Westinghouse Electric made 2 points gains and General Electric 2½. Adams Express fell 3 and Railway Steel Spring 1. Bonds were steady.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The tone was slightly easier, but recessions were unimportant. United States Express improved 5½ and Sears Roebuck 4¼. Western Maryland declined 1 and American Brake Shoe preferred 1⅜.

Representative stocks were at a standstill, but inactive specialties were heavy. Northern Pacific, Erie first preferred, Central Leather and Distillers' Securities yielded a point. Railway Steel Spring preferred rose 4.

Railways preferred met selling pressure on the local Stock Exchange Monday and declined with sales at $41.75 to $41.25 and offerings at the lower figure. The demand was only fair on the decline. Railways common and bonds were inactive.

Mechanics National Bank was again ½ point higher, at $291 bid, and St. Louis Union Trust strong at $410 bid. National Bank of Commerce was firm at $211.

There was little inquiry apparent in the miscellaneous list, but Candy common showed a steady range at $19.25 to $19.50. Brewery bonds were strong at $97 bid and offers far away at $98.

GINNERS' REPORT CAUSES STRONG RISE IN COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The cotton market opened strong at an advance of 23@41 points on excited covering and fresh buying for long account inspired by the census report, showing only 8,764,153 bales of cotton ginned to Nov. 14, when the trade had been discounting a report of practically 9,000,000 bales. Realizing was very heavy on the initial advance; however, some of the big spot people were sellers, and while the circulation of the census figures appeared to be bringing in a lot of outside business, early fluctuations were very irregular.

Trading became a little less active during the late forenoon and the steady selling by some of the large spot people appeared to be discouraging local buying, but the South and West were large buyers here, there was a moderate demand from Europe and prices held a net advance of about 25@32 points at midday. The market closed active.

Spot quiet; middling uplands, 14.55c, nominal. Estimated receipts at the ports today, 55,000 bales, against 62,376 bales last week and 32,842 bales last year. For the week, 375,000 bales, against 314,272 bales last week and 279,675 bales last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 11,920 bales, against 6412 bales last year.

Liverpool, Nov. 21.—Closing: Cotton, spot, good business done; prices 3 points higher; American middling fair, 8.20d; good middling, 7.97d; middling, 7.85d; low middling, 7.65d; good ordinary, 7.39d; ordinary, 7.14d. The sales of the day were 10,000 bales, of which 500 were for speculation and export, and included 9400 American. Receipts, 2000 bales, no American. Futures opened steady and closed steady; Nov., 7.77d; Nov.-Dec., 7.69½d; Dec.-Jan., 7.69d; Jan.-Feb., 7.70d; Feb.-March, 7.72d; March-April, 7.72½d; April-May, 7.72½d; May-June, 7.77½d; June-July, 7.72½d; July-Aug., 7.70d; Aug.-Sept., 7.48d.

COLORADO FUEL & IRON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The highly encouraging report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., showing a profit of $3,742,615, against $2,601,011 in 1909. The surplus available for dividends after paying interests and taxes, was $1,506,819, against $858,375 in the previous year. As the 8 per cent dividend on the $2,000,000 preferred stock would amount to $160,000, there would remain a surplus of $1,346,819 for the $34,235,500 common stock, which is equal to almost 4 per cent. The last year was the best in the history of the company for many years. It may take two or three successful years before the present conservative managers will consider it wise to start dividends on the common stock.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The California political revolt has been the chief element in the failure of the efforts of a powerful bull party to put Southern Pacific up and keep it there. The returns indicate a strong feeling of resentment toward Southern Pacific domination in the far West, and some few investors, and more speculators have, it is believed, been lightening their holdings since Nov. 8. It would seem, however, that the present level had, to some extent, discounted the adverse factors referred to. Then, too, all reports from the Pacific Coast show business to be very active and development work proceeding all over the State at a very rapid rate.

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET.

Expectations that easier interest rates will develop soon seem to be borne out by the remarkably heavy purchases of commercial bills of discount in the past few days by some of the leading national banks of the city. One institution bought more than $250,000 choice paper, maturing in two and three months, and another has taken nearly as much. The rate is working toward a 5 per cent average basis although 5½ per cent is still paid in a number of cases. Demand funds are 5 per cent as a general rule, although the further influx of outside funds may soon force concessions from this quotation.

LIVE STOCK

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 21.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	6,000	9,400	10,400
Hogs	9,500	7,900	11,500
Sheep	500	1,900	1,100
Horses and mules	1,225	1,600	1,500

NATIVE CATTLE—The supply footed up 3700 head and included some desirable to good fat native beef steers. The general tone of the market showed improvement and buyers took hold with more life than they did a week ago. Steers ruled fully steady, with the choice grades bringing $6.25 to $6.75. Cows were wanted and some sales were strong to 10c higher. Calves and bulls remained unchanged. Stock cattle were steady, with the movement manifesting more life than it has done for some days. There is no doubt that the sharp decline and unsatisfactory condition of the market last week had the effect of limiting receipts today.

SOUTHERN CATTLE

The quarantine offerings aggregated 2300 head. The bulk of these, in fact nearly all of them came from Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee and ran entirely to canner and cutter grades. No good steers were on sale, the decline in the market last week evidently scaring off the Oklahoma shippers. Market showed a stronger tone with the movement active.

HOGS—The week opened with a good supply of hogs on sale and the market was on a lower basis. The decline amounted to 10@15c as a rule. The top of the market was $7.25, against $8 last week, showing a loss of 75c. Bulk of the hogs sold at $7@7.15. It was a dull draggy trade the entire day and the market closed on a weak basis with but a fair clearance. Shippers were doing but little business. Butcher hogs sold principally at $7.15@7.25, best packers $7.10@7.20, fair mixed hogs to the packers $6.90@7.05, pigs and lights $7@7.15, while rough sows and stags went from $6.75@7.00 as a rule. The market was on the lowest basis of the year. All buyers were bearish and sellers had to take of the price in order to make sales.

SHEEP—The sheep trade was very quiet from the fact that there was not anything of importance on the market. Best lambs are still selling in the neighborhood of $6@6.25, fair to medium offerings $5.25@5.50, culls $3@4.50 and mutton sheep $3.10@3.25. The offerings were cleaned up quite early in the day and none of the buyers secured as many as they wanted.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market was fairly active throughout the day. Prices were not quite so strong as last week. There are approximately 500 head of horses for today and tomorrow's auctions. Fresh horse receipts for the day approximated 725 head. The mule market was quiet and inactive. Buyers were scarce. Prices remained steady to strong on quality. Fresh mule receipts for the day approximated 500 head.

ARGENTINE NEWS IS CONTROLLING FACTOR IN GRAIN

"Crop Killers," Report Both Frost and Dry Weather Damage.

Argentine reports were the controlling factor in wheat again today, prices showing some minor strength, with manipulative buying in Chicago. The trade, however, did not follow the market aggressively, being inclined to discredit reports on a crop that changes every day apparently in the interest of the Chicago operators. Saturday the cables went so far as to say that the crop of Argentine was suffering from frost damage in the northern part and hot winds in the southern part. Today's cables modified it to frost in the northern part and dry weather in the southern part.

Liverpool wheat opened ¼@½c higher and then shot up to an advance of 1d on this daily cable from Argentine reporting frost damage in the northern part and dry weather in the southern part. The Buenos Ayres market was firm on the advices. Liverpool corn was quiet but steady in sympathy with wheat.

World's shipments of wheat for the week overran the estimates nearly 2,000,000 bu, totaling 14,960,000 bu, against 16,160,000 bu last week and 12,832,000 bu last year.

Shipments in detail were:

	Last Wk.	Pre. Wk.	Last Yr.
American	3,928,000	3,808,000	5,080,000
Russian	6,528,000	8,048,000	6,112,000
Danubian	2,256,000	1,928,000	632,000
Indian	496,000	1,200,000	176,000
Argentine	840,000	608,000	320,000
Australian	736,000	368,000	304,000
Chile and N. Africa	176,000	200,000	208,000

Wheat on passage for the week increased 1,200,000 bu, the total showing 42,728,000 bu, against 41,528,000 bu last week and 31,992,000 bu last year.

Liverpool stocks of wheat are 6,448,000 bu; last week, 6,400,000 bu; last year, 1,720,000 bu. Corn, 944,000 bu; last week, 1,028,000 bu; last year, 2,064,000 bu.

Spot wheat closed ½@1d up, futures ⅝@⅞d up. Spot corn unchanged to ¼d up, futures ⅛d up. Paris and Budapest delayed. Antwerp wheat unchanged. Berlin 1c higher.

The corn market was quiet and steady, the firm tone in wheat having a tendency to make sellers cautious. There is no important change in the market's position. Weather is clear over the belt. Oats were neglected by the speculative element.

World's shipments of corn for the week totaled 3,510,000 bu, against 5,846,000 bu last week and 1,796,000 bu last year.

Shipments in detail were:	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Last Year.

Local corn receipts today, 63,120 bu, or 288 sacks, 44 cars local, 8 through; last year, 77,000 bu, or 69 cars local, 1 through.

Local oats receipts today, 102,001 bu, or 41 cars local, 19 through; last year 73,600 bu, or 29 cars local, 17 through.

Total primary wheat receipts today 1,026,324 bu, against 1,506,083 bu last year; shipments 582,369 bu, against 1,071,874 bu last year.

B. W. Snow wired: "Frost in the Northern Argentine is incredible. Harvest is under way there now, and it would be equivalent by latitude to frost in Northern Texas in June."

General denials of damage in the Argentine gave the bears the advantage in the last hour and wheat prices closed slightly below Saturday's final figures. Corn and oats also showed a lower tendency.

Export clearances of wheat and flour today, 347,000 bu, of corn 17,000 bu, of oats 1000 bu.

The Canadian wheat visible this week is 12,333,000 bu, against 13,222,000 bu last week and 11,090,000 bu last year. Canadian bonded wheat in the United States increased 641,000 bu for the week to 3,236,000 bu, against 2,594,000 bu last year.

The domestic wheat visible for the week increased 1,4031,000 bu, to 43,320,000 bu against 41889000 bu last week and 27,629,000 bu last year. Corn increased 48,000 bu to 2,355,000 bu, against 2,307,000 bu last week and 2,631,000 bu last year. Oats decreased 448,000 bu to 15,681,000 bu, against 16,129,000 bu last week and 13,915,000 bu last year. Last week wheat increased 1,523,000 bu and last year 1,153,000 bu.

Chicago wheat stocks are 6,104,000 bu, against 6,136,000 bu last week and 1,723,000 bu last year.

Cash wheat closed unchanged to ½c higher all around; demand quiet, but firm.

Cash corn lower and irregular as to price; demand limited.

Cash oats ½@1c lower for white grades; demand slow; mixed oats steady.

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event. Mother's Friend is woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens the tissues. Mother's Friend leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

AMERICAN STOCKS IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 21.—American securities opened a fraction higher today. Trading was quiet and an irregular movement followed the opening advance. At noon the market was easy, with values ranging from ¼ above to ¼ below Saturday's New York closing. In the afternoon profit-taking and Wall Street offerings caused a reaction and made the closing dull.

SUBTREASURY STATEMENT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Subtreasury gained $45,000 from banks Saturday, reducing cash net loss since Friday to $1,581,000.

BODY PRICED AT $200; OWNER IS ANXIOUS TO EAT

Thinks Money Would Last Two Weeks and Then He Would Kill Himself.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Tired of the struggle to eke out an existence, but wishing to have a good time before he ends his life, a man who said his name was Robert Tyler startled Desk Sergeant O'Connor, at the Harrison Street Police Station last night, by offering to kill himself for $200.

"I mean it," said the man, who had come to ask for lodging. "You may think I'm crazy, but I'm not. If any medical college in Chicago gives me $200, I will agree that my body be given to it for dissection purposes. Two hundred dollars would enable me to live like a king for about two weeks, and at the end of that time I'd be ready to quit here."

The caller was about 40 years old. He was thinly clad, and his frame shook from the damp, chilly atmosphere of the street.

"What is there in life for me, anyway?" he said. "I'm no good to myself or anybody else. I have no relatives, and there is no one depending on me.

"I don't envy anybody, but I would like to taste a little of the pleasures of life before I die. For that reason I'd be willing to sell myself for $200. The first thing I'd do would be to eat a square meal."

Sergt. O'Connor directed the man to the municipal lodging house, where food and shelter were provided.

TELLS IN CHURCH HOW TO BE HAPPY AFTER MARRIAGE

E. George Payne, Psychologist, Says Women Can Be Contented Even Though They May Be Hungry.

Married couples, as well as those eligible to the matrimonial state, heard Prof. E. George Payne, teacher of psychology at the St. Louis Teachers' College, tell at the Second Christian Church Sunday afternoon of the qualities which are needed to make married life happy. His talk was the first in a series of weekly lectures on matrimony.

"Several wives told me after the meeting," said Prof. Payne Monday, "that they thought their husbands would be better for having heard the lecture, and that they would be better wives."

"Money isn't all," said the speaker in telling of the things requisite for happy homes. "A woman can be happy hungry. The husband must be loyal to his wife, and frank concerning his business affairs, which are the concern of both. The wife must show an interest in the man's work, and must fit herself to be his adviser.

"Without the husband and wife being equally busy, and sharing responsibilities and burdens equally, there may be a legalized living together, but not a true marriage."

Has Faith in Intuitions.

Prof. Payne advised men to seek and to take the advice of their wives in money matters. Pastor I. A. Humberd gave similar advice, saying that the intuitions of women are often more to be trusted than the logical conclusions of their husbands.

"If a wife says 'don't' trust that man, have nothing to do with him," said Pastor Humberd, "a man would better heed her advice. Woman lives on a higher spiritual plane than man, and her intuitive faculties are keen. Many men have bitterly regretted that they did not take their wives' advice at some critical time in their lives."

Questions from the audience following Prof. Payne's lecture brought from him the admission that he favored woman suffrage, but only in the distant future. If it were to be decided today by his vote, he said, he would vote against it.

A great need of the present, he said, was for mothers who should know how to give their sons early training toward fitting them for practical affairs.

Gives History of Marriage.

Prof. Payne's lecture began with an outline of the historical aspects of marriage and family life. Emotion, as connected with the family, had been of gradual development, he said. The race has now reached the stage, he declared, where the man makes the prospect of matrimony as attractive as possible to the woman, but not the stage where, in every case, these attractive prospects are sustained by the later developments.

The series of lectures on matrimonial subjects was arranged by the pastors of the Second Christian, Trinity Methodist and Union Congregational churches, all in North St. Louis. Next Sunday afternoon the young women will be addressed at the Second Christian Church by Dr. Frances L. Bishop, and the young men will be addressed at Union Congregational Church by Dr. W. A. Fuchs. Later a supper will be served to all at the Second Christian Church.

THE WILL IS FOUND

Disgruntled Relatives Prepare to Contest Document Found in Old Wagon.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Fact continues its effort to outdo fiction in the case of the $200,000 Ranier estate at Burlington, N. J. One month ago Mrs. Tillie Foulkes was sent to a madhouse. It was because she became convinced that after many times promising to leave her the bulk of his fortune, Ranier had made no will with any provision for her future. She was the daughter of one of the old man's brothers, and childless Schuyler Ranier had made a favorite of her from her earliest childhood.

A scene duplicating that in Arthur Wing Pinero's drama of English life, "The Thunderbolt," occurred at the sudden finding of the will. The majority of the heirs under the partition of the estate ordered by the Court were present with their lawyers. Suddenly the door burst open and Harry Bishop ran in breathless. He had bought an old wagon at the sale of the Ranier effects, and in it had found an account book. In the book was Ranier's will.

Found in a Wagon.

Bishop rushed into the room, crying out: "I've found Rainer's will," and gave the document to Attorney Gaskill, representing the administrator of the estate. The lawyer read the will aloud. Many of the heirs scowled to discover no mention of their names. Others who had been left out sniffed scornfully and called the document a plant. Not until the end of the will did the provision of the bulk of the property to Mrs. Foulkes come. Then many of the heirs went to the side of these who declared the will was a plant.

But a very old woman and a tottering 92-year-old man—Jane Nixon, who had been Ranier's housekeeper for more than half a century, and Samuel Richardson, who has been his farm hand for even a longer period—shed tears for joy. With the closing of the sale at the homestead these infirm persons would have found themselves penniless and without shelter. They had completed their preparations to go to the county poorhouse. But the finding of the will stopped the sale and left them the roof over their heads for months to come, and clauses of the will provided that each was to receive $1000, which will go a long way in a farming country.

Signature Unmistakable.

The disgusted heirs will fight the will. It was signed by only one witness, a brother, Lambert Ranier, who is dead. The body of the document was written in a woman's hand, but it bore the characteristic, rugged signature of Ranier. The idea that the will may be a forgery is generally discredited, because Bishop could have no possible interest in the division of the estate and the chief beneficiary is in a mad house.

Friends of this niece and many others say they heard Ranier tell her often he meant to leave her the largest share of his estate. And the other legatee, who would have been the greatest gainer by the will is Lambert Ranier, who is dead.

The farmer dropped dead not many months ago in a corn field on his farm. Murder was suspected, but medical examination gave apoplexy as the cause of his death.

Friends hurried to the asylum in hope the good news might restore the mind of Mrs. Foulkes, but she could not be made to understand what they said.

LECTURES ON NEW RELIGION

Benjamin Fay Mills of Boston Delivers Two Talks.

Benjamin Fay Mills of Boston delivered two lectures in St. Louis Sunday afternoon. His afternoon topic was "The Prophet Emerson, the Greatest Man of Modern Times, and "What the World Never Knew Till Now" at night. Both lectures were delivered at the Masonic Temple hall in the Odeon Building.

Mills will continue his lectures in St. Louis at Henneman Hall during the week, speaking both afternoon and evening. All lectures are free to the public. Mills formerly was a Presbyterian minister and evangelist, but now is advocating a new creedless religion called "The Fellowship."

TWO GIRLS KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Escorts Have a Narrow Escape Unionville, Mo.

UNIONVILLE, Mo., Nov. 21.—Two girls were killed near here yesterday while returning from a dance and their escorts narrowly escaped, when their team ran away. Pheny Baquet, 18 years old, and Laura Powell, the same age, were riding with Clyde Baquet and Carence Fullerton.

The buggy struck a stump in the road and Baquet, the driver, was thrown out. The team ran away and the girls, who jumped, were killed.

BRIAN ASSAULTED BY ROYALIST

French Premier Struck Twice in the Face Before Crowd.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Imposing national ceremonies in the Tuileries Garden yesterday in connection with the dedication of a statue of Jules Ferry, French statesman, were marred by an assault upon Premier Briand, who, while walking with President Fallieres was struck twice on the face by a Royalist. The Premier was not severely hurt.

The crowd which had gathered in the garden set upon the Premier's assailant, but intervention by the Republican guards saved him from being beaten to death. The incident was witnessed by thousands.

WORST COLD IS BROKEN AND GRIPPE MISERY RELIEVED IN SEVERAL HOURS.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.—ADV.

The Brown Shoe Co.,
St. Louis.
We have scored one of the biggest successes in the history of Buster Brown receptions here at Rochester for Duffy-McInerney Company one of the finest department stores in New York State. Rochester, the home of children's shoe making, has gone wild over Buster Brown and Tige and Buster Brown Blue Ribbon Shoes. The seventh floor crowded beyond its capacity. Hundreds turned away by the police without catching even a glimpse of Buster. Duffy-McInerney Co. delighted beyond expression.
